

CONG. MCGILLICUDDY

Addressed Two Rallies of "Un- terrified" Democrats

The Storm Failed to Keep the Voters Away—Speeches Were Made by Col. Carmichael, Major Crowley, James E. O'Donnell, Daniel M. Nolan, of Somerville, Philip Kiely, of Lynn and Others

The fitness of the term "unterrified" to the democratic party was never more eloquently exemplified than last night when with the rain coming down in torrents and the wind blowing a gale, two largely attended rallies were held in different parts of the city, following three rallies on the previous evening.

It was originally intended to have three rallies last evening but as Lincoln hall and Keyes' auction room are so near together it was decided in the interest of the speakers to combine these two, which was done, the rally being held at the auction room.

The principal speaker was Congressman-elect McGillicuddy of Lewiston, Me., a most forceful and popular speaker, and those who braved the night to hear him were well repaid.

The rally in Keyes' auction room was called to order by Thomas J. Mulligan, chairman of the democratic city committee, who introduced as the presiding officer John J. Mahoney, the well known labor man. Mr. Mahoney spoke on the labor records of Col. Ames in the legislature and subsequently in congress and urged all to vote for Col. Carmichael and the straight democratic ticket.

Congressman McGillicuddy spoke in part as follows:

"I came here tonight to appeal to your intelligence. I have fought a campaign similar to this and never appealed to anything but reason. I appeal to you to vote the democratic ticket. Let us see, democrats and republicans, if we cannot get together, and for once forget the party ticket."

"They tell us in this country we are rich. It depends on who we are. Somehow or other I am led to believe that it does not matter how much wealth there is in our country but rather how it is distributed. We are worth $120,000,000,000."

"We! I tell you 70 per cent. of that wealth is owned by 200,000 men out of a population of 85,000,000. If you are in that 200,000, you are 'we.' How do you like it? That means 20 per cent. of the wealth is owned by the rest of that 85,000,000. That's your trouble. There's something wrong. That's not equality. Under a fair rule it wouldn't be so. These trusts have us in their power."

"The trouble is right here in the tariff. You won't find any republican who is not in it except deliberately. He skips over it. Edmund Burke says the greatest struggle for freedom are fought on account of taxation. I admire Blaine and Dingley. They were my friends. If they were alive today they would be on the democratic platform. The tariff wall is no longer practical for you and me. A new element has crept in. It is the trust. Who would have thought 20 years ago that all the beef in this country could be monopolized by one combination? You didn't think so then. You do now."

"The coat on your back, your vest, everything on you pays tribute to the trust. Once you took a basket to the market and brought back the goods in it. Now you leave the basket at home and bring back the goods in your vest. This issue comes right home to all of us. Everything gets a little higher and the package gets a little smaller. Mr. Roosevelt says that's a minor issue. It will be an issue when Mr. Roosevelt is minor."

"I believe in an honest man and an honest corporation but a corporation is no better than a man."

"The republicans in Maine have made our state the dumping ground for fake and fraudulent corporations and we are going to get rid of it. The republicans say a vote for the democratic ticket means a vote to close the mills and we are not going to close our mills either. I have often wondered why laboring men do not take the cue."

"It makes my heart bleed to hear the trusts think so much about the laboring man. They say the wages have increased. Now there's nothing so dangerous as a half-truth. There's another end to it. Laboring men must support their families. While it's true that wages in 20 years have increased 20 per cent., the cost of living has increased 60 per cent. It means families are getting along without the things they ought to have. Senator Lodge is a trust man. I won't say he's dishonest. I simply say he is a trust man. Senator Cummings of Iowa, a republican, says the Payne-Aldrich tariff bill is a repudiation of republican promises. He had no reason to say that unless it is true."

The appearance of Major Robert J. Crowley, the Hamilton leader, in the convention on the platform, was the signal for applause. Major Crowley assured the audience that while the convention had been strenuous in the extreme it had left no stones behind, and that every Hamilton man will be a loss supporter on election day. He then spoke on the congressional campaign, strongly advocating the election of Col. Carmichael.

Other speakers were Daniel J. Donahue, Daniel M. Nolan of Somerville, representing the A. P. of L., Philip Kiely of Lynn, candidate for senator in the seventh district, and James H. Rogers, candidate for representative in the 14th district.

All went to the rally in Mathew hall after leaving the auction room. Another large gathering assembled here. James E. O'Donnell presided at the Mathew hall rally and spoke forcefully on the issues of the campaign. Mr. O'Donnell stated that the time had arrived for the common people to assert themselves and he predicted a general democratic victory throughout the commonwealth.

THE WELCOME RAIN CRIPPEN TO HANG

Brought Relief to Farmers and Trade to Car Lines He Will Pay the Death Penalty Next Tuesday

The old saying, "When it rains it pours" is a very true one. Several weeks ago the farmers were praying for rain in order that the land might be irrigated and wells filled and the public generally felt that rain would do considerable good by way of laying the kerm laden dust. The mills and factories were suffering from low water and these, too were benefited by the rain.

During the past 36 hours, however, the precipitation has been very heavy. The farmer is satisfied with the amount of rain and is willing to have it stop now. Since Wednesday night the rainfall has been two inches, according to the record kept by the proprietors of the Locks & Canals in Broadway.

The storm started Wednesday and has continued up to the present time. In reality there were two storms, for Thursday it stopped raining for a time.

During the storm of Wednesday night and early Thursday morning .475 inches of rain fell.

Yesterday, however, the storm broke forth with violence and from the time it started until this morning 1.513 inches of rain fell.

Yesterday noon the rain started to descend in torrents and it continued to fall heavily during the afternoon. Last night, however, the storm reached its height.

Very few ventured out last night, and the streets were practically deserted.

It is said that "it is an ill wind that blows nobody good," and the Boston & Northern did a rushing business yesterday and last evening. Extra cars were put on the different lines and yet there were not enough cars to care for the people during the rush after 6 o'clock last night. The stablekeepers and taxicab owners also derived some benefit from the storm. The stores, it is said, sold quite a large number of umbrellas, and the shoe stores did a rushing business on rubbers, so even if you did get a soaking by the rain last night just remember that to the vast majority the storm was a benefit.

LONDON, Nov. 5.—Dr. Hawley H. Crippen, convicted of the murder of his wife, Belle Elmore, the actress, today played his last card, and lost. He will be hanged next Tuesday.

The criminal court of appeals heard his appeal from the conviction of the lower court and decided against him on all points. The court refused to grant a new trial and confirmed the order of execution, which will be carried out on Tuesday next.

SUPT. N.F. PUTNAM

Talks of Smooth Paving and Other Street Work

Lowell F. Putnam, superintendent of streets, said today that unless the snow should fly earlier than usual the smooth paving job now in progress in Merrimack street will be completed this year. Some time next week, for a few days only, a small portion of Merrimack street in the vicinity of city hall will be closed to travel. The smooth paving job extends from the railroad crossing in Dutton street to Eldon street and one side of the street is finished and the entire street will be closed until the finished side has sufficiently hardened for travel.

The street railway company pitched in to help the street department along and stretched electric lights along the scene of operations so that they could lay rails at night. It was Wednesday night that the street railway men worked and then the rain came and rather spoiled their good intentions. Tamping the ties was out of the question when the rain started and just for that they had to wait. There's a big gang of men at work laying rails today and there will be no let up until the job is completed.

Delay in the arrival of rails ordered by the street railway company put the street department back a few days, but Mr. Putnam says it was not the fault of the railway people. They ordered the rails, but they got sidetracked between here and Boston and were a week late in arriving. "Taking all in all," said Mr. Putnam, "I am quite satisfied with the way the job is going and unless the snow flies earlier than usual we will be ready for it when it comes."

Congress Street Bridge
Work on the Congress street bridge is going merrily along. Mr. Putnam said today that work on this bridge would be continued during Sunday. "We have no time to lose," he said, "and while I am not in favor of Sunday work I do not see how it can very well be helped in this case. We have so much work on our hands that it is absolutely necessary to keep pegging away. The concrete part of the roadway in connection with the Congress street bridge will be finished by Monday night."

"The Lawrence street bridge is a tough proposition. We were working nights on that Lawrence street job but conditions were such that the engineer called off the night work. The engineers have decided that we will have to drive piles for the Lawrence street bridge and put concrete around them. The foundation we are up against there is a hard one to deal with. The best we can do, however, is to do the best we can."

BLEW OPEN SAFE

Robbers Made Raid in Vermont Early This Morning

Two Post Offices Were Entered— They Were Fired Upon by a Mail Carrier—Stamps and Cash Were Stolen

THETFORD, Vt., Nov. 5.—Robbers made a raid through southeastern Orange county last night and early today, breaking into the postoffices at Thetford Center and West Fairlee and being fired upon by Sherman Rogers, a mail carrier, as they were making their escape from their last robbery.

The robbers reached Thetford Center shortly before midnight and, entering a small store, blew open the safe. They found it empty and while the explosion was heard it was sufficiently muffled so that it did not arouse the citizens. The next break was at West Fairlee, where the store of Milo Keiser was entered and the postoffice safe blown open. The robbers took $200 in stamps and cash, but the noise had awakened nearby residents and the fire alarm was sounded. The robbers jumped into a wagon and dashed towards South Fairlee, but the surrounding countryside had been aroused and on the way they encountered Sherman Rogers, a mail carrier, armed with a shotgun. Rogers fired two charges of buckshot at them, only to see them leap from their wagon and dash into the woods, leaving behind all their plunder.

A posse was organized and at 9 a.m. the woods were being searched for the burglars.

HE SHOT YOUTH

Man Then Fled to the Woods

MEREDITH, N. H., Nov. 5.—Thos. Connolly, a farmhand, shot Fred Burke, 15 years old, in the head late yesterday. He then fired three shots at Edward Wiggin, by whom he was discharged a week ago, none of which took effect, and then made his escape.

Connolly, who had been drinking, left the village about 3 o'clock to go to Wiggin's farm, which is about a mile out on the road to Laconia. He met Burke, who was employed by Wiggin, near the farmhouse, driving the cows home from pasture. He fired at him point blank, the bullet entering the boy's head just above the right eye. He is believed to have a chance for recovery.

Connolly then continued along the road until he saw Wiggin driving a hayrack. He fired three shots at him, after which he took to the woods. The police have taken up the search.

SERIOUSLY HURT

Dispute Ends in Shoot- ing Affray

UPTON, Nov. 5.—As a result of a dispute over the purchase of a peck of potatoes and a pack of playing cards that started in a store here yesterday afternoon, Giovanni Duvalls, aged about 25, lies in a serious condition in the Milford hospital with two bullet wounds in his body.

The man accused of doing the shooting, Giuseppe Algolia, is missing, together with several others with whom he was employed in construction work on a sewer system in this town.

Both men went to the store about 1.00 yesterday and made their purchases peacefully, but started quarreling when they tried to apportion the cost of the potatoes and cards. They returned to a shanty and there the shooting took place.

The victim was shot in the breast and left hand, a third bullet from a revolver grazing his left shoulder. A doctor removed the bullet from his hand and sent him to the Milford hospital.

The men were employed by Frank Gallo, a contractor.

VOTED PARK LOAN CARMICHAEL BY 2000

The Common Council Reversed Its Action of Previous Meeting

Question of Dummer Street Extension Reopened and Referred to Special Committee

Both branches of the city council held special meetings last night and voted to borrow $10,000 for the development of Shedd park.

This was the very purpose for which Mayor Meehan called the special meetings. At its meeting Tuesday night the common council killed the original Shedd park order for $10,000. The action of the council was a great surprise and Mayor Meehan believed that if given another chance the council would vote the money for the development of the park.

In calling the special meetings, however, the mayor builded better than he knew, for the common council didn't stop at reversing its position in the Shedd park matter. The council also reconsidered its action in accepting the adverse report of the committee on streets in connection with Dummer street extension and, on motion of Councilman Dow who introduced the minority report and who stood alone on the committee on streets as in favor of the Dummer street extension, the council voted to appoint a committee of three councilmen and two aldermen to act with the city solicitor and inspector of buildings in the matter of the extension. This action reopened the whole question.

Another change of front on the part of the common council had to do with the police auto patrol and an automobile for the fire chief. Last night the council voted to borrow $5000 for a police patrol and $2000 for an automobile for the chief of the fire department. At the last meeting the council refused to vote the money.

Board of Aldermen

Chairman Gray called to order at 8 o'clock with eight members present. Alderman Carmichael was not in favor of $5000 for an auto police patrol. He said he did not believe in paying interest on $5000 for ten years. "It is not the right kind of financing and it is not fair to the taxpayers," he said. When the question of voting to borrow the money was put, Mr. Carmichael voted against it. The other seven members voted in favor. Alderman Qua was this absentee.

A recess of one hour was voted in order that the common council might be heard from on the question of the $10,000 loan for Shedd park. As soon as the common council voted the loan it was sent to the board of aldermen and was adopted by the aldermen in concurrence.

Common Council

There were 27 members present when President Jewett called to order at 9:40 o'clock.

The joint order providing that the park commission be asked to name the Anne street park "Lucy Larcom park" was adopted in concurrence. The $10,000 loan order for the development of Shedd park, introduced by Councilman Chapman was read.

The Order Adopted

The question then came on the original proposition to borrow $10,000. The vote showed 25 in favor and 1 against. Mr. Howe voted against it. On motion of Councilman Tracey the vote was made unanimous.

Democratic Candidate Makes Prediction on Result

Republicans Concede That Foss Will Carry Lowell by 3000 Votes—What the Other Candidates Are Doing

The state campaign is fast drawing to a close and all indications point to a general democratic victory.

Last year Mr. Vahay carried Lowell by 2500, and the fifth congressional district by nearly 2800.

This year even republicans concede that Mr. Foss will carry Lowell by 3000, and while Ames' men of course will not admit that their pot is to be defeated they are striving greatly and are inclined to criticize Col. Ames for giving so much attention to his contest with Lodge and so little to his congressional contest. Since the publication of the Ames' letter to Lodge, they are more worried than ever. With the democratic vote of the district behind him there is no doubt that Col. Carmichael will be elected. He has made a fine campaign and has addressed voters in every corner of the district. He has drawn hundreds of republicans to him and also has drawn back many of the so-called Ames' democrats of both Lowell and Lawrence. The fact that Congressmen Ames has employed democrats to assist him in his contest for the senate should not influence any democratic voter away from his duty to the people. Foss, Cassidy and Carmichael are winners.

Carmichael by 2000

In conversation with the writer today Col. Carmichael said:

"I expect to carry the fifth district by about 2000 votes. I am confident that I will receive the democratic vote of Lowell and Lawrence. Conditions that prevailed in congressional campaigns in days gone by have entirely disappeared. The convention which nominated me was thoroughly harmonious and since that time the democrats of Lawrence have assured me of their support. I am receiving daily most encouraging reports from the towns and the assurances of support from republican sources have really surprised me. Lowell has ever given me a handsome vote and if I receive my party vote in this city I am confident that my majority will be in the vicinity of 2000.

The Senatorial Contests

While all the noise of the campaign has been made in the interest of the big guns of the party the senatorial and representative candidates have not been idle but have been canvassing their respective districts by personal solicitation and have worked untiringly. Candidate Philip Kiley in the seventh senatorial district has aroused great interest in his cause among the democrats of wards five and nine.

Final proposition to borrow $10,000. The vote showed 25 in favor and 1 against. Mr. Howe voted against it. On motion of Councilman Tracey the vote was made unanimous.

The joint order to borrow $2000 for the fire chief's new automobile was adopted. 23 to 1. Councilman Flanagan moved reconsideration at the next meeting, he having voted in the minority.

The joint order to borrow $5000 for a police patrol was read and unanimously passed. At the last meeting, the council refused to vote the money. On motion of Councilman Flanagan it was voted to omit the next regular meeting.

The Dummer street extension came up on Councilman Dow's motion. He considered the action whereby the council at the last meeting voted to adopt the majority report of the committee on streets, that Dummer street be not extended.

A ye and nay vote was taken and it showed 17 for reconsideration and 10 against.

"I asked for reconsideration," said Mr. Dow, "because I believed that further consideration of the question was due the petitioners. This matter has been before the public for 20 years and I believe that the acceptance of the majority report would not be in accordance with the city's best interests, and I move that the matter be turned over to a committee consisting of three members of the common council and two members of the board of aldermen and that this committee be assisted by the city solicitor and inspector of buildings, and that both majority and minority reports be referred to this committee."

Councilman Goolin opposed the motion on the ground that the committee on streets had gone into the matter thoroughly.

Councilman Genest said he didn't know what Councilman Dow meant by referring the matter to a special committee. Mr. Genest is a member of the committee on streets and he said that the committee had considered the matter very carefully before recommending that the petitioners for the extension of Dummer street be given leave to withdraw.

Councilman Flanagan said he was opposed to the special committee. He said it looked like a slap at the street committee and he allowed that that committee was all right.

Councilman Dow said that the petition had been signed by 130 persons, and he didn't believe that the signers of the petition expected the city council to make a farce of the matter.

Councilman Flanagan moved that the two reports be referred back to the committee on streets.

Councilman John Davis was opposed to this motion. He allowed that the committee on streets would adhere to its former action if the matter should be reconsidered.

Councilman Flanagan's motion was put and lost. Councilman Goolin passed a little "phumach" to Councilman Dow. He said he was fully in favor of Mr. Dow's attitude throughout and admired him for standing up in his boots and bringing in a minority report. He did not believe, however, in the proposition for a special committee.

The question then came on Mr. Dow's motion for a special committee and it was voted. The vote was 17 to 10. Adjourned.

Heretofore the democrats of that district, particularly those in Lowell, took but little interest in the senatorial nominations as they believed they had no chance to elect. Mr. Kiley, a clean cut man, a forceful speaker and backed up by a fine legislative record, has come to Lowell and assured the voters of his support and will win. As a result Mr. Kiley will receive the biggest vote ever given a senatorial candidate in the fifth district.

In the eighth district the democrats are fortunate in having a strong candidate in the person of Hon. Fisher H. Pearson, who was the first democrat of recent years to break into the senate from these parts which had been specially gerrymandered in the interest of the republican party. Mr. Pearson knows how to conduct a campaign and has left no stone unturned to bring about success. While a member of the senate he made a creditable record and has received the endorsement of organized labor in this section. Mr. Pearson will receive a big vote in the seven wards of the city while he has a wide acquaintance in the towns, and thoroughly canvassed them.

The Representatives

In only three districts are there contests, as the others are foregone conclusions, as it were.

In the 14th, 17th and 19th the democracy has a chance and the candidates therein are improving every opportunity.

In the 14th district the democracy is particularly fortunate in having as its candidate James H. Rogers, who, at present a well known and popular resident of ward one, has also resided for years in Dracut and was a member of the school board in that town, so that he is thoroughly known to men of both parties in both sections of the district. Mr. Rogers has a clean record, is in every way competent to represent the district, and having been a resident of Dracut knows the town needs as well as those of the city.

In the 17th there has always been a chance for a democrat as John J. McMahon, James E. O'Donnell and others have won strong republican honors. The democrats present Messrs. Stephen Monahan and Thomas H. Golden as the candidates in this district, both having made excellent runs last year. Mr. Monahan is the well known employee of the Lowell Gas Light company and a member of the Lowell Central and Maine Steamship line. Mr. Golden is a member of Lowell lodge of Elks and the Electrical Mechanics union. Both are most desirable candidates and should receive their full party vote.

Another Term for Cuff

A battle-royal is on in the 19th district where Representative Thomas S. Cuff is seeking a second term with Lawyer Frederick P. Marble as his republican opponent. Mr. Marble has been "selected" to bring the district back to the republican ranks. But the voters after one year of Mr. Cuff's stewardship are not at all desirous of making a change this year. Those who voted for him last year are thoroughly satisfied with his action while many who did not vote for him last year will do so this year as the result of the fine showing that he made during his first year in the legislature. Seldom does a representative, much less a democratic representative, get an opportunity to distinguish himself in the eyes of his district during his first year at the house but Rep. Cuff proved to be a notable exception and jumped to prominence among his colleagues in his first year. He was one of the most popular members in the house and one of its leading vote getters. He says little, but does much. He was one of the principal supporters of the corporation tax bill which meant hundreds of thousands of dollars to Lowell and he secured many votes for the measure through his personal popularity. The town of Tewksbury owes him a lasting debt of gratitude for getting through the bill to reimburse cities and towns for taxes lost through the establishment of state institutions. This bill meant thousands of dollars to Tewksbury and his speech on the floor while the bill among the legislators was known as "Cuff's Hobby" as he stuck to it until a successful issue was brought about. As a member of the committee on public health Rep. Cuff introduced a bill to restrict the sale of morphine and other depraving drugs which was considered one of the most important measures of the session. Grand Labor Rally

A grand labor rally will be held at the rooms of the Trades and Labor council, 32 Middle street, Sunday afternoon at 2:30, under the auspices of the political activity committee of the state branch of the American Federation of Labor, and many prominent labor men from different parts of the state will address the gathering. Everyone is invited.

Another Democratic Rally

The campaign will close in this city with a democratic rally in Association hall on Monday evening. Prominent speakers will be present. An effort is being made to get Mayor Fitzgerald of Boston to speak here.

THIEF FOILED

WOMAN CAUGHT HIM CARRYING OFF TYPEWRITER

CHESTER, Vt., Nov. 5.—An unknown man entered the Insurance office of Malcolm Baldwin Thursday evening, apparently for the sole purpose of stealing Miss Mary Baldwin's new typewriter.

He was discovered by Miss Baldwin, who heard a noise, and upon going to the hall door she saw the man leaving the room with the typewriter. She grabbed for the machine, but was thrown one side by the man. She then struck him on the side of the head with her fist and when he attempted to take her by the throat she grabbed a chair and struck the man over the head twice with it. He dropped the machine and ran to the street, a defeated would-be thief.

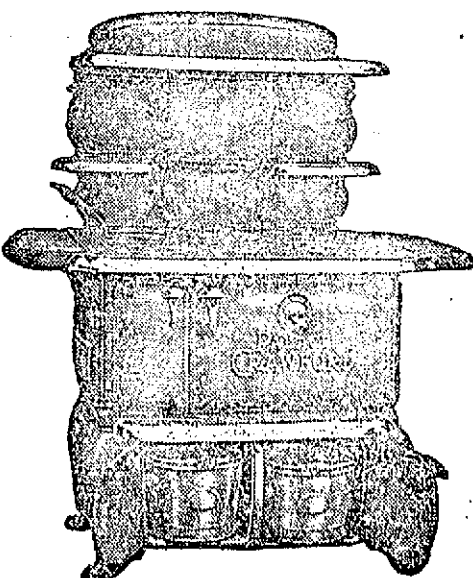

A carriage was in waiting for the man across the street. It was a plucky piece of work by the young woman. The office room is on the ground floor and was dark at the time.

Crawford Ranges

few others would be sold

In the saving of time, trouble and labor and in superior cooking ability, no other range can compare with them.

The Single Damper (patented) is the only perfect fire and oven control; one motion—slide the knob to "kindle," "bake" or "check," and the range does the rest.

The Two Hods in the base (patented) is a wonderful trouble-saving feature. One Hod for ashes, instead of the old, clumsy ash pan; the other Hod for coal.

The Oven with its cup-joint flues is heated all over alike; no "cold corners," no "scorching spots".

The Patented Grates save trouble and money.

Auxiliary Gas Ranges at the end or above the range, if desired.

SAMUEL GOMPERS

Has Endorsed the Candidacy of Mr. Foss

The attitude of Samuel Gompers on the candidacy of Mr. Foss in this campaign is fully explained in a telegram of recent date, which reads as follows:

"Washington, D. C., October 23, 1910. James W. Wall, Chairman, Political Activity Committee, Quincy House, Boston, Mass.

Telegram received, American Federation of Labor has no desire to interfere in a purely state campaign. If Mr. Foss will stand true to labor's rights, he should be supported. Under any circumstances, a man who will veto so necessary a measure as an eight hour work day bill as Governor Draper did, ought to be defeated. Saml Gompers."

Mr. Foss is being held responsible for the doings of every company in which he is a stockholder, which is not fair to him or to his party.

SOCIAL AND FRATERNAL

Lowell lodge, No. 22, Ancient Order of United Workmen, will tender a complimentary banquet to Pacific lodge, No. 6, of Lawrence, in their rooms, Odd Fellows temple, Thursday evening, November 10. A reception will begin at 7:30 o'clock, to continue for half an hour. A banquet will be served on the upper floor, beginning at 8 o'clock. The toastmaster will be P. M. W. Frederick G. Humphries, and there will be addresses by Grand Master Workman Albert H. Clement of Manchester, N. H.; District Deputy Grand Master Workman John J. Hart of Lawrence and others. A musical entertainment will also be in order.

The Red Men

The regular meeting of Passaconaway tribe of Red Men was held last night at Odd Fellows temple. Sachem Albert Stoddard occupied the chair. There was a large attendance of members and a number of visiting chiefs were present.

A communication was received from Great Sachem John W. Converse, stating that he had appointed Past Great Sachem C. A. Libby a member of the grand council state of the order. He also referred to matters of this reservation. The visiting chiefs spoke on their tribal affairs. The finance committee gave a good account of the tribe's condition financially and in point of membership.

Woman's Relief Corps

James A. Garfield, W. R. C. 32, met for sewing and supper Thursday afternoon. In the evening the annual inspection took place. Mrs. Mary A. Lundell, the department inspector, officiating. Mrs. Mina Kilpatrick, the president, was in the chair. One candidate was initiated and one admitted on a transfer. Mrs. Little Cochran presided in an admirable manner at the piano. The corps will observe its 27th anniversary on Nov. 17. Supper will be served at 7 o'clock to post and corps. There were interesting remarks by members and visitors. On Nov. 17, the regular meeting will be held in the afternoon.

Order of Eagles

The regular meeting of Lowell Aerie, Fraternal Order of Eagles, was held last night at Foresters hall. Worthy President John H. Farrell occupying the chair. A committee of ten was appointed to consider the advisability of conducting a ball during the early part of next year. Eighteen applications for membership were received. A grand class initiation will take place on the 17th of the month at which it is expected there will be a large attendance. The election of officers will take place Dec. 1.

JAKE STAHL

SAYS THAT HE IS THROUGH WITH BASEBALL

CHICAGO, Nov. 5.—Garland Stahl, better known in the national pastime as Jake, the home-run kid, rises to remark that he is through with baseball. It is not one of those Patti swan songs, he says, but a regular retirement to battle with the world at large and the banking problem in particular. The hard-hitting first sacker of the Boston Red Sox authorized the announcement of the instantaneous transition last night.

This isn't one of those phony farewells, according to Jake. He has saved his pennies for the proverbial rainy day, always mindful of the fact that ball players can command the big coin for only a limited number of years. As the result of this systematic and economical practice he has amassed a snug nest egg which has been applied to the grand sinking fund of the Washington Park national bank in this city.

The directors of this institution will meet today to elect a president, vice president and other officers. Jake, modest-like, says he isn't striving for any of the executive berths, at least not this season. For the present he will confine his efforts to a scientific study of "inside" banking.

SHOT HIMSELF

WAKEFIELD, Nov. 5.—Charles A. Mosser, assistant superintendent of the Portland division of the Boston & Maine railroad, shot himself with suicidal intent at his home here early today. Two bullets took effect and the physician who attended him shortly after the shooting stated that although he is in a critical condition there is a possibility that he will recover. Both bullets entered his head. Mr. Mosser has been suffering from nervous prostration for several months, and it is thought he was despondent.

HARVEST SUPPER

BY NORTH BILLERICA BAPTIST CHURCH

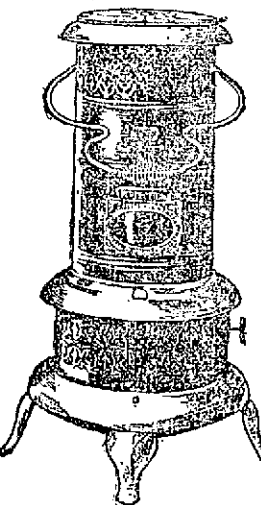

The annual harvest supper of the North Billerica Baptist church was held last night, the affair being conducted under the auspices of the John Aiken of Lowell bible class. Owing to the inclement weather, the attendance was rather small, but nevertheless the affair proved to be a success.

Supper was served at 6:30. The entertainment followed the supper. The program was as follows: Vocal selections by Miss Lillian Cook and Mrs. Atken of Lowell; piano duet by Miss Hilda Perry and George R. Kearney of North Billerica; readings by Miss Grace Hull, Frank Lapresse and John Brown. Miss Hilda Perry was the accompanist of the evening. The committee under whose direction the event was given was as follows: Mrs. Alexander Allan, president; John E. Rowell, chairman; Mrs. Charles H. Williams, Mrs. Ivory M. Hanson, Mrs. William Chambers, Mrs. Samuel Lord, Miss Lizzie Coffey, Mrs. Bale, Mrs. James Moran, Mrs. Mary Walker and Mrs. Hans Dege.

Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription

Is no "cure-all" humbug, but is made for just one purpose—to cure the weaknesses, painful disorders and irregularities of the womanly organism. It is

THE ONE REMEDY for these ailments, sold by druggists, devised and gotten up by a regularly graduated physician of vast experience in treating woman's peculiar diseases and is carefully adapted to work in harmony with her delicate organization, by an experienced and skilled specialist in her maladies.

THE ONE REMEDY for woman's ailments, sold by druggists, which contains neither alcohol (which to most women is the rankest poison) or other injurious or habit-forming drugs.

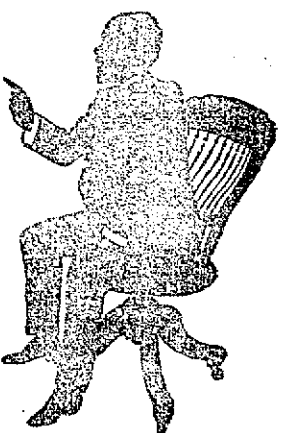

THE ONE REMEDY for women, the composition of which is so perfect and good that its makers are not afraid to print its every ingredient, in plain English on its outside bottle-wrapper, and attest the correctness of the same under oath—thus taking its users into their full confidence, and warranting physicians in prescribing it in their worst cases, which they do very largely.

It is foolish as well as dangerous to take medicine the composition of which you know nothing. Therefore, don't let a dishonest druggist prevail on you to accept a secret nostrum for this professionally approved medicine of known composition. Every ingredient in its make-up has the strongest indorsement of the leading medical men of all the several schools of practice. Send postal card request for free Booklet of same.

Every woman may write fully and confidentially to Dr. R. V. Pierce, Buffalo, N. Y., and may be sure that her case will receive careful, conscientious, confidential consideration, and that the best medical advice in the world will be given to her, absolutely free.

In addition to this free advice, Dr. Pierce will send a fine French cloth-bound copy of his great 1000-page book, "The Common Sense Medical Adviser," to any woman who will send 31 one-cent stamps to pay the cost of mailing only.

Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets regulate and invigorate stomach, liver and bowels. They work in harmony with "Favorite Prescription" when needed as a gentle laxative. Sugar-coated, tiny granules, easy to take as candy.

MINNESOTA'S POWERFUL ELEVEN IN ACTION IN CHICAGO GAME

PHOTOS BY AMERICAN PRESS ASS'N

MINNEAPOLIS, Nov. 4.—Now that they have the western conference title practically clinched, Minnesota's men are looking forward to the game with Michigan for the all western title to be played at Ann Arbor Nov. 19. Last year the Gopher eleven won the conference title, but lost the all western championship to the Michigan men. Many experts here claim that the absence of Lisle Johnson, who broke his left leg in the game with Nebraska, cost the Gopher eleven the championship. This year Johnson is playing better than ever, and with McGovern,

All American quarterback, putting up his best game it is certain these players will be big factors in the battle with Michigan. Rosenwald and Stevens, the halfbacks, are fast and powerful, and with such brilliant players many experts here figure Minnesota has a splendid chance of winning the all western title. With such a galaxy of stars in the back field and with a strong, heavy line which should be able to hold long enough to allow the backs to pull off any plays they wish, all season Minnesota has given a great exhibition of modernized football. In

Johnson and McGovern Minnesota has two of the most brilliant field runners in the country. Johnson in particular is a great dodger, who possesses the ability to size up a field in a hurry and tear through it with the agility of any of the players who have made football reputations by being able to run in the open. McGovern is a close second to his teammate, and as these two players catch and return punts the Michigan team will have to be careful not to give them too many advantages. Illustration shows scenes in Minnesota-Chicago game in which the Gophers defeated the Maroons by a score of 24 to 0. In pictures No. 1 arrow shows Rosenwald making touchdown. No. 2, quarterback McGovern holding ball, awaiting referee's decision. In this game McGovern kicked four goals. In No. 3 arrow on extreme right shows Captain Johnson carrying ball with McGovern opening up Chicago's line. The Minnesota's next game is with Wisconsin at Minneapolis Nov. 12.

Lowell Boys Make Interesting May Have Shot Two Turks

Tour of Inspection Thursday Night

Board of Trade Party Most Favorably Impressed With the School—Object of Inspection to Create Greater Local Interest in Institution

Accompanied by Secretary John H. Murphy of the board of trade, a party of sons of members of the board of trade made a thorough and most interesting inspection of the Lowell Textile school this forenoon.

The board of trade is of the opinion that there is a lack of local interest in the Textile school, basing its opinion on the fact that comparatively few Lowell young men attend the school and the tour of inspection today was for the purpose of interesting the boys in the school.

Upon arrival the party was met by Principal Eames, who addressed them informally and then turned them over to Prof. Louis L. Olney, instructor in chemistry, and Arthur A. Steward, who has charge of the finishing department. The boys were taken through every corner of the great clump of buildings and everything was explained to them in detail.

The visitors were most favorably impressed and could hardly believe that the institution had so much to offer a student as was shown. In the party were the following: Frank Runels, 183 Princeton street; Ralph A. Taylor, 29 Twelfth street; Larkin T. Trull, Jr., 56 Fairmount street; Wilfred Boulger, 74 Wentworth avenue; Sherman Spear, 576 Westford street; Edw. E. The shooting of two Turkish employees of the Lowell rendering works Thursday night is believed by Supt. Welch to have been an attempt to kill the men preliminary to robbing them, and that suspicion is directed to Vaselos Evangelou, whose body was found beside the railroad track early yesterday morning, several miles from the point where the shooting took place.

Supt. Welch says he learned that the two men who were shot carried in belts on their persons about $550 and that it was common knowledge in the works that they carried the money.

Evangelou was also employed by the rendering works and worked Thursday afternoon. Supt. Welch says the investigation showed that Evangelou was considerably in debt, both in the old and new world, and was unable to pay.

He walked home part of the way with the two men who were shot, namely Abraham and Saidin.

When Evangelou's body was found, Supt. Welch says there was $9 in his clothing. There has been no explanation, the superintendent says, for Evangelou being at the point where he was killed by a moving freight train. Evangelou's boarding house was on Common street. He had not been discharged at the rendering works, and when he left his boarding house on Thursday morning, the superintendent was told, he said nothing about not returning at night. When he did not return persons from his boarding house went to the undertaker's rooms and identified the body.

The theory of Supt. Welch is that he was running away when killed by a train.

FORGERY CHARGED

Man Was Arraigned in Police Court Today

Salem K. Husson was arraigned before Judge Hadley in police court this morning on a complaint charging him with forgery, it being alleged in the complaint that he forged the name of John Casas on four notes, each note being made out for $25. Through his counsel, William A. Hogan, a plea of not guilty was entered. Daniel J. Donahue appeared for the complainant.

Joseph Foley, a lawyer with offices in Tremont street, Boston, testified that he was engaged by the Warrenton Dry Goods Co. of Providence to collect a claim against Husson. Husson was put through the poor debtor proceedings in Cambridge by Mr. Foley and as a result Husson tendered him four checks, each check for $25, in part payment of the execution. The checks were signed "City Dry Goods Co." a Lowell store, and endorsed by John Casas, or rather a cross supposed to have been made by the latter accompanied the name.

The checks were drawn on the Lowell Trust Co. and Mr. Foley testified that they were genuine until he tried to cash one and found that it had been forged. The other three checks were then produced and it was alleged that all were forgeries.

The checks were produced in evidence and Mr. Foley identified the four. During the course of his examination he explained to the court that the checks had been post dated.

A boy by the name of Mitty, who it was said signed the notes for Casas, was called and said that he had been asked to sign Casas' name, but did not do so for while he was able to write he did not know how to spell Casas' name.

John Casas, the complainant in the case, said that he and Husson had been in partnership in the dry goods business in Suffolk street and he did not know the first thing about the checks until he was notified by the bank that they had been tendered. He denied ever having signed the checks.

Salem K. Husson, the defendant, after explaining his business relations with Casas, said the latter sold out to him and a mortgage was placed on the stock. This spring a new partnership was formed under the firm name of the "City Dry Goods Co." Witness admitted that he signed the checks in question but said he did so at the request of Casas.

Settled Out of Court
Jacob Shapiro was charged with the larceny of a shirt valued at $1 and $10 money from Nathan A. Carp, but before the case went to trial counsel explained that civil settlement had been made and the case was placed on the files of the court.

Assault and Battery

Arthur Mason entered a plea of not guilty to a complaint charging him with assault and battery on Kazimie Symoniak. Both are employed at the Lowell Machine shop where the alleged assault took place. Symoniak has charge of an elevator and according to the testimony offered, the day before yesterday he refused to stop to take Mason on the elevator and subsequently Mason struck him.

Mason testified, and his testimony was corroborated by another witness, that Symoniak was supposed to take him up and down on the elevator and when on the day in question the man had refused to stop the elevator on several trips he grabbed the cord and stopped the elevator. The defendant said that complainant got mad and picked up some pig iron in his hand and started for him, but before Symoniak had a chance to throw the iron the men in charge of the department interfered. Mason admitted pushing the man, but said he did so in self defense. The defendant was found guilty and a fine of $1 imposed.

Sent to Jail

Albert Perry was charged with drunkenness and two counts of larceny. In the first count he was charged with stealing a coat, pants and vest from his brother, Adelard Perry, while in the second count it was alleged that he stole a clock belonging to Mary E. Lepine. He was found guilty and sentenced to jail for four months.

Other Offenders

Susanna Marren was charged with being drunk and after being found guilty was sentenced to jail for two months. Michael Ryan was placed in the hands of the probation officer, and two first offenders were fined $2 each.

ATTACKED BY ROBBER A DEMENTED MAN

South Boston Woman Was Held Up in Her Home

BOSTON, Nov. 5.—Mrs. Ethel Murphy, 30 years old, was robbed in her home, 190 Athens street, South Boston, at 7:45 last night by an unknown man who, after assaulting her, stole $4 from her and escaped.

The Murphy family occupies the first floor of the three-story brick dwelling, 109 Athens street, near C street, and comprises the father, mother and two children. Last night Mr. Murphy went out for a short time. Scarcely had he departed from his home, before the assault and robbery occurred.

Mrs. Murphy was in a bedroom off the kitchen and was putting her children to bed. Outside the kitchen is a large hallway, reached from the street by an unlocked door.

Mrs. Murphy said she heard a noise in the hallway. The door opened and when she had gained the kitchen the man also had reached the same room. He was tall and heavily built, and said to her, "I want what money you have."

Mrs. Murphy was greatly alarmed, said she had only a little change and displayed 30 cents. The man, after some resistance, grabbed her by the throat and again demanded money of her. Her hand went up to a shelf within easy reach, and taking two $2 bills therefrom, she handed them to the man, who then threw her on the floor and made a hasty departure. She then screamed.

Mrs. Murphy was weak when a woman from upstairs entered the room. The former with difficulty told her story and said that her husband was around the corner. Mr. Murphy was soon apprised of what had happened and went to station 6 and told Lieut. Watkins.

Sergeant Smith and Patrolman Elder were detailed on the case. The man was about 43 years old, 5 feet 9 inches in height, 180 pounds, smooth, full face and dark complexion, and wore dark clothes, with a very short coat and a slouch hat.

Mrs. Murphy further told the police that in the struggle with the man he attempted to pull off her wedding ring, but the guard held well and he could not get it.

JOHN J. FLEMING

ONCE A PILLAR OF TAMMANY HALL IS DEAD

NEW YORK, Nov. 5.—John J. Fleming, once a pillar of Tammany hall and a lifelong friend of former Mayor Hugh J. Grant, who died Thursday night, followed him last night after a lingering illness. Mr. Fleming was born in Ireland and coming to this country in his youth, rose by thrift from the station of a day laborer to a political power, a close friend and adviser of Richard Croker and a wealthy contractor. He was 60 years old.

Fired at Director of Public Safety

PHILADELPHIA, Pa., Nov. 5.—Harry Clark, a demented man, 55 years old, caused great excitement in the city hall yesterday when in the presence of Director of Public Safety Chy he drew a hammerless revolver of the smallest calibre and fired three shots while conversing with the director. Attached to the director's office, fearing his chief had been shot, rushed on the man and overpowered him. A hurried examination revealed that the tiny weapon contained blank cartridges.

Clark, who lives in the same ward with the director, had called to ask permission to sell a novelty on the streets. Mr. Chy told him to make application in the usual way. This seemed to excite the visitor and he drew a revolver and fired.

Clark was sent to the Philadelphia hospital for the insane.

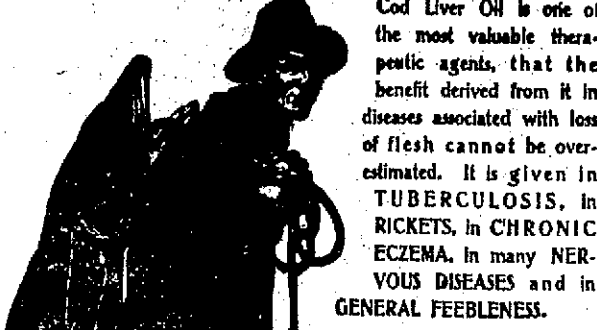

PRES. SCHURMAN

OF CORNELL DENOUNCES COL. ROOSEVELT'S NATIONALISM

ITHACA, N. Y., Nov. 5.—In a speech last night before the Cornell Civic club which is conducting a mock campaign preliminary to taking a straw vote among the Cornell students on Monday, President Jacobus D. Schurman, who was a delegate to the republican state convention and in support of Col. Roosevelt, said:

"I regard Mr. Roosevelt's new nationalism as the most revolutionary and dangerous program that any political leader has laid before the people since the close of the Civil war. To call it an application of the ancient moralities to modern conditions is a downright travesty of the decade. In reality the new nationalism of Theodore Roosevelt is the world-old despotism of one man never decked out in the rainbow promises of a benevolent socialism."

HON. BUTLER AMES

Asks Lodge to Withdraw in Interest of Draper

BOSTON, Nov. 5.—The state campaign reached white heat last night, and the usual 11th hour statements and challenges began to make their appearance. Congressman Ames started the ball rolling with an open letter to Senator Lodge, asking him to withdraw as a candidate for re-election as the only means of saving the republican party from defeat at the state election Tuesday.

Mr. Ames, who is a candidate for re-election to congress in the 10th district, and also a candidate for the United States senate, informed the senator in his letter that his "bossism" was the issue of the campaign, and assured him that if he would remove that issue by withdrawing his candidacy the republican ticket would win with satisfactory pluralities.

Senator Lodge, smiling when he read the congressman's letter, particularly that part of it in which Mr. Ames expressed the hope that the senator would not think he was writing from selfish motives, but with an action prompted by an earnest desire to save the republican party from defeat. When asked if he had any reply to make to the letter, Senator Lodge replied:

"Not a word."

In the course of his letter, Mr. Ames says:

"The re-election, not only of our governor, but of the whole state ticket, is in great jeopardy owing to the opposition of the voters generally to your re-election to the United States senate, and to your continued control of the party machinery. Your action, therefore, of which lies in the fact that every democratic speaker and every democratic paper has made your bossism the issue of this campaign. All last winter, spring and summer I maintained that your control of the party's machinery was inimical to the party's success."

"It is now apparent to everyone that such is the case. And in order that our governor and all the state ticket may be saved from impending defeat, I suggest that in a spirit of unselfishness and with the remembrance of 24 years of public service to your party, you remove this issue by at once and publicly pledging the voters of Massachusetts that you will not be a candidate for re-election to the United States senate this coming January."

DONOGHUE LOST BOWLING GAMES

He Was Knocked Out
by LewisLively Contests on the
Alleys Last Night

MANCHESTER, N. H., Nov. 5.—Billy Lewis of Concord knocked out Young Donoghue of Lawrence in seven rounds at the Queen City A. C. last night. The bouts were all 10 rounds and were refereed by Owen Kenny.

Lewis and Donoghue boxed wide open and at times both were reeling around the ring from the effects of each other's blows. Donoghue, after taking the count twice in the sixth and being floored five times in the seventh, was helped to his corner by his seconds at the instigation of the referee.

Young McDonough of this city made a punching bag of Eddie Golden of Albany. The New Yorker did not land three good punches during the bout, while McDonough jabbed and hooked till he was arm weary. Golden's ring experience saved him from a knockout. He was badly punished, but kept under cover most of the way through the bout.

Kid Sheehan of this city lost to Tommy Furey 10 rounds. The bout was fairly even up to the seventh, Sheehan stopping the Attleboro boy's rushes with a jab and countering with a right hook Furey's attacks on the body. In the seventh Furey went at his man fiercely and hammered him on head and body. Sheehan's left ear was as big as two. He evaded punishment by clever blocking and as clever footwork.

It was announced that a benefit would be held for Patsy Sweeney of this city, some years ago one of the best in the lightweight division, who is now broken down in health. Some good boxers in the light and welterweight class will box in his behalf.

RACE TRACK NEWS

Matt J. Winn, general manager of the coming winter meeting at Juarez, Mexico, stakes for which closed at 12 o'clock Thursday night, has come here with a glowing account of the working of the pari-mutuel system of speculation as operated in Kentucky. Winn believes that the pari-mutuel system is the salvation of racing in this country and predicts that it will be employed by all the tracks in Canada before another year has passed.

"Racing is booming in Kentucky," said Winn Thursday, "and it is wholly due to the pari-mutuel. This form of betting has accomplished many desirable things in the Blue Grass region. It has practically stamped out alleged crooked transactions. There are no plungers left and the touts and pickers, together with the old ruff ruff, have disappeared."

Horse owners inclined to be dishonest have no crooked bookmakers with whom they can frame things up. As there is no way to cheat the public there's nothing in it for a jockey to pull a horse, and collusion between riders, trainers and the gamblers is impossible.

"The new system is a hard blow to handbooks and poolrooms, as no betting odds are written at the track and sometimes nutcases pay such big prices on winners that city layers cannot afford to pay them. The profits to the track owners from the bookies are greater, and liberal purses, therefore, can be offered. The people of Kentucky have renewed confidence in racing and it is entirely due to the mutual system."

"We are going to have a big meeting at Juarez this winter. Since last year we have made many improvements and are now in a position to offer both inducements and conveniences to the horsemen. Juarez track is one of the finest in the world and with increased accommodations for track owners and men we expect a score of brilliant seasons. The meeting will open on Nov. 24 and will continue for 100 days. We will race on Sundays instead of Mondays, which will be open. More than $300,000 in stakes and purses, an average of $3000 a day, will be distributed among the successful track owners. The race meets on open bookmaking in Mexico."

Winn again will have James Butler, Senor Terrazas, J. G. Hollandsbee, A. Daingerfield, Price McKinney and others associated with him in the conduct of the meeting. The entries received show that the stakes have attracted many of the best known horses and turfmen in this country.

Gottfried Gottlieb Walbaum has a poor opinion of some of the bookmakers who held up stakes at Pimlico. "They were pikers," exclaimed Walbaum, "with a show of indignation on Thursday. They put up prices and then rubbed them out when a fellow wanted to bet a fifty dollar note. Why, with a century note I could have made them jump over the fences!" Walbaum often longs for a return of the old days of Coney Island, when as a member of the famous Big Four—McLaughlin, Crusius, Carr and Walbaum—he knew how to get the money without over-anxiety.

The Coney Island Jockey club announces that the Lawrence Stakes for the June meeting of 1912 at Sheepshead Bay will close on Nov. 16, also that declarations from the Realization of 1911 and 1912 and the Futurity of 1911 are due today.

JUDGE PARKER

Places Responsibility for the High Cost of Living

NEW YORK, Nov. 5.—Republican responsibility for the high cost of living and for extravagance and corruption in public life was the theme last night of the address delivered by former Judge Alton B. Parker at Prospect hall, Brookline. Nor did he forget to mention Theodore Roosevelt.

"If the republicans here vote for Dix on the same basis and in the same proportion that I believe they will vote up state," prophesied the speaker, "he will be elected by a majority that will overwhelm any pretensions to a third term for the presidency of the United States."

"The republican candidate for governor and his leader seem most desirous of discussing the questions that seem to be of only passing moment in this campaign and refuse to consider the most serious question of all, the high cost of living. It is a practical question to say the least."

The head of the family who has a good wife, who cares for the children, finds it difficult to meet the demands of prevailing high prices, although the national wealth is mounting higher and higher each year. We realize that individual fortunes are mounting higher and higher each year in a manner the like of which the world has never seen. Theodore Roosevelt admitted this was the crying evil of the day.

"The high cost of living takes from the pockets of the many for the benefit of the few. My proposition, which I will attempt to develop, is that large fortunes are due to high tariff rates and business associations formed in restraint of trade, with every advantage taken of the high tariff by those who form the associations. We should hold that party responsible which should in fact be charged with this."

"President Taft has been flouted by a republican congress but he is still of opinion that those should be a further reduction of the tariff. Roosevelt, during the seven and a half years he was president, never once lifted his voice for the reduction of these tariff rates. After he returned from Europe he investigated and he, too, agrees that there should be a reduction."

"Trusts are combinations in restraint of trade. There never was a more helpful instrument devised by man than the legitimately conducted corporation, but all these who are engaged in the upbuilding of corporations in restraint of trade belong to the trust class. There are in this country, more than 1000 corporations organized in restraint of trade against the common law, the constitution of the United States and the constitution of every state in the Union. This has happened because of the debasing of manhood by the purchase of suffrage."

The speaker referred to the fact that $250,000 was raised by E. H. Harriman for the republican campaign of 1904 and added:

"The contribution of funds had become so common that even a president of the United States did not hesitate to appeal for those funds in the aid of his party."

As an instance of republican extravagance, Judge Parker quoted from a list of government employees which he said under Cleveland was 10,000, as against 100,000 under Roosevelt.

The independence league also sent three speakers last night. Clarence J. Shearn spoke once in Manhattan and once in Brooklyn, accusing the Metropolitan press of misrepresenting true popular opinion; John J. Hopper, the league candidate for governor spoke twice in Manhattan and twice in Brooklyn, on the alliance between private monopoly and public corruption, and William Randolph Hearst, the league candidate for lieutenant governor in two Brooklyn speeches denoted the issues of the campaign as he sees them.

"The dominant issue of this campaign," he said, "is a trust issue. The high cost of living is mainly a trust issue and the whole cause of it can be made clear in six sentences."

"A trust is a combination to create a monopoly in a given product."

"The sole object of a monopoly is to eliminate competition."

"The main purpose of eliminating competition is to enable the trust to fix prices without interference."

"If you and I are competing we will each try to get trade by selling as cheaply as we can and if you buy me out and have no competitor, you will

ADDRESSED FIVE RALLIES IN FALL RIVER

FALL RIVER, Nov. 5.—Gov. Draper appeared at five different rallies in the city of Fall River last night. He spent most of his time in discussing his action on labor measures, calling attention to the fact that of the 24 labor measures which had come before him during the past year, he had affixed his name to 23, the exception being the so-called eight hour bill, which he declared to be class legislation and to effect only a small part of the workingmen of the state. He called particular attention to the workingmen's compensation act which he declared to be the best piece of labor legislation that had been passed in 25 years in Massachusetts. He also discussed Foss' arguments on the tariff and Canada reciprocity, declaring that the democratic candidate would, if elected, be able to do nothing to further these things which he was making an issue in the election. Gov. Draper endorsed the work being done by President Taft and Sir Wilfrid Laurier, looking toward better trade conditions between Canada and the United States.

At one of his rallies, the one in the south end of the city, there was a slight disturbance. As the governor was leaving the hall a man rushed up to him and demanded to know what he was going to do about the high cost of living. A crowd quickly gathered but they were dispersed by the police.

The speakers were Lieut. Gov. Orthograham, James M. Swift, candidate for attorney general, Congressman William S. Greene and William LeDoux of Boston.

An examination of candidates for the position of teacher in the elementary schools of Lowell will be held in the High School, Saturday June 3, 1911. Applicants must be graduates of an approved normal school or college, and must have had, at time of examination, one year's experience in teaching. The number to be accepted will be about fifteen, and the examination will include the following subjects: Principles of Teaching, Grammar and Language, Arithmetic, American History, including Civil Government.

Applicants must notify the secretary of the school committee of purpose to take this examination in writing by November 15, 1910.

Per order of the school committee, ARTHUR K. WHITCOMB, Sec.

NIGHT EDITION
CAMPAIGN ISSUESDiscussed by T. M. Nolan, F. of L.,
Who Also Thanks The Sun

The following letter from Thomas M. Nolan, the representative of the political activity committee of the American Federation of Labor, deals with live campaign issues and, we believe, voices the sentiments of the labor organization he represents:

Dear Sir—May I be permitted to express through your columns my sincere appreciation of the uniform courtesy extended by its citizens during several days' visit in the city of Lowell.

I desire especially to record the kindness and assistance which the Lowell Sun has proved in the work assigned me of demonstrating the indefensible attitude of Gov. Draper in twice vetoing the eight hour day bill and his abortive and specious endeavor to justify his opposition to that important measure by statements during the campaign that can be characterized only in language indulged in so frequently by the world famed African hunter, Theodore Roosevelt, but which I hardly become a humble individual like the writer to use in your reputable and high class newspaper.

I shall not impose upon your good nature to enter into a detailed statement of the merits of the measure providing for the proper and effective enforcement of the eight hour bill which twice passed the Massachusetts general court and on both occasions was vetoed by his excellency the governor. Suffice it to say, that the bill in the opinion of the United States supreme court and of the ablest jurists in America is absolutely constitutional and is furthermore demanded by the wage earners of this commonwealth anxious to have an 8 hour day bill that will properly safeguard the interests of men employed by contractors doing work for state, cities and towns in Massachusetts.

Gov. Draper has not alone twice vetoed the proposed law, but states he will take the same action if again elected.

On the other hand the candidate of the democratic party for governor, Hon. Eugene N. Foss, has stated to the political activity committee of the Massachusetts Federation of Labor that he will sign any reasonable measure to regulate the hours of labor.

Further than that, Mr. Foss stands squarely upon the platform of the democratic party, which is considered one of the broadest and most progressive elements of its kind ever adopted by either of the leading political parties.

It is the belief among thinking men with whom I have conversed in this state that the people are anxious to record a protest against the high cost of living; that they favor remedial legislation inasmuch as it may apply to women and children employed in mercantile and manufacturing establishments, all of them unorganized, and unable to do anything for themselves; that the most emphatic way to register such protest and to place their votes where they will accomplish the most good in behalf of progressive laws is to give them to Mr. Foss and candidates of the democratic party because of the splendid platform on which they stand.

The reelection of Governor Draper would postpone progressive legislation and tend to uphold the present high cost of living.

Personally, my vote will be cast for Eugene N. Foss for governor, for the other candidates on the democratic state ticket, and for the democratic candidates for congress, believing I will thereby be expressing my belief that the democratic platform stands for popular and progressive legislation, and I will furthermore be recording my most profound protest as an American citizen against the laws that have caused the present infamously unjust high cost of living.

Again thanking you and through the

CONG. MCGILLICUDDY
Addressed Two Rallies of "Unterrified" Democrats

The fitness of the term "unterrified" to the democratic party was never more eloquently exemplified than last night when with the rain coming down in torrents and the wind blowing a gale, two largely attended rallies were held in different parts of the city, following three rallies on the previous evening.

It was originally intended to have three rallies last evening but as Lincoln hall and Keyes' auction room are so near together it was decided to combine the speakers to combine the rallies.

The principal speaker was Congressman-elect McGillicuddy of Lowell, Me., a most forceful and popular speaker, and those who braved the night to hear him were well repaid.

The rally in Keyes' auction room was called to order by Thomas J. Mulligan, chairman of the democratic city committee, who introduced as the presiding officer John J. Mahoney, the well known labor man. Mr. Mahoney spoke on the labor records of Col. Aldrich in the legislature and subsequently in congress and urged all to vote for Col. Carmichael and the straight democratic ticket.

Col. Carmichael's Remarks

Col. Carmichael received an ovation at each rally. Although he has done much outdoor speaking under unfavorable weather conditions, he was in fairly good voice and spoke, in part, as follows:

In the contest which we have been waging, we have gone direct to the people. We have spoken to them plainly and fairly. Their response is indicated by the assurances of the victory which come to us from every source. Our opponents are demoralized, divided and torn asunder; they represent nothing of interest to the people and the great body of intelligent voters realizing this fact are with us shoulder to shoulder.

My republican opponent is attempting to charge the republican confusion and disorder to Sen. Lodge, yet he represents exactly for the same things that the republican congressman's record in office is as narrow and reactionary, if not more so, than the record of Senator Lodge.

The republican congressman's record, reveals that he has always been against the interests of the plain people and he has consistently voted with the trusts and monopolies that have the people by the throat.

The people are not to be deceived. Their rebellion is not one of party. Their rebellion is against the Payne-Aldrich tariff law and the high cost of living. The people will vote for their homes, their wives and their little children and they will not be distracted by the ambitions of those who never had the people's interest at heart and who now seek further glory for themselves.

My republican opponent voted for the Payne-Aldrich tariff law in every stage of its passage. For eight years he was the friend and supporter of Speaker Cannon. He covered this district from Dracut to Lynnfield with Cannon's endorsement of his record in congress. Does he now dare to defend the Payne-Aldrich tariff law? Can he show the people where he made an attempt to procure lower duties or to do a single act so that the cost of living might be brought down to the point where honest and industrious men could earn enough to support their families? We have criticized his record in whole and in detail. We have shown that his record is not one of a public servant faithful to his stewardship. He has offered no denial to our statements; he has offered no defense of his course of action. We have said his record from the standpoint of a plain people was worse than the record of Senator Lodge ever was. He has not attempted to prove the contrary.

My friends, the people are aroused. This election is to be determined in openness and in fairness. It will be determined regardless of any unseen influences that may be at work. It will be determined free from the power of wealth; it will be determined in justice on the record of my opponent in office and on the issue whether he or myself will better represent the plain average citizen regardless of party designation.

I ask you men to go forth and keep up your work for the cause. Work earnestly and honestly. Let no corrupting hand attempt to debauch the electorate of this great district of working people. The highest duty of citizenship is to keep the ballot free and pure. A glorious victory awaits us on Tuesday, and when the next congress convenes I will be there in attendance in every session of the house of representatives. I will be there attempting to bring about a reduction of the cost of the necessities of life. I will be there attempting to pry loose from the throats of the people the mighty hand of corporate greed that is today squeezing out the people's lives. I will be there attempting to procure better hours of labor for the working people and better conditions for us all. I will be faithful to the plain people with whom I was born, with whom I have lived, one of whom I am, and whose support I expect regardless of party.

Congressman McGillicuddy

He then introduced Congressman-elect McGillicuddy of Maine, who received an ovation. Mr. McGillicuddy spoke in part as follows:

"I came here tonight to appeal to your intelligence. I have fought a campaign similar to this and never appealed to anything but reason. I appeal to you to vote the democratic ticket. Let us see, democrats and republicans, if we cannot get together and for once forget the party ticket."

"They tell us in this country we are rich. It depends on what we are. Somehow or other I am led to believe that it does not matter how much wealth there is in our country but rather who's got it. They say we are worth $120,000,000,000."

"Well, I tell you 10 per cent. of that wealth is owned by 200,000 men out of a population of $5,600,000. If you are in that 200,000, you are 'we.' How do you like it? That means 30 per cent. of the wealth is owned by the rest of that $5,600,000. That's you! There's something wrong. That's not equality. Under a fair rule it wouldn't be so. These trusts have us in their power."

"The trouble is right here in the tariff. You won't find any republican orator refer to it except delicately. He skips over it. Edmund Burke says the greatest struggles for freedom are fought on account of taxation. I admit Maine and Dugler. They were my friends. If they were alive today they would be on the democratic platform. The tariff wall is no longer practical for you and me. A new election has crept in. It is the trust. Who would have thought 20 years ago that all the beef in this country could be monopolized by one combination? You didn't think so then. You do now."

"The coat on your back, your vest, everything on you pays tribute to the trust. Once you look a basket to the market and brought back the goods in it. Now you leave the basket at home and bring back the goods in your vest. This issue comes right home to all of us. Everything gets a little higher and the package gets a little smaller. Mr. Roosevelt says that's a minor issue. It will be an issue when Mr.

laboring man. They say the wages have increased. Now there's nothing so dangerous as a half-truth. There's another end to it. Laboring men must support their families. While it's true that wages in 20 years have increased 20 per cent., the cost of living has increased 60 per cent. It means families are getting along without the things they ought to have. Senator Lodge is a trust man. I won't say he's dishonest. I simply say he is a trust man. Senator Cummins of Iowa, a republican, says the Payne-Aldrich tariff bill is a repudiation of republican promises. He had no reason to say that unless it is true."

The appearance of Major Robert J. Crowley, the Hamilton leader, in the convention on the platform, was the signal for applause. Major Crowley assured the audience that, while the convention had been strenuous in the extreme it had left no stones behind, and that every Hamilton man will be a Ross supporter on election day. He then spoke on the congressional campaign, strongly advocating the election of Col. Carmichael.

Other speakers were Daniel J. Donahue, Daniel M. Nolan of Somerville, representing the A. F. of L., Philip Kelly of Lynn, candidate for senator in the seventh district, and James H. Rogers, candidate for representative in the 14th district.

All went to the rally in Mathew hall after leaving the auction room. Another large gathering assembled here. James E. O'Donnell presided at the Mathew hall rally and spoke forcefully on the issues of the campaign. Mr. O'Donnell stated that the time had arrived for the common people to assert themselves and he predicted a general democratic victory throughout the commonwealth.

"The republicans in Maine have made our state the dumping ground for fake and fraudulent corporations and we are going to get rid of it. SUPT. N. F. PUTNAM

Talks of Smooth Paving and Other Street Work

Newell F. Putnam, superintendent of streets, said today that unless the snow should fly earlier than usual the smooth paving job now in progress in Merrimack street will be completed this year. Some time next week, for a few days only, a small portion of Merrimack street in the vicinity of city hall will be closed to travel. The smooth paving job extends from the railroad crossing in Dutton street to Thelen street and one side of the street is finished and the entire street will be closed until the finished side has sufficiently hardened for travel.

The street railway company pitched in to help the street department along and stretched electric lights along the scene of operations so that they could lay rails at night. It was Wednesday night that the street railway men worked and then the rails came and rather spoiled their good intentions.

Tamping the ties was out of the question when the rain started and just for that they had to wait. There's a big gang of men at work laying rails today and there will be no let up until the job is completed.

Delay in the arrival of rails ordered by the street railway company put the street department back a few days, but Mr. Putnam says it was not the fault of the railway people. They ordered the rails, but they got sidetracked between here and Boston and were a week late in arriving. "Taking all in all," said Mr. Putnam, "I am quite satisfied with the way the job is going and unless the snow flies earlier than usual we will be ready for it when it comes."

Congress Street Bridge

Work on the Congress street bridge is going merrily along. Mr. Putnam said today that work on this bridge would be continued during Sunday. "We have no time to lose," he said, "and while I am not in favor of Sunday work I do not see how it can be very well helped in this case. We have so much work on our hands that it is absolutely necessary to keep pegging away. The concrete part of the roadway in connection with the Congress street bridge will be finished by Monday night."

The Lawrence street bridge is a tough proposition. We were working on that Lawrence street bridge last night but conditions were such that the engineer called off the night work. The engineers have decided that we will have to drive piles for the Lawrence street bridge and put concrete around them. The foundation we are up against there is a hard one to beat. The best we can do, however, is to do the best we can."

STILL GOING UP

On and after November 7, 1910, owing to the increased price of raw materials it has become necessary to advance the price of the following candies: All Caramels and Bonbons to 60 cents per pound, Chocolate Almonds, Chocolate walnuts and a few specialties to 80 cents per pound. We shall add new kinds to this 80 cent line from time to time.

D. L. PAGE.

Think it over, Mr. Voter: Are you satisfied with the Payne-Aldrich tariff law and with those who voted for it?

A vote for CARMICHAEL for Congress is a vote against rising prices and against the Payne-Aldrich tariff law.

SAMUEL GOMPERS

Has Endorsed the Candidacy of Mr. Foss

The attitude of Samuel Gompers on the candidacy of Mr. Foss in this campaign is fully explained in a telegram of recent date, which reads as follows:

"Washington, D. C., October 29, 1910. James W. Wall, Chairman, Political Activity Committee, Quincy House, Boston, Mass.

Telegram received. American Federation of Labor has no desire to interfere in a purely state campaign. If Mr. Foss will stand true to labor's rights, he should be supported. Under any circumstances, a man who will veto so necessary a measure as an eight hour work day bill as Governor Draper did, ought to be defeated.

Sam'l Gompers. Mr. Foss is being held responsible for the doings of every company in which he is a stockholder, which is not fair to him or to his party.

SOCIAL AND FRATERNAL

Lowell lodge, No. 22, Ancient Order of United Workmen, will tender a complimentary banquet to Pacific lodge, No. 6, of Lawrence, in their rooms, Odd Fellows temple, Thursday evening, November 10. A reception will begin at 7.30 o'clock, to continue for half an hour. A banquet will be served on the upper floor, beginning at 8 o'clock. The toastmaster will be P. M. W. Frederick G. Humphreys and there will be addresses by Grand Master Workman Albert H. Clement of Manchester, N. H.; District Deputy Grand Master Workman John J. Hart of Lawrence and others. A musical entertainment will also be in order.

The Red Men

The regular meeting of Passaconaway tribe of Red Men was held last night at Odd Fellows temple. Sachem Albert Stophard occupying the chair. There was a large attendance of members and a number of visiting chiefs were present.

A communication was received from Great Sachem John W. Converse, stating that he had appointed Past Great Sachem O. A. Libby a member of the great council state of the order. He also referred to matters of this reservation. The visiting chiefs spoke on their tribal affairs. The finance committee gave a good account of the tribe's condition financially and in point of membership.

Woman's Relief Corps

James A. Garfield, W. R. C., 33, met for sewing and supper Thursday afternoon. In the evening the annual inspection took place. Mrs. Mary A. Landit, the department inspector, officiating. Mrs. Anna Kilpatrick, the president, was in the chair. One candidate was initiated and one admitted on a transfer. Mrs. Little Cochran presided in an admirable manner at the piano. The corps will observe its 25th anniversary on Nov. 17. Supper will be served at 7 o'clock to post and corps. There were interesting remarks by members and visitors. On Nov. 17, the regular meeting will be held in the afternoon.

Order of Eagles

The regular meeting of Lowell Aerie, Fraternal Order of Eagles, was held last night at Foresters hall. Worthly President John H. Farrell occupying the chair. A committee of ten was appointed to consider the advisability of conducting a ball during the early part of next year. Eighteen applications for membership were received. A grand class initiation will take place on the 17th of the month at which it is expected there will be a large attendance. The election of officers will take place Dec. 1.

JAKE STAHL

SAYS THAT HE IS THROUGH WITH BASEBALL

CHICAGO, Nov. 5.—Garland Stahl, better known in the national pastime as Jake, the home-run kid, rises to remark that he is through with baseball. It is not one of those Patti swan songs, he says, but a regular retirement to battle with the world at large and the banking problem in particular. The hard-hitting first-sacker of the Boston Red Sox authorized the announcement of the instantaneous transition last night.

This isn't one of those phoney farewells, according to Jake. He has saved his pennies for the proverbial rainy day, always mindful of the fact that ball players can command the big coin for only a limited number of years. As the result of this systematic and economical practice he has amassed a snug nest egg which has been applied to the grand sinking fund of the Washington Park national bank in this city.

The directors of this institution will meet today to elect a president, vice president and other officers. Jake, modest-like, says he isn't striving for any of the executive berths, at least not this season. For the present he will confine his efforts to a scientific study of "inside" banking.

SHOT HIMSELF

WAKEFIELD, Nov. 5.—Charles A. Mosser, assistant superintendent of the Portland division of the Boston & Maine railroad, shot himself with suicidal intent at his home here early today. Two bullets took effect and the physician who attended him shortly after the shooting stated that although he is in a critical condition there is a possibility that he will recover. Both bullets entered his head. Mr. Mosser has been suffering from nervous prostration for several months, and it is thought he was despondent.

HARVEST SUPPER

BY NORTH BILLERICA BAPTIST CHURCH

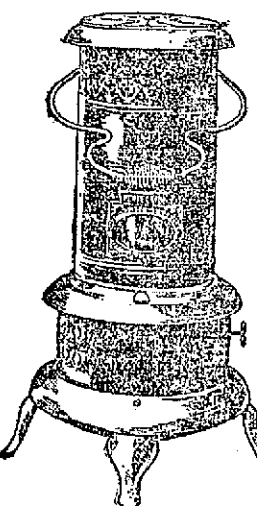

The annual harvest supper of the North Billerica Baptist church was held last night, the affair being conducted under the auspices of the John E. Rowell bible class. Owing to the inclement weather, the attendance was rather small, but nevertheless the affair proved to be a success. Supper was served at 6.30. The entertainment followed the supper. The program was as follows: Vocal selections by Miss Lillian Cook and Mrs. Aiken of Lowell; piano duet by Miss Hilda Perry and George R. Kearney of North Billerica; readings by Miss Grace Hull, Frank Lapresse and John Brown. Miss Hilda Perry was the accompanist of the evening. The committee under whose direction the event was given was as follows: Mrs. Alexander Allan, president; John E. Rowell, chairman; Mrs. Charles H. Williams, Mrs. Ivory M. Hanson, Mrs. William Chambers, Mrs. Samuel Lord, Miss Lizzie Coffey, Mrs. Sale, Mrs. James Moran, Mrs. Mary Walker and Mrs. Hans Dege.

The Perfection Oil Heater quickly gives heat, and with one filling of the font burns steadily for nine hours, without smoke or smell. An indicator always shows the amount of oil in the font. The filler-cap, put in like a cork in a bottle, is attached by a chain. This heater has a cool handle and a damper top.

The Perfection Oil Heater has an automatic-locking flame spreader, which prevents the wick from being turned high enough to smoke, and is easy to remove and drop back, so the wick can be quickly cleaned. The burner body or gallery cannot become wedged and can be unscrewed in an instant for reworking. The Perfection Oil Heater is finished in Japan or nickel, is strong, durable, well-made, built for service, and yet light and ornamental.

Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription

Is no "cure-all" humbug, but is made for just one purpose—to cure the weaknesses, painful disorders and irregularities of the womanly organism. It is

THE ONE REMEDY for these ailments, sold by druggists, devised and gotten up by a regularly graduated physician of vast experience in treating woman's peculiar diseases and is carefully adapted to work in harmony with her delicate organization, by an experienced and skilled specialist in her maladies.

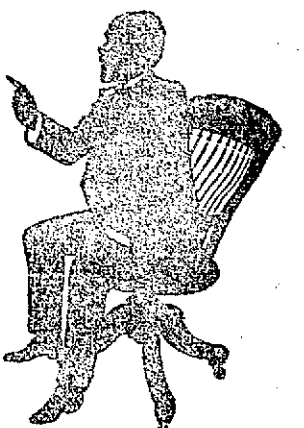

THE ONE REMEDY for woman's ailments, sold by druggists, which contains neither alcohol (which to most women is the rankest poison) or other injurious or habit-forming drugs.

THE ONE REMEDY for women, the composition of which is so perfect and good that its makers are not afraid to print its every ingredient, in plain English on its outside bottle-wrapper, and attest the correctness of the same under oath—thus taking its users into their full confidence, and warranting physicians in prescribing it in their worst cases, which they do very largely.

It is foolish as well as dangerous to take medicine the composition of which you know nothing. Therefore, don't let a dishonest druggist prevail on you to accept a secret nostrum for this professionally approved medicine of known composition. Every ingredient in its make-up has the strongest indorsement of the leading medical men of all the several schools of practice. Send postal card request for free Booklet of same.

Every woman may write fully and confidentially to Dr. R. V. Pierce, Buffalo, N. Y., and may be sure that her case will receive careful, conscientious, confidential consideration, and that the best medical advice in the world will be given to her, absolutely free. In addition to this free advice, Dr. Pierce will send a fine French cloth-bound copy of his great 1000-page book, "The Common Sense Medical Adviser," to any woman who will send 31 one-cent stamps to pay the cost of mailing only.

Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets regulate and invigorate stomach, liver and bowels. They work in harmony with "Favorite Prescription" when needed as a gentle laxative. Sugar-coated, tiny granules, easy to take as candy.

MINNESOTA'S POWERFUL ELEVEN IN ACTION IN CHICAGO GAME

PHOTOS BY AMERICAN PRESS ASS'N

MINNEAPOLIS, Nov. 4.—Now that they have the western conference title practically clinched, Minnesota's men are looking forward to the game with Michigan for the all western title to be played at Ann Arbor, Nov. 19. Last year the Gopher eleven won the conference title, but lost the all western championship to the Michigan men. Many experts here claim that the absence of Lisle Johnson, who broke his left leg in the game with Nebraska, cost the Gopher eleven the championship. This year Johnson is playing better than ever, and with McGovern,

Johnson and McGovern Minnesota has two of the most brilliant field runners in the country. Johnson in particular is a great dodger, who possesses the ability to size up a field in a hurry and tear through it with the agility of any of the players who have made football reputations by being able to run in the open. McGovern is a close second to his teammate, and as these two players catch and return punts the Michigan team will have to be careful not to give them too many advantages. Illustration shows scenes in Minnesota-Chicago game in which the Gophers defeated the Maroons by a score of 24 to 0. In pictures No. 1 arrow shows Rosenwald making touchdown; No. 2, quarterback McGovern holding ball, awaiting referee's decision. In this game McGovern kicked four goals, in No. 3 arrow on extreme right shows Captain Johnson carrying ball with McGovern opening up Chicago's line. The Minnesota's next game is with Wisconsin at Minneapolis Nov. 12.

May Have Shot Two Turks Thursday Night

The shooting of two Turkish employees of the Lowell rendering works Thursday night is believed by Supt. Welch to have been an attempt to kill the men preliminary to robbing them, and that suspicion is directed to Vasekios Evangelou, whose body was found beside the railroad track early yesterday morning, several miles from the point where the shooting took place.

Supt. Welch says he learned that the two men who were shot carried in belts on their persons about $500 and that it was common knowledge in the works that they carried the money.

Evangelou was also employed by the rendering works and worked Thursday afternoon. Supt. Welch says the investigation showed that Evangelou was considerably in debt, both in the old and new world, and was unable to pay.

He walked home part of the way with the two men who were shot, namely Abraham and Saidia. When Evangelou's body was found, Supt. Welch says there was $9 in his clothing. There has been no explanation, the superintendent says, for Evangelou being at the point where he was killed by a moving freight train. Evangelou's boarding house was on Common street. He had not been discharged at the rendering works, and when he left his boarding house on Thursday morning, the superintendent was told, he said nothing about not returning at night. When he did not return persons from his boarding house went to the undertaker's rooms and identified the body.

The theory of Supt. Welch is that he was running away when killed by a train.

FORGERY CHARGED

Man Was Arraigned in Police Court Today

Salem K. Husson was arraigned before Judge Hadley in police court this morning on a complaint charging him with forgery, it being alleged in the complaint that he forged the name of John Casas on four notes, each note being made out for $25. Through his counsel, William A. Hogan, a plea of not guilty was entered. Daniel J. Donahue appeared for the complainant.

Joseph Foley, a lawyer with offices in Tremont street, Boston, testified that he was engaged by the Warburton Dry Goods Co. of Providence to collect a claim against Husson. Husson was put through the poor debtor proceedings in Cambridge by Mr. Foley and as a result Husson tendered him four checks, each check for $25, in part payment of the execution. The checks were signed "City Dry Goods Co." a Lowell store, and endorsed by John Casas, or rather a cross supposed to have been made by the latter accompanied the name.

The checks were drawn on the Lowell Trust Co. and Mr. Foley thought that they were genuine until he tried to cash one and found that it had been forged. The other three checks were then produced and it was alleged that all were forgeries.

The checks were produced in evidence and Mr. Foley identified the four. During the course of his examination he explained to the court that the checks had been post dated.

A boy by the name of Mitry, who it was said signed the notes for Casas, was called and said that he had been asked to sign Casas' name, but did not do so for while he was able to write he did not know how to spell Casas' name.

John Casas, the complainant in the case, said that he and Husson had been in partnership in the dry goods business in Suffolk street and he did not know the first thing about the checks until he was notified by the bank that they had been tendered. He denied ever having signed the checks.

Salem K. Husson, the defendant, after explaining his business relations with Casas, said the latter sold out to him and a mortgage was placed on the stock. This spring a new partnership was formed under the firm name of the "City Dry Goods Co." Witness admitted that he signed the checks in question, but said he did so at the request of Casas.

Settled Out of Court
Jacob Shapiro was charged with the larceny of a shirt valued at $1 and $10 in money from Nathan A. Carp, but before the case went to trial counsel explained that a civil settlement had been made and the case was placed on the files of the court.

Assault and Battery
Arthur Mason entered a plea of not guilty to a complaint charging him with assault and battery on Kazimierz Symoniak. Both are employed at the Lowell Machine shop where the alleged assault took place. Symoniak has charge of an elevator and according to the testimony offered, the day before yesterday he refused to stop to take Mason on the elevator and subsequently Mason struck him.

Mason testified, and his testimony was corroborated by another witness, that Symoniak was supposed to take him up and down on the elevator and when on the day in question the man had refused to stop the elevator on several trips he grabbed the cord and stopped the elevator. The defendant said that complainant got mad and picked up some pig iron in his hand and started for him, but before Symoniak had a chance to throw the iron the man in charge of the department intervened. Mason admitted pushing the man, but said he did so in self defense. The defendant was found guilty and a fine of $1 imposed.

Sent to Jail
Albert Perry was charged with drunkenness and two counts of larceny. In the first count he was charged with stealing a coat, pants, and vest from his brother, Adelard Perry, while in the second count it was alleged that he stole a clock belonging to Mary E. Lepine. He was found guilty and sentenced to jail for four months.

Other Offenders
Susanna Marren was charged with being drunk and after being found guilty was sentenced to jail for two months. Michael Ryan was placed in the hands of the probation officer, and two first offenders were fined $5 each.

JUDGE PARKER'S GREAT SPEECH

By far the clearest and most sensible speech delivered in the New York campaign thus far was that of Judge Parker on Thursday night in reply to a recent speech by Senator Root. It will be remembered that Senator Root in his efforts to stem the sentiment turning against Roosevelt told the people that Roosevelt if rebuked in the coming election would be the candidate for president in 1912.

Judge Parker treated this as a threat which it really was and summarized it thus:

"Dare you not to revolt or worse shall befall you; accept your chains, or feel the lash; cringe, or be crushed; assert your right to name your executives and that right shall be definitely taken from you—that in all fairness is the sense of his speech so far as it relates to the issues of Rooseveltism which confront us."

Judge Parker further exposes the insincerity of Root's attitude and asserted that the cancer of Rooseveltism must be cut out if the people are to be left free to exercise their rights in the election of state and national officials.

This speech by Judge Parker recalls the great speech by the late Hon. P. A. Collins at Albany before the close of the campaign in which Cleveland was elected. It is an utterance that will ring throughout the nation and strengthen the citizens of all parties in the assertion of their rights, their freedom and independence in the exercise of the franchise for the choice of public officials.

It is well that the voters should be relieved from any sense of dread as to what Roosevelt will do if they exercise their conscientious preferences at the polls on election day.

NEED OF PUBLIC HALL DEMONSTRATED

The difficulties under which a large democratic rally was conducted in this city on Thursday evening demonstrated most forcibly the need of a public hall.

The Mathew hall where the first meeting was held was packed so that nobody could get either in or out, and in case of panic or fire the result would have been disastrous.

While the rally was going on in the hall there were thousands outside awaiting an opportunity to hear the speakers, and after standing for nearly an hour they repaired to the steps of City hall where, after a further wait, their patience was rewarded by the appearance of Mr. Foss.

Now all this simply shows the deplorable need of a large public hall to accommodate such meetings. The republican party would probably have had a big rally here had there been a suitable hall available. Butler Ames had to employ several small halls for the reason, no doubt, that the only large one in the city was occupied.

During the progress of a political campaign the need of a public hall is daily brought to public attention. If any sudden calamity, such as a great fire, or anything else that would excite the populace, should occur the same need of a place for holding a mass meeting would be apparent.

For these and many other reasons that might be cited, we hold that it is bad policy to delay the building of a public hall. Mayor Meehan has endeavored to push the movement along, but thus far with but slight success.

The people are becoming impatient, and when the masses suffer such great inconvenience as has been witnessed during the present campaign, they will insist upon the need being supplied as soon as possible.

The people have voted in favor of a public hall, and it is only a matter of disagreement upon price, or upon the selection of a site that prevents the movement from being carried through.

THE VOTERS' INDIVIDUAL RESPONSIBILITY

Now that we are nearing the close of the campaign it may be in order to state that a great responsibility rests with the voters themselves. The individual voter must realize that he individually shares the responsibility for the conditions of which every man at the present time complains.

The high cost of living is simply a condition brought about by a combination of trusts, speculators and dishonest legislators. The men who want legislation for special interests go to the legislators, and if they are able to secure what they want, they then proceed to establish trusts by which they can levy tribute upon the people for the necessities of life.

This is the way in which the present high cost of living has been brought about. The special interests are protected against competition from abroad, and are enabled to stamp out competition at home. Then they are at liberty to fix whatever prices they please upon their products.

This is precisely what the trusts of this country are doing today, and the republican party is responsible not only for the existence of the trusts but for the extortions of the trusts.

The Dingley law set the tariff too high and brought the trusts into existence. The Payne-Aldrich law set the tariff still higher, and thus gave the trusts greater power to rob the people.

As a result fictitious values prevail in this country that have no relation whatever to the intrinsic value that rules in the markets of the world. As a result, exorbitant prices are charged for the necessities of life, and the trusts controlling these prices, the people are obliged to pay them or starve.

It is to remedy this state of affairs that the voters of this country are asked to vote against the republican party in the coming election.

By voting against that party, and by electing democrats to congress and to the gubernatorial chairs of the different states they will overthrow this ruinous combination between the republican congress and the trusts that have arisen under protection by the high tariff provided in the Dingley law and subsequently by the present law.

SEEN AND HEARD

WHEN?

Some day—in future, fairer, days to be—
I'll do the kindly work my heart has planned;
Then every one that asks shall have from me
The quick, sure sympathy of heart and hand.
I shall obey the Father's old command,
To lift the fallen, comfort the oppressed,
To pluck the thorn from out my brother's breast;
To open wide my soul and cast out sin,
And call good deeds, God's tenderest angels, in.

I have no time today; but some time I shall follow where the Master's feet have trod;
Shall face the frowning world with courage high;
Shall learn to kiss, with chastened lips, the rod,
And find in sorrow's face the eyes of God.
So shall I curb the quick, rebellious will,
Hear in my heart a low-voiced "Peace, be still!"
Through grief most nobly borne my soul shall win
A space to call the choir of angels in.

But oh, what if, on some fair eventide,
When I might watch, as Abraham watched of old,
The long-closed tent doors of my heart flung wide
To welcome angel guests into my fold,
That they should find my dwelling place on cold
A mouldered floor, unknown of wind and sun?
A lamp unlit of kindness never done;
A shrine dust-strewn with selfishness and sin,
And, all too late, I called the angels in!
—Marie Conway Oemler, in the New York Independent.

"I tried to get a chance to speak to you at church, Sunday," said Mrs. Oldcastle, "but the crush was so great that I couldn't push through to where you were."

"Yes, wasn't it awful?" replied the hostess as she flicked a bit of dust from the Gobelins tapestry. "All the common folks in town seem to want to crowd into our church lately. It's too bad they ain't satisfied to stay where they belong. How did you like the sermon?"

"Well, as a sermon it was fairly good, but I don't wish Mr. Goodman would quit splitting infinitives. I try not to let it make me nervous, but I can't keep from being shocked every time he does it."

"I never let them kind of things bother me, but that's where the Episcopalians have the advantage of us. If

FOOLISH THINGS WOMEN DO

Women put ammonia into the water when washing their hair. This not only turns the hair gray, but has a deadly effect upon the hair roots. It makes the hair thin and lifeless. Any deadly or invigorating containing alcohol is also dangerous. Most soaps and shampoos contain too much alkali, and people who use them run the risk and danger of losing their hair. The best thing to use is a fine neutral soap, combined with Glycerin, Coconut Oil, White Castor Oil, Salicylic Acid. These are the ingredients used in Elita Head Wash, which is an absolutely reliable preparation, because it does not contain any ammonia, alcohol or free alkali. It makes the hair soft and glossy and removes scales and dandruff. At drug stores, 25c and 50c.

They were a newly married couple and superlatively happy. He spent the day in the city, working for her; she spent the day at home, dusting up the rooms and cooking for him.

And when they were together in the evening she pretended that his long absence at work didn't leave her very lonely; and he pretended that eating the things she cooked didn't make him extraordinarily uncomfortable.

One night, however, when he returned home the tears were streaming down her pretty cheeks.

"Why, dearest," said the young husband, taking her in his arms, "what are you crying about?"

"Oh, Henry, Henry!" sobbed his wife. "There are no sweets for your dinner. The mice have got into the pantry and eaten up the beautiful Easter cakes I made this afternoon."

He stroked the locks back from her troubled brow.

"There, there, dear," he murmured gently. "Don't cry over a few little mice."

PEOPLE OF NOTE

Simon E. Baldwin, who is running for governor of Connecticut on the democratic ticket, told a campaign story at one of the New Haven clubs, with great relish. He said he had remarked to a negro waiter with whom he had a speaking acquaintance:

LIQUID CURED ECZEMA WHERE SALVES FAIL

In regard to skin diseases, medical authorities are now agreed on this:

Don't imprison the disease germs in your skin by the use of greasy salves, and thus encourage them to multiply. A true cure of all eczematous diseases can be brought about only by using the healing agents in the form of a liquid.

WASH THE GERMS OUT.
A simple wash: A compound of Oil of Wintergreen, Thymol, and other ingredients combined in the D. D. D. Prescription. This penetrates to the disease germs and destroys them; then soothes and heals the skin as nothing else has ever done.

A 25 cent trial bottle will start the cure and give you instant relief.

es the other day. Standing 6 feet 3 3/4 inches and tipped the scales at 283 pounds, Miss Graham, besides having nearly a score of world's records to her credit, has likewise been pronounced such a marvel of physical strength as has given her the honor of being the strongest woman in the world. She has smashed all the world's records in the 100 yard dash for women from one mile to ten, her world's record time for a half mile in this sport being 1 minute 40 seconds. In spite of her stature she has made the 100-yard dash in 11 1/2 seconds (in skirts), and one of her aquatic feats is a 100-foot swim in 28 seconds.

The Concord academy of letters has taken a bold innovation in taking in a woman as a member, but Miss Judith Gautier bears a distinguished enough name to soften the shock. She is the daughter of Theodore Gautier and was for a time, wife of the poet, Camille Mendes. Among her works are "Les Peuples Etrangers," "Le Paravent de Sole d'or," "La Marche de Souffrance" (a drama of Japanese life), "Parfums" (translation of Wagner's poem), and "L'Avant Chinois." Her hobby is collecting in "Etics-voies" (the French "Who's Who") is collecting Japanese art objects and curios.

The report that the Italian composer, Pietro Mascagni, had given up his American tour, which was to begin with his production of the first performance of his new opera, "Cavalleria," at the New Theatre in New York, caused a panic recently among his admirers in this country, who had a grand reception ready for him. Luckily the financial arrangements which had been the hitch have now been satisfactorily made, and Mascagni is expected.

AMERICAN TEAM

Won the International Foot Race

NEW YORK, Nov. 5.—The American team, consisting of Holmer and William Quail won the 20 miles international foot race here last night in Madison Square Garden in the world's record time of 1 hour, 29 minutes, 47 seconds—4 minutes, 23 1/2 seconds better than the previous mark. The Canadian team of Fred Meadows and Abbie Woods won second and the Swedish team of Gus L. Jungstrom and John Svanberg was third.

Quail was off first and soon took the lead and from that time the American cause never had less than a half lap margin. In the 12th mile Holmer, also of America, succeeded in stretching his teammate's lead to a full lap and Canada never got it back.

In all, six teams from as many countries—America, Canada, Sweden, Finland, Italy and France—started, and all finished. The running was so good as they saw it.

The new record set last night is the second for the distance in which Quail has had a share. Last August he and Svanberg, who ran on the third team last night, covered 20 miles under similar conditions in only 4 minutes, 28 1/2 seconds, slower than that of the winning team last night.

The teams finished in the following order: America, Hans Holmer and William Quail; Canada, Fred Meadows and Abbie Woods; Sweden, Gus Ljungstrom and John Svanberg; Finland, Karl Nieminen and William Kolonnen; France, Henri St. Yves and Pierre Larquey; Italy, Alessio Vambra and William Mator.

CITY LIBRARY

LIST OF BOOKS ON IRELAND IS PUBLISHED

If you would be familiar with the history, biography, poetry, literature and folklore of Ireland just go to the city library and ask Librarian Chase for his list of books relating to Ireland. They number over 250 in all and the collection is about as complete as it is possible to make it.

Librarian Chase has issued a little pamphlet giving a list of all the books upon Ireland now in the library. They number over 300.

The collection includes the works of Dr. Thomas Addis Emmet, Lover, William Butler Yeats, Henry Grattan, and the history of the lives of Henry Grattan, Daniel O'Connell, Charles Stewart Parnell. The latter contains much relative to the history of the Land league and the home rule movement. Irish character sketches by Jane Barlow are included in the collection.

William Butler Yeats and Dr. Douglas are foremost in the work of the revival of Irish literature. Mr. Yeats has brought a great many phases of Irish life into literature and it might be said that he has given new voice to the Celtic spirit.

Thomas Addis Emmet writes of Ireland under English rule, and while frankly a plea for Ireland, Dr. Emmet has endeavored to be impartial. In his indictment of the British government he draws a distinction between the English people and the English government.

HELD IN $5000
CASHIER BARKER ACCUSED OF MAKING LOANS

NEW LONDON, Conn., Nov. 5.—Charged with making loans amounting to between $16,000 and $17,000 without the consent of the directors and with making false entries on the bank's books, Frank E. Barker, for 25 years an employee of the New London City National bank, and for several years its cashier, was arraigned before a United States commissioner late yesterday and held in $5000 bond for his appearance in court. Barker last night stated that he loaned the money to a patron of the bank to keep him out of financial difficulties and had not profited by the transaction.

DAWSON'S RACE

Mulford Gave Him a Hard Race

ATLANTA, Ga., Nov. 5.—Joe Dawson, a yellow Marmion car, was just 2 1/2 seconds ahead of Ralph Mulford's big white Lozier at the finish of the 200 mile race here yesterday.

The duel between these two began immediately after the hundredth mile. Dawson was then far behind. He stopped at the pits with his right rear wheel entirely lacking a tire and the iron rim showering sparks as it ground the track. The Lozier stopped soon afterward to exchange tires, putting the cars on even terms. Mulford flattened another of Dawson's tires at the 140th mile and in the same lap it reduced one of the Lozier tires to ribbons. The Marmion was running faster, but on the bad turn of the track, where two drivers have been killed, Mulford, at full speed, would shoot ahead of Dawson, who always took the corner safely. Dawson waited until there was less than 20 miles to go and then got his car alongside the Lozier. Mulford took the turns desperately on the next few rounds of the course and they went into the last two mile lap with but a few inches separating their cars. As they struck the dangerous turn for the last time it was Dawson who took it at highest speed, assuming a lead which he held to the finish. Time, 2 hours, 51 minutes, 12 1/2 seconds.

The winner took the Atlanta trophy and $1000 in cash. Mulford received $500 and Joe Horan, who finished third in a Lozier, received $200; Gelbach, whose car yesterday won the 100 mile race, was fourth, taking a $100 cash prize, and Hughes, in another car, was fifth, and received $50.

There were 11 starters. The seven events in addition to the long race were all at 10 to 20 miles.

Two new track records were set by the E. M. F., at 10 miles, and the Marquette-Buloch at 20 miles.

The meeting will end today with a 250 mile race, as the feature for a $5000 purse, $3000 and a trophy going to the winner.

INSANE ASYLUM

Was Burned to the Ground

BRANDON, Man., Nov. 5.—The insane asylum of the Manitoba government was burned to the ground here late yesterday afternoon, causing a loss of $250,000, but all of the inmates were rescued in safety. One of the women patients playing with matches was responsible for the fire. The fire broke out in the kitchen, where six hundred patients in the asylum and great difficulty was experienced in getting them out. A number were severely injured and others badly chilled in the cold as a snow storm was raging and they were without shelter. ATTACKED BY ROBBER A DEMENTED MAN

South Boston Woman Was Held Up in Her Home

BOSTON, Nov. 5.—Mrs. Ethel Murphy, 30 years old, was robbed in her home, 190 Athens street, South Boston, at 7:45 last night by an unknown man who, after assaulting her, stole $4 from her and escaped.

The Murphy family occupies the first floor of the three story brick dwelling, 190 Athens street, near C street, and comprises the father, mother and two children. Last night Mrs. Murphy went out for a short time. She had just reached the door when she was seized from behind and held up in her home before the assault and robbery occurred.

Mrs. Murphy was in a bedroom off the kitchen and was putting her children to bed. Outside the kitchen is a large hallway, reached from the street by an unlocked door.

Mrs. Murphy said she heard a noise in the hallway. The door opened and when she had gained the kitchen the man also had reached the same room. He was tall and heavily built, and said to her, "I want what money you have."

Mrs. Murphy was greatly alarmed, said she had only a little change and displayed 30 cents. The man, after some resistance, grabbed her by the throat and again demanded money of her. Her hand went up to a shelf within easy reach, and taking two $3

ONCE A PILLAR OF TAMMANY HALL IS DEAD

NEW YORK, Nov. 5.—John J. Fleming, once a pillar of Tammany hall and a lifelong friend of Mayor Hugh J. Grant, who died Thursday night, followed him last night after a lingering illness. Mr. Fleming was born in Ireland and coming to this country in his youth rose by thrift from the station of a day laborer to a political power, a close friend and adviser of Richard Croker and a wealthy contractor. He was 60 years old.

PHILADELPHIA, Pa., Nov. 5.—Harry Clark, a demented man, 55 years old, caused great excitement in the city hall yesterday when in the presence of Director of Public Safety Clay he drew a hammerless revolver of the smallest calibre and fired three shots while conversing with the director. Attacks of the director's office, fearing his elixir had been shot, rushed on the man and overpowered him. A hurried examination revealed that the tiny weapon contained blank cartridges.

Clark, who lives in the same ward with the director, had called to ask permission to sell a novelty on the streets. Mr. Clay told him to make application in the usual way. This seemed to excite the visitor and he drew a revolver and fired.

Clark was sent to the Philadelphia hospital for the insane.

PRES. SCHURMAN

OF CORNELL DENOUNCES COL. ROOSEVELT'S NATIONALISM

ITHACA, N. Y., Nov. 5.—In a speech last night before the Cornell Civic club which is conducting a mock campaign preliminary to taking a straw vote among the Cornell students on Monday, President Jacob Gould Schurman, who was a delegate to the republican state convention and in support of Col. Roosevelt, said:

"I regard Mr. Roosevelt's new nationalism as the most revolutionary and dangerous program that any political leader has laid before the people since the close of the Civil war. To call it an application of the ancient moralities to modern conditions is a downright travesty of the decalegue. In reality the new nationalism of Theodore Roosevelt is the worst old despotism of one-man power decked out in the rainbow promises of a benevolent socialism."

HON. BUTLER AMES

Asks Lodge to Withdraw in Interest of Draper

BOSTON, Nov. 5.—The state campaign reached white heat last night, and the usual 11th hour statements and challenges began to make their appearance. Congressman Ames started the ball rolling with an open letter to Senator Lodge, asking him to withdraw as a candidate for re-election as the only means of saving the republican party from defeat at the state election Tuesday.

Mr. Ames, who is a candidate for re-election to congress in the 11th district, and also a candidate for the United States senate, informed the senator senator in his letter that his "bossism" was the issue of the campaign, and assured him that if he would remove that issue by withdrawing his candidacy the republican ticket would win with satisfactory pluralities.

Senator Lodge smiled when he read the congressman's letter, particularly that part of it in which Mr. Ames expressed the hope that the senator would not think he was writing from selfish motives, but that his action was prompted by an earnest desire to save the republican party from defeat. When asked if he had any reply to make to the letter, Senator Lodge replied: "Not a word."

In the course of his letter, Mr. Ames says: "The re-election, not only of our governor, but of the whole state ticket, is in great jeopardy owing to the opposition of the voters generally to your re-election to the United States senate. And to your continued control of the party machinery, convincing evidence of which lies in the fact that every democratic speaker and every democratic paper has made your bossism the issue of this campaign. All winter, spring and summer I maintained that your control of the party's machinery was inimical to the party's success."

"It is now apparent to everyone that such is the case. And in order that our governor and all the state ticket may be saved from impending defeat, I suggest that in a spirit of unselfishness and with the remembrance of 24 years of public service to your party, you remove this issue by at once and publicly pledging the voters of Massachusetts that you will not be a candidate for re-election to the United States senate this coming January."

THE BRITISH

SAID TO HAVE BEGUN INVASION OF PERSIA

LONDON, Nov. 5.—A despatch received here yesterday by a news agency from Tehran reported that a British invasion of Persia had begun recently at Lingah on the Gulf of Persia and that it was stated that the commander and officers of the British cruiser Prosopine had been wounded in a pitched battle.

It turns out, however, that the affair had nothing to do with Persia. Sixty men who had landed from the Prosopine near Chahbar, in Beluchistan, had a brush with Afghan gunners in which the captain of the Prosopine and another officer from the vessel were slightly wounded. Chahbar is 33 miles from Lingah and in another country.

OFFICERS CHOSEN

BY THE BUTLER CO-OPERATIVE BANK

The annual meeting of the shareholders of the B. F. Butler-Cooperative bank was held last night, the feature of the meeting being the election of officers for the ensuing year. During the course of the meeting the different officers submitted reports for the past year, all of which showed that the bank is in an excellent condition. The number of shareholders has increased during the year and the reserve fund has been increased each three months. The following officers were elected for the coming year: President, Fisher H. Pearson; vice president, Horace W. Clement; secretary and treasurer, Gardner W. Pearson; directors for three years, Melvin G. Rogers, Gardner W. Pearson and Wm. Cogger; auditing committee, Fred Sanborn, Samuel Parrell and James J. Henley.

The new series of shares beginning this month is numbered 25. Two lots of money were auctioned off at the meeting last night, a loan on shares being bid for at 8 per cent. and one on real estate at five per cent.

DONOGHUE LOST BOWLING GAMES

He Was Knocked Out by Lewis

MANCHESTER, N. H., Nov. 5.—Billy Lewis of Concord knocked out Young Donoghue of Lawrence in seven rounds at the Queen City A. C. last night. The bouts were all 10 rounds and were refereed by Owen Kenney.

Lewis and Donoghue boxed wide open and at times both were reeling around the ring from the effects of each other's blows. Donoghue, after taking the count twice in the sixth and being floored five times in the seventh, was helped to his corner by his seconds at the instigation of the referee.

Young McDonough of this city made a punching bag of Eddie Golden of Albany. The New Yorker did not land three good punches during the bout, while McDonough jabbed and hooked till he was firm weary. Golden's ring experience saved him from a knock-out. He was badly punished, but kept under cover most of the way through the bout.

Ed Sheehan of this city lost to Tommy Furey in 10 rounds. The bout was fairly even up to the seventh, Sheehan stopping the Attleboro boy's rushes with a jab and countering with a right hook Furey's attacks on the body. In the seventh Furey went at head and body. Sheehan's left ear was as big as two. He evaded punishment by clever blocking and as clever foot-work.

It was announced that a benefit would be held for Patsy Swene of this city, some seven or one of the best in the lightweight division, who is now broken down in health. Some good boxers in the light and welter-weight class will box in his behalf.

RACE TRACK NEWS

Matt J. Winn, general manager of the coming winter meeting at Juarez, Mexico, stakes for which closed at 12 o'clock Thursday night, has come here with a glowing account of the working of the pari-mutuel system of speculation as operated in Kentucky. Winn believes that the pari-mutuel system is the salvation of racing in this country and predicts that it will be employed by all the tracks in Canada before another year has passed.

"Racing is booming in Kentucky," said Winn Thursday, "and it is wholly due to the pari-mutuel. This form of betting has accomplished many desirable things in the Blue Grass region. It has practically stamped out alleged crooked transactions. There are no pluggers left and the touts and pickers, together with the old hit raff, have disappeared."

"Horse owners inclined to be dishonest have no crooked bookmakers with whom they can frame things up. As there is no way to cheat the public there's nothing in it for a jockey to pull a horse, a collusion between riders, trainers and the gamblers is impossible."

"The new system is a hard blow to handbooks and poolrooms, as no betting odds are written at the track and sometimes mutuals pay such big prices on winners that city gamblers cannot afford to pay them. The profits to the track owners from the machines are greater, and liberal purses, therefore, can be offered. The people of Kentucky have renewed confidence in racing and it is entirely due to this mutual system."

"We are going to have a big meeting at Juarez this winter. Since last year we have made many improvements and are now in a position to offer both inducements and conveniences to the horsemen. Juarez track is one of the finest in the world and has increased accommodations for horses and men we expect to score a brilliant success. The meeting will open on Nov. 24 and will continue for 100 days. We will race on Sundays instead of Mondays, which will be open. More than $300,000 in stakes and purses, an average of $3000 a day, will be distributed among the successful owners. There are no restrictions on open bookmaking in Mexico."

Winn again will have James Butler, Senor Terrazas, J. G. Follanshee, A. Daingerfield, Price McKinney and others associated with him in the conduct of the meeting. The entries received show that the stakes have attracted many of the best known horses and turfmen in this country.

Gottfried Gottlieb Walbaum has a poor opinion of some of the bookmakers who held stakes at Falmouth. "They were pikers," he said, "and with a show of indignation on Thursday. They put up prices and then rubbed them out when a fellow wanted to bet a fifty dollar note. Why, with a century note I could have made a long haul. I was a member of the famous Big Four—McLaughlin, Crusius, Carr and Walbaum—he knew how to get the money without over-anxiety."

The Coney Island Jockey club announces that the Lawrence Realization for the June meeting of 1912 at Sheephead Bay will close on Nov. 16, also that declarations from the Realization of 1911 and 1912 and the Futility of 1911 are due today.

LEMOINE'S BACK WRENCHED
WEBSTER, Nov. 5.—Maurice Lemoine, the Webster welterweight, who was scheduled to meet Jimmie Moriarty of Lowell before the Lakeside A. C., Nov. 8, severely wrenched his back while training with Jeff Dougherty in his quarters yesterday afternoon and will be unable to meet Moriarty. Dougherty will be substituted.

Lively Contests on the Alleys Last Night

The alleys were well patronized last night, owing to the inclement weather, and several good games were played. In the game between the Office and Electrical teams of the Electric Light league the former aggregation administered a stinging defeat to the opposing quintet. The Electrical team started wrong in the first string and though considerable improvement was shown as the game progressed, the Office team had such a large margin that it was almost impossible to overcome it.

Two teams from the New England Telephone & Telegraph Co. battled on the alleys, the Steam team defeating the Construction team by nearly 100 pins.

The Winding Room team of the Boston & Northern power house defeated the Car Barn team by a one-sided score. In the Minor league the Martins defeated the Lamson Rapids.

There were several other interesting games played, the scores of which will be found below:

JUDGE PARKER

Places Responsibility for the High Cost of Living

NEW YORK, Nov. 5.—Republican responsibility for the high cost of living and for extravagance and corruption in public life was the theme last night of the address delivered by former Judge Alton B. Parker at Prospect hall, Brookline. Nor did he forget to mention Theodore Roosevelt.

"If the republicans here vote for Dix on the same basis and in the same proportion that I believe they will vote up-state," prophesied the speaker, "he will be elected by a majority that will overwhelm any pretensions to a third term for the presidency of the United States."

"The republican candidate for governor and his leader seem most desirous of discussing the questions that seem to be of only passing moment in this campaign and refuse to consider the most serious question of all, the high cost of living. It is a practical question to say the least."

The head of the family who has a good wife, who cares for the children, finds it difficult to meet the demands of prevailing high prices, although the national wealth is mounting higher and higher each year. We realize that individual fortunes are mounting higher and higher each year in a manner the like of which the world has never seen. Theodore Roosevelt admitted this was the crying evil of the day.

"The high cost of living takes from the pockets of the many for the benefit of the few. My proposition, which I will attempt to develop, is that large fortunes are due to high tariff rates and business associations formed in restraint of trade, with every advantage taken of the high tariff by those who form the associations. We should hold that party responsible which should in fact be charged with this."

"President Taft has been flouted by a republican congress but he is still of opinion that there should be a further reduction of the tariff. Roosevelt, during the seven and a half years he was president, never once lifted his voice for the reduction of these tariff rates. After he returned from Europe he investigated and he, too, agrees that there should be a reduction."

"Trusts are combinations in restraint of trade. There never was a more helpful instrument devised by man than the legitimately conducted corporation, but all those who are engaged in the upbuilding of corporations in restraint of trade belong to the no longer sell as cheaply as you can, but as dearly as possible. "When a trust has obtained a monopoly it continually increases the prices until a point is reached where the people refuse to buy. GOV. DRAPER

ADDRESSED FIVE RALLIES IN FALL RIVER

FALL RIVER, Nov. 5.—Gov. Draper appeared at five different rallies in the city of Fall River last night. He spent most of his time in discussing his action on labor measures, calling attention to the fact that of the 24 labor measures which had come before him during the past year, he had affixed his name to 23, the exception being the so-called eight hour bill, which he declared to be class legislation and to effect only a small part of the workingmen of the state. He called particular attention to the workingmen's compensation act which he declared to be the best piece of labor legislation that had been passed in 25 years in Massachusetts. He also discussed the arguments on the tariff and Canada reciprocity, declaring that the democratic candidate would, if elected, be able to do nothing to further these things which he was making an issue of in the election. Gov. Draper endorsed the work being done by President Taft and Sir Wilfrid Laurier, looking toward better trade conditions between Canada and the United States.

At one of his rallies, the one in the south end of the city, there was a slight disturbance. As the governor was leaving the hall a man rushed up to him and demanded to know what he was going to do about the high cost of living. A crowd quickly gathered but they were dispersed by the police. Other speakers were Lieut. Gov. Brigham, James M. Swift, candidate for attorney general, Congressman William S. Greene and William Ledoux of Boston.

An examination of candidates for the position of teacher in the elementary schools of Lowell will be held in the High School, Saturday June 3, 1911. Applicants must be graduates of an approved normal school or college, and must have had, at time of examination, one year's experience in teaching. The number to be accepted will be about fifteen, and the examination will include the following subjects: Principles of Teaching, Grammar and Language, Arithmetic, American History, including Civil Government.

Applicants must notify the secretary of the school committee of purpose to take this examination in writing by November 15, 1910. Per order of the school committee, ARTHUR K. WHITCOMB, Sec.

THE NATIONAL BIRD AGAIN IN EVIDENCE FOR THANKSGIVING DECORATIONS

EVERY housekeeper tries to do herself proud in getting up the Thanksgiving dinner. Besides the snowy linen, sparkling silver and glass and savory dishes, some decorations are needed to make the festive occasion quite complete. These decorations are no small item of expense if purchased in the art shops, where hand work brings its price. Any woman or girl may, however, make her own decorations at very small expense and in a short time. I am giving several Thanksgiving decorations for the table which may be worked out very attractively at small expense and trouble.

The Thanksgiving dinner table scheme shown in the illustration is an ward and closed, to the attitude of triumphant victory, with head thrust upward and tail spread in a wide fan. The two papier mache turkeys which roost on the top of the basket handle in the center of the table are of this imported variety of bird. The basket itself is of the new split bamboo in a rich shade of brown and is filled with nuts and fruit. Branching out from the centerpiece are wheel-like spokes of strung raisins and cranberries. Evergreen, too, is twined about the basket handle to add a touch of greenery to the centerpiece.

Important looking turkeys, also of papier mache, are arranged at each plate as place cards, and the candle shades, are trimmed with wheat. Such instance of what can be done in this line by the hostess with little means at her command.

Despite the fact that Thanksgiving day is an American celebration, many of the turkey novelties used by us for decorations are imported. They are carefully designed and put together, and the festive bird is represented in a variety of positions, from the quiet, dignified strut, with tail drawn down-a decoration is easy to carry out, and the expense is trifling.

A decoration for Thanksgiving dinner at which a number of children are included should not be the conventional fruit and floral trimmings, but should please the young rather than the artistic sense. Here is something juvenile:

Have as a centerpiece a chicken coop made from heavy brown paper pasted

These come in papier mache, and many of them could be candy boxes, later given as favors. Turkeys may also be used to hold candies by cutting holes in the backs of good sized, steady birds which will not topple. The shades may be tiny pumpkins, such as are used at Halloween, but without the grotesque faces.

Another centerpiece which will delight children is a pumpkin coach doll dressed in Puritan costume. At one side can be placed a toy ladder on which other Puritan dolls and an Indian or two are waiting to mount. At dessert the lid of the coach can be removed to show long orange ribbons, one for each child present. When these are pulled trifling favors are drawn out.

The favors seen in the cut are the newest of the season's showing and

The Children's School Lunch

LIKE all other affairs of domestic management, the putting up of the school luncheon is sure to become an annoying and burdensome matter if it is not planned for in advance. "Oh, dear, there's nothing in the house for Katherine's or Tom's lunch," moans the mother at a time when the basket should be packed for use. There is, as a rule, no excuse for this state of affairs. The proper thing to do is to make a list of the daily lunch menus best suited to the children's good and the means of the family, say for a week in advance, and make a special point of keeping the needful supplies on hand. There should, besides, be plenty of paraffin paper on hand and a ball of clean white cord.

Nearly all school children need fats to keep up the supply of bodily fuel, so butter and oil, as well as the various meat fats, should find a place in the daily lunch. But since the genus child is apt to bolt his lunch this should contain plenty of vegetable matter, which is to be found in celery, lettuce, cress and the like. All these green things make delicious sandwiches.

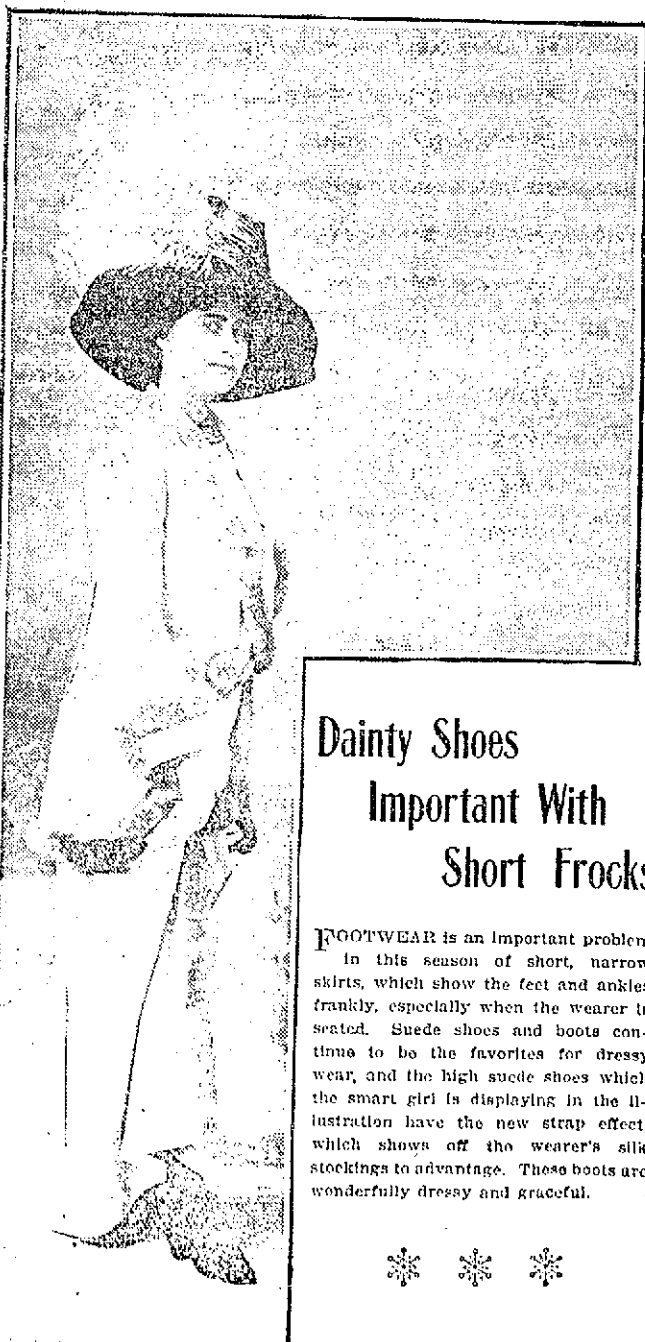

It is hardly necessary to speak of the fruits. Fortunately there are few children who do not crave this healthy form of food. Apples, oranges and bananas are the staple lunch box fruits. But if these are too dear dried fruits thoroughly soaked, then cooked slowly in sweetened water, are by no means to be despised.

As to sweets, try to avoid doughnuts and pie. Gingerbread and plain cakes may be used sparingly, but dark spread with butter and maple or dark brown sugar is well liked. Plain candy made from brown sugar, a handful of raisins and some dates or figs are all good things to put in the lunch box to satisfy the craving for sweet food.

The folding tin boxes now so much in use are great conveniences. Candy boxes answer very well, and if a school bag is carried the lunch need only be wrapped in a parcel. Children usually like to help to get up their lunches and will as they grow older learn to do it for themselves.

A NEW MATERIAL.

A new material for little folks' coats and cape is sealskin velour. It comes in an exceedingly soft, silky thick pile velvet, light and warm and very useful, as it does not easily crease. It is not to be thought of as an imitation fur cloth in any sense, but more as a handsome velour.

Dainty Shoes Important With Short Frocks

FOOTWEAR is an important problem in this season of short, narrow skirts, which show the feet and ankles frankly, especially when the wearer is seated. Suede shoes and boots continue to be the favorites for dressy wear, and the high suede shoes which the smart girl is displaying in the illustration have the new strap effect, which shows off the wearer's silk stockings to advantage. These boots are wonderfully dressy and graceful.

In Line With The Fashions

A few seasons back milady shivered through the winter in pumps and thin silk hose, short skirts blowing in the breeze, and if any furs were worn at all they were small and merely draped the shoulders, more for appearance than for warmth. How different are the styles this season! The low shoes were abandoned with the first hint of cold weather for high boots. Stormy days see those of tan and dress occasions of warm velvet. Low shoes will be conspicuous by their absence this winter.

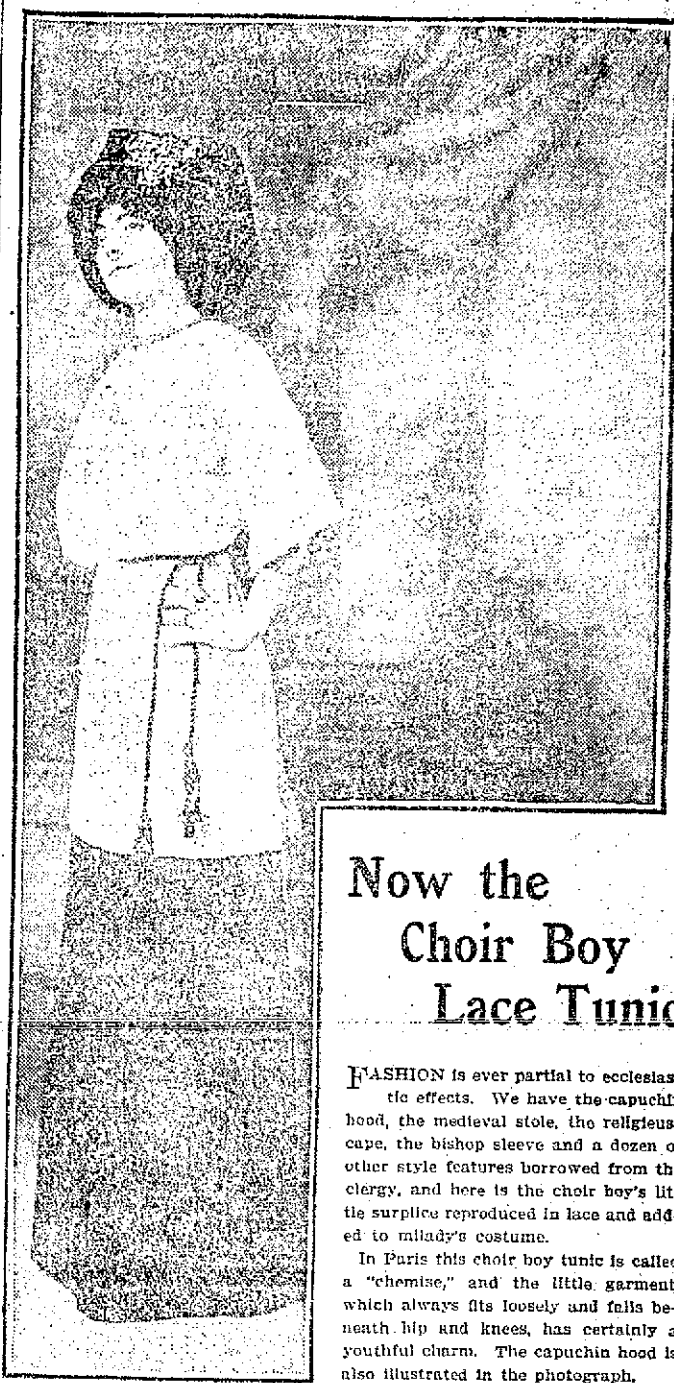

The tapestry covered hats, the tapestry drawn tight over them, are among the smart things in headgear. They are promised a long run. Very effective color schemes are possible with these tapestry hats, which are of dull and soft old colors on light grounds, but treated wrongly they are capable of queer results.

For women who seem to have everything there is a new jewel case made of steel and asbestos which is perfectly fireproof. It is of generous size, 10 by 7 inches, and is made with two trays, divided into compartments for rings, bracelets, trinkets, etc., while in the lower section is a soft pad for brooches, watches or miniatures. Brass handles finish the top and sides. This case comes covered with blue, red, black or tan leather and is lined with dark velvet.

The separate blouse is more in evidence than ever this winter. Many of these blouses are made with the seamless sleeve, the tuck in one form or another appearing on the sleeves.

The materials for dressy gowns are lovely. For formal wear velvet is again in high place, and there is nothing which can equal this material in richness and elegance. It is used for gowns and suits for afternoon and evening wear or the long separate loose wrap.

At first glance one does not care for the sailor collars and wide rayers shown on the latest models. The sailor collar we usually associate with outlying garments and as appropriate only for youthful wearers. But from all appearances mothers and grandmothers are destined to wear it during the winter on coats, evening wraps and street suits.

Now the Choir Boy Lace Tunic

FASHION is ever partial to ecclesiastical effects. We have the capuchin hood, the medieval stole, the religious cape, the bishop sleeve and a dozen of other style features borrowed from the clergy, and here is the choir boy's little surplice reproduced in lace and added to milady's costume.

In Paris this choir boy tunic is called a "chemise," and the little garment, which always fits loosely and falls beneath hip and knees, has certainly a youthful charm. The capuchin hood is also illustrated in the photograph.

POISON AND POISONING

A GREAT number of poison cases which occur are due to extreme carelessness. Various poisonous substances frequently employed in the household are left lying carelessly about.

For instance, salts of lemon, spirits of salts, carbolic acid, etc., are often allowed to lie about even in houses where there are children, while it is by no means an uncommon practice to fill old medicine bottles with lotions, liniments and other poisonous substances, allowing the old labels to remain on or leaving them without labels.

In such instances it is not surprising that cases of poisoning are so frequently met with. It seems hardly necessary to say that all poisonous substances should be plainly labeled and kept apart by themselves, and some very careful housewives attach tiny bells around the throats of the bottles so the tinkles will attract the user's attention.

There are many different kinds of poisons, but they may for convenience be classed under two heads—corrosive or burning in their action and noncorrosive, those which do not burn. The first thing you have to ascertain is whether the poison swallowed is a corrosive or a noncorrosive. The patient may be unconscious or he may be in ignorance of what he has swallowed.

The general symptoms of corrosive poisoning are severe cramps in the stomach, often accompanied with sickness, diarrhea and unconsciousness.

When these symptoms appear in one or more persons soon after eating it is fairly conclusive evidence of poisoning.

If it is a corrosive poisoning there will be signs of burning around the lips and on the tongue of the patient. Remember, if there is any burn visible no emetic must be given. Nausea must on no account be induced, as it only causes further injury to the internal parts which are already burned. Oil may be given to soothe and protect the burned coats of the stomach and throat. If oil cannot be obtained give the white of an egg in a little water.

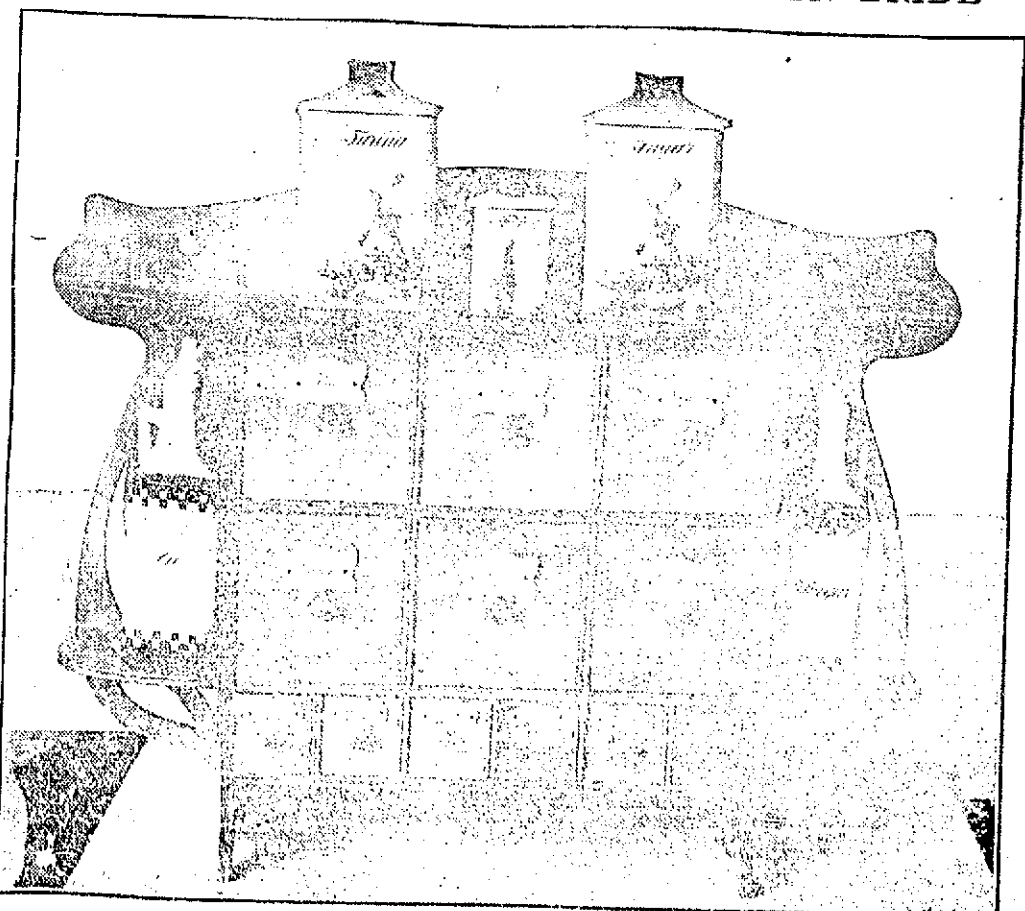

In cases where the poison is known this ought to be followed by an antidote.

If there are no signs of burning about the patient it is safe to assume that it is a noncorrosive poison, and your object then is to induce sickness immediately by giving an emetic. A simple emetic generally at hand is salt and tepid water and a little mustard mixed together.

If you are able to get sulphate of zinc it is very prompt in its action. The dose for an adult is from twenty to thirty grains given in a tumblerful of warm water.

Failing these remedies, soapy or even greasy water taken warm and in sufficient quantities may be effective. If you are so situated that you have nothing to administer tickle the back of the throat either with a feather or with your finger. Of course a physician should be summoned as soon as possible.

VOTED PARK LOAN CARMICHAEL BY 2000

The Common Council Reversed Its Action of Previous Meeting

Question of Dummer Street Extension Reopened and Referred to Special Committee

Both branches of the city council held special meetings last night and voted to borrow $10,000 for the development of Shedd park.

This was the very purpose for which Mayor Meehan called the special meetings. At its meeting Tuesday night the common council killed the original Shedd park order for $10,000. The action of the council was a great surprise and Mayor Meehan believed that if given another chance the council would vote the money for the development of the park.

In calling the special meetings, however, the mayor builded better than he knew, for the common council didn't stop at reversing its position in the Shedd park matter. The council also voted reconsideration of its action in accepting the adverse report of the committee on streets in connection with Dummer street extension and, on motion of Councilman Dow who introduced the minority report and who stood alone on the committee on streets as in favor of the Dummer street extension, the council voted to appoint a committee of three councilmen and two aldermen to act with the city solicitor and inspector of buildings in the matter of the extension. This action reopened the whole question.

Another change of front on the part of the common council had to do with the police auto patrol and an automobile for the fire chief. Last night the council voted to borrow $5600 for a police patrol and $2000 for an automobile for the chief of the fire department. At the last meeting the council refused to vote the money.

Board of Aldermen

Chairman Gray called to order at 8 o'clock with eight members present. Alderman Carmichael was not in favor of $5600 for an auto patrol. He said he did not believe in paying interest on $5600 for ten years. "It is not the right kind of financing and it is not fair to the taxpayers," he said. When the question of voting to borrow the money was put, Mr. Carmichael voted against it. The other seven members voted in favor. Alderman Qua was the absentee.

A recess of one hour was voted in order that the common council might be heard from on the question of the $10,000 loan for Shedd park. As soon as the common council voted the loan it was sent to the board of aldermen and was adopted by the aldermen in concurrence.

Common Council

There were 27 members present when President Jewett called to order at 8:40 o'clock. The joint order providing that the park commission be asked to name the Anne street park "Lucy Larcom park" was adopted in concurrence.

The $10,000 loan order for the development of Shedd park, introduced by Councilman Chapman was read.

Councilman Genest moved that the order be made for $5000 instead of $10,000. The motion was seconded by Councilman Gookin. Councilman Chapman said it seemed strange to him that councilmen should hesitate in voting for the $10,000. He said it was generally understood that the amount was almost ready to double the amount if the city council would vote it. He said that the city council should show proper appreciation of Mr. Shedd's generosity.

Councilman Genest—"I don't see any reason why we should vote to borrow $10,000 for this park at this time. It is too late now to expend that amount of money, and what is the use of paying interest on money that is not being used?"

Councilman Donahue—"It would be very unfair for us to do anything other than to vote the original amount, $10,000. The landscape architect and members of the park commission have told us that work to the amount of $10,000 can be done this year and we ought to vote the money."

Councilman Sullivan—"I think the councilman shows poor discretion in suggesting that the amount be cut to $5000. If the $10,000 is appropriated tonight, work on the park will begin at once."

Councilman Gookin—"The landscape architect can't figure on the weather any more than anybody else and he cannot tell if the weather will continue fair long enough to do the work for which the $10,000 is intended. We ought not to pay interest on $10,000 if $5000 will do."

Councilman Flanagan—"I sincerely hope that this order will pass tonight. The architect explained that the work can be done this year and that the skating rink will be ready for use this winter. I hope the council will vote to appropriate the money."

Councilman Gargan, who voted in favor of the $10,000 loan in the first place, quietly urged the final passage last night as the best policy to adopt under the circumstances. He believed the city might lose by delay.

Councilman Achin—"I approve of $5000 for the park. I think that is enough for the present, but to show my appreciation of Mr. Shedd's generosity I will vote for $10,000."

Councilman Butler—"I feel that this order should pass tonight. I have asked with a number of heavy taxpayers and I found that they were all in favor of it."

Councilman Royal—"I voted against the $10,000 loan order at the last meeting because I thought that $5000 was enough at this time, and I still think so. I will vote for $5000, and if that doesn't go, I will vote for the $10,000 order."

A ye and nay vote was taken on the question of passing the order as amended, and the amendment was lost, 21 to 6.

Democratic Candidate Makes Prediction on Result

Pepublicans Concede That Foss Will Carry Lowell by 3000 Votes—What the Other Candidates Are Doing

The state campaign is fast drawing to a close and all indications point to a general democratic victory.

Last year Mr. Vahey carried Lowell by 2500 and the fifth congressional district by nearly 2800. This year even republicans concede that Mr. Foss will carry Lowell by 3000, and while Ames' men of course will not admit that their pet is to be defeated they are worrying greatly and are inclined to criticize Col. Ames for giving so much attention to his contest with Lodge and so little to the congressional contest. Since the publication of the Ames' letter to Lodge, they are more worried than ever. With the democratic vote of the district behind him there is no doubt that Col. Carmichael will be elected. He has made a fine campaign and has addressed voters in every corner of the district. He has drawn hundreds of republicans to him and also has drawn back many of the so-called Ames' democrats of both Lowell and Lawrence. The fact that Congressman Ames has employed democrats to assist him in his contest for the senate should not influence any democratic voter away from his duty toward the candidate of the party of the people. Foss, Cassidy and Carmichael are winners.

Carmichael by 2000

In conversation with the writer today Col. Carmichael said: "I expect to carry the fifth district by about 2000 votes. I am confident that I will receive the democratic vote of Lowell and Lawrence. Conditions that prevailed in congressional campaigns in days gone by have entirely disappeared. The convention which nominated me was thoroughly harmonious and since that time the democrats of Lawrence have assured me of their support. I am receiving daily most encouraging reports from the towns and the assurances of support from republican sources have really surprised me. Lowell has ever given me a handsome vote and if I receive my party vote in this city I am confident that my majority will be in the vicinity of 2000."

The Senatorial Contests

While all the noise of the campaign has been made in the interest of the big guns of the party the senatorial and representative candidates have not been idle but have been canvassing their respective districts by personal solicitation and have worked untiringly. Candidate Philip Kieley in the seventh senatorial district has aroused great interest in his cause among the democrats of wards five and nine.

inal proposition to borrow $10,000. The vote showed 26 in favor and 1 against. Mr. Howe voted against it. On motion of Councilman Tracey the vote was Heretofore the democrats of that district, particularly those in Lowell, took but little interest in the senatorial nominations as they believed they had no chance to elect. Mr. Kieley, a clean cut man, a forceful speaker and backed up by a fine legislative record, has come to Lowell and assured the voters of wards five and nine that with their support he can win, and will win. As a result Mr. Kieley will receive the biggest vote ever given a senatorial candidate in wards five and nine. In the eighth district the democrats are fortunate in having a strong candidate in the person of Hon. Fisher D. Pearson, who was the first democrat of recent years to break into the senate from these parts which had been specially gerrymandered in the interest of the republican party. Mr. Pearson knows how to conduct a campaign and has left no stone unturned to bring about success. While a member of the senate he made a creditable record and has received the endorsement of organized labor in this section. Mr. Pearson will receive a big vote in the seven wards of the city while he has a wide acquaintance in the towns, and thoroughly canvassed them.

The Representatives

In only three districts are there contests, as the others are foregone conclusions, as if were.

In the 14th, 17th and 18th the democracy has a chance and the candidates therein are improving every opportunity.

In the 14th district the democracy is particularly fortunate in having as its candidate James H. Rogers, who, while at present a well known and popular resident of ward one, has also resided for years in Draught and was a member of the school board in that town, so that he is thoroughly known to men of both parties in both sections of the district. Mr. Rogers has a clean record, is in every way competent to all the position with credit to himself and his district, and having been a resident of Draught knows the town needs as well as those of the city.

In the 17th there has always been a chance for a democrat as John J. McManion, James E. O'Donnell and others have won against strong republicans in the past. The democrats present Messrs. Stephen Monahan and Thomas H. Golden as the candidates in this district, both having made excellent records. Mr. Monahan is the well known employee of the Lowell Gas Light company and a member of the Lowell Cadet band and Musicians union. Mr. Golden is a member of Lowell lodge of Elks and the Theatrical Mechanics union. Both are most made unanimous.

The joint order to borrow $2000 for the fire chief's new automobile was adopted 23 to 4. Councilman Flanagan can have reconsideration at the next meeting, he having voted in the minority.

The joint order to borrow $5600 for a police patrol was read and unanimously passed. At the last meeting, the council refused to vote the money. On motion of Councilman Flanagan it was voted to omit the next regular meeting.

The Dummer street extension came up on Councilman Dow's motion to reconsider the action whereby the council at the last meeting voted to adopt the majority report of the committee on streets, that Dummer street be not extended.

A ye and nay vote was taken and it showed 17 for reconsideration and 10 against.

"I asked for reconsideration," said Mr. Dow, "because I believed that further consideration of the question was due to the petitioners. This matter has been before the public for 20 years and I believe that the acceptance of the majority report would not be in accordance with the city's best interests, and I move that the matter be turned over to a committee consisting of three members of the common council and two members of the board of aldermen and that this committee be assisted by the city solicitor and inspector of buildings, and that both majority and minority reports be referred to this committee."

Councilman Gookin opposed the motion on the ground that the committee on streets had gone into the matter thoroughly.

Councilman Genest said he didn't know what Councilman Dow meant by referring the matter to a special committee. Mr. Genest is a member of the committee on streets and he said that the committee had considered the matter very carefully before recommending that the petitioners for the extension of Dummer street be given leave to withdraw.

Councilman Flanagan said he was opposed to the special committee. He said it looked like a slap at the street committee and he allowed that that committee was all right.

Councilman Dow said that the petition had been signed by 136 persons, and he didn't believe that the signers of the petition expected the city council to make a farce of the matter.

Councilman Flanagan moved that the two reports be referred back to the committee on streets.

Councilman John Davis was opposed to this motion. He allowed that the committee on streets would adhere to its former action if the matter should be recommended.

Councilman Flanagan's motion was put and lost. Councilman Gookin passed a little "plamauch" to Councilman Dow. He said he was fully in favor of Mr. Dow's attitude throughout and admired him for standing up in his boots and bringing in a minority report. He did not believe, however, in the proposition for a special committee.

The question then came on Mr. Dow's motion for a special committee and was voted. The vote was 17 to 10. Adjourned.

Another Term for Cuff

A battle-royal is on in the 19th district where Representative Thomas S. Cuff is seeking a second term with Lawyer Frederic P. Marble as his republican opponent. Mr. Marble has been "selected" to bring the district back to the republican ranks. But the voters after one year of Mr. Cuff's stewardship are not at all desirous of making a change this year. Those who voted for him last year are thoroughly satisfied with his action while many who did not vote for him last year will do so this year as the result of the fine showing that he made during his first year in the legislature. Seldom does a representative, much less a democratic representative, get an opportunity to distinguish himself in the eyes of his district during his first year at the house but Rep. Cuff proved to be a notable exception and jumped to prominence among his colleagues in his first year. He was one of the most popular members in the house and one of its leading vote getters. He says the principal supporters of the corporation tax bill which meant hundreds of thousands of dollars to Lowell and he secured many votes for the measure through his personal popularity. The town of Tewksbury owes him a lasting debt of gratitude for getting through the bill to reimburse cities and towns for taxes lost through the establishment of state institutions. This bill meant thousands of dollars to Tewksbury and his speech on the floor of the house gained many votes for it while the bill among the legislators was known as "Cuff's Hobby" as he stuck to it until a successful issue was brought about. As a member of the committee on public health, Rep. Cuff introduced a bill to restrict the sale of morphine and other depraving drugs which was considered one of the most important measures of the session. His work to spare drug inebriates from further degradation won him great praise. On the income tax, direct nominations, labor bills, public opinion bills and in fact on all measures Rep. Cuff was ever on the right side. Rep. Cuff can present no stronger argument for his reelection than his legislative record for the past year.

The County Contests

James J. Irwin of Everett, democratic candidate for district attorney, states that the sentiment at the lower end of the district is such that the democrats can break the county ring and elect their candidates by supporting them to a man. Mr. Irwin is a well known attorney and a forceful fighter and he is throwing hot shot at his opponent and the county ring during the campaign. He expects a big republican vote from the lower end of the county and says that with the support of the democracy of Lowell he can win. Whitfield Tuck of Winchester, democratic candidate for high sheriff tells a similar story of great republican defection at the lower end of the county. With Mr. Irwin, Mr. Tuck is covering the entire district in the interest of the county candidates.

The many Lowell friends of Joseph J. Marin, Lowell's candidate for county commissioner, are confident of his success. Mr. Marin is one of Lowell's leading business men and he is a self-made man. He is one of New England's best known French-American citizens. A successful business man he may be described as a "business" man. He has been in the administration of county affairs if elected.

Dexter C. Whittemore, the other democratic candidate for county commissioner is a Middlesex farmer, a descendant of those sturdy citizens whose names and deeds illuminate the pages of American history. Mr. Whittemore although in a republican environment has ever been a staunch democrat. If the town of Carlisle and the neighboring towns settled the election, there'll be nothing to it but Whittemore.

Grand Labor Rally

A grand labor rally will be held at the rooms of the Trades and Labor council, 32 Middle street, Sunday afternoon at 2:30, under the auspices of the political activity committee of the state branch of the American Federation of Labor, and many prominent labor men from different parts of the state will address the gathering. Everyone is invited.

Another Democratic Rally

The campaign will close in this city with a democratic rally in Associate hall on Monday evening. Prominent speakers will be present. An effort is being made to get Mayor Fitzgerald of Boston to speak here.

THIEF FOILED

WOMAN CAUGHT HIM CARRYING OFF TYPEWRITER

CHESTER, Vt., Nov. 5.—An unknown man entered the insurance office of Malcolm Baldwin Thursday evening, apparently for the sole purpose of stealing Miss Mary Baldwin's new typewriter.

He was discovered by Miss Baldwin, who heard a noise, and upon going to the hall door she saw the man leaving the room with the typewriter. She grabbed for the machine, but was thrown one side by the man. She then struck him on the side of the head with her fist and when he attempted to take her by the throat she grabbed a chair and struck the man over the head twice with it. He dropped the machine and ran to the street, a defeated, would-be thief.

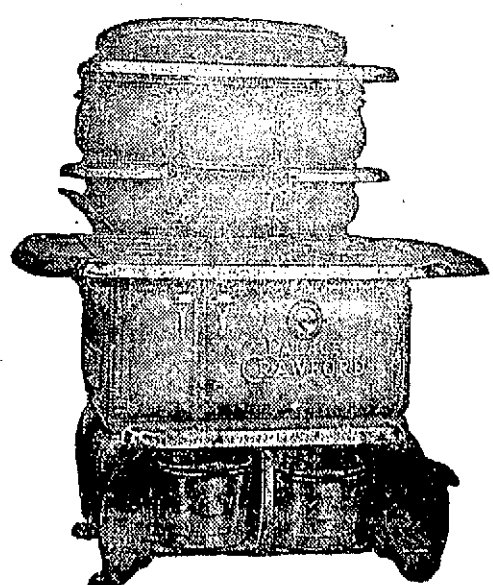

A carriage was in waiting for the man across the street. It was a plucky piece of work by the young woman. The office room is on the ground floor and was dark at the time.

OUR GRAMMAR SCHOOLS

THE PAWTUCKET

Sketch of School's History, With Graduates.

Pawtucket Grammar school, situated in Mammoth road, Pawtucketville, was organized Sept. 1, 1884, with Oliver C. Semple as principal. Mr. Semple was a native of Bennington, Vt. He resigned as principal Sept. 4, 1885, and was succeeded Sept. 28 of the same year by Cyrus W. Irish, the present principal of the high school. When Mr. Irish was transferred to the high school, Miss Nellie McDonald acted as principal for a short time and was succeeded by the present incumbent, Mr. William P. Barry.

The Pawtucket school has eight rooms and a large hall, and the average attendance is about 250. One of the eight rooms is used by a primary class from the New Moody school. Principal William P. Barry, of the Pawtucket school, was born in this city and attended the public schools here. Later he graduated from the Ottawa university. He studied law and was admitted to the bar in 1885. He practiced law for about three years. His assistants at the Pawtucket school are Ellen M. MacDonald, M. Isabella Phelps, Charlotte C. Walsh,

THE WATER MAINS

Will be Blown Off Tomorrow Afternoon

There was a "don't forget" notice sent out from the office of the water board this forenoon. The water mains are going to be blown off tomorrow between 1 and 5 o'clock p. m. Now, there's a straight tip that doesn't cost a cent, and if you feel that you will have any use for water between the hours herein mentioned, it's up to you to draw it before the blowing off the mains.

The water board met last night and approved monthly bills. It was the regular monthly meeting of the board, and besides the approval of bills a hearing was given on one petition for the abatement of water taxes.

Under the auspices of the political committee of the Trades and Labor Council.

Prominent labor men throughout the state will address the meeting. Come and bring your friends.

MAN DIED SUDDENLY

George V. Allen Was a Victim of Paralytic Shock

George V. Allen, aged 68 years, residing in Pawtucket street, died late yesterday afternoon at the Chelmsford street hospital. The cause of death is not known at the present time, the examining physician not having yet signed the death certificate. Inasmuch as the man had been placed under arrest and was subsequently removed to the hospital and later died it was thought that the case would bear investigation. The police took the matter in hand and after investigation are satisfied that the man died from natural causes.

Shortly before ten o'clock on Thursday night a patrolman assigned to duty in the rear of a building off Plain

ADAMS IS GUILTY

He Was Convicted on a Charge of Larceny

BOSTON, Nov. 5.—"Guilty" was the verdict returned today by the jury that for the last three weeks has listened to the evidence presented at the trial of A. D. F. Adams, a former stockbroker of this city, on a charge of larceny. Conviction was on one count only of an indictment containing nine counts.

During his career as a broker Adams had extensive dealings with F. Augustus Helme and other mining operators. Adams is the principal defendant in a suit filed by Helme and others to get possession of securities valued at $500,000, which, it is alleged, the broker disposed of and which are now supposed to be in the possession of nearly forty brokers, who are real defendants and against whom evidence has been taken for nearly a year by a master appointed by the supreme court of Massachusetts.

Adams claimed the right, under a clause in the note to dispose of the securities in any way he saw fit, but the government, in the case where conviction has just been secured, contended that such action on his part without the consent of the persons who pledged the collateral constituted larceny.

TERRIBLE TRAGEDY

Man Killed His Daughters and Attempted Suicide

ELIZABETH, N. J., Nov. 5.—After killing his two young daughters, E. F. French, a superintendent of the public service corporation, tried to kill himself today at his home here. He is said to be fatally injured.

French had been sick a long time and it is believed his mind had become affected. The two little victims were Reba, 12 years old and Doris, 10 years old. Their father seized a revolver and shot both girls dead and then turned the weapon upon himself. Little hope is held out for his recovery.

THREAT TO KILL

Man Made Daring Attempt at Highway Robbery

FITCHBURG, Nov. 5.—A daring attempt at highway robbery in the very heart of the business district of this city today was followed by the arrest of the alleged offender within an hour after the occurrence.

Miss Jennie Hackett, bookkeeper for the D. M. Dillon Steam Boller Co., while walking from the bank to the company's office on Crocker street with the company's payroll of about $1500, was seized from behind by an Italian, who pressed a revolver to her head and threatened her with death if

TWO SURVIVORS

Told of the Loss of the Kurdistan

TENERIFFE, Canary Islands, Nov. 5.—Two seamen, the sole survivors, arrived here today and told of the loss of the Anglo-Algerian liner Kurdistan off Sicily, October 20. The steamer carried a crew of 40. The number of passengers is not known.

ESCAPING GAS

Caused the Death of One Man

BAYONNE, N. J., Nov. 5.—Escaping gas from an oil-extracting machine flooded a small room in the Standard Oil plant here today suffocated one workman and felled another to the floor. A third, discovering the plight of his two comrades, attempted to rescue them but was also overcome. Considerable time elapsed before other employees came to the room and dragged the three men into the open air.

The dead man is Joseph Gaylard, the foreman of the room. The other men are not expected to live.

LOWELL HIGH

LINED UP AGAINST ROXBURY HIGH ELEVEN

The Lowell and Roxbury high school football eleven mixed. It up on the gridiron at Washington park this afternoon and despite the inclemency of the weather there was a large attendance, the enthusiastic followers of the Lowell team turning out in large numbers. The local team is in the pink of condition and inasmuch as the visiting aggregation has not done any playing for the past month the home team feels confident of a victory.

DR. McCLUSKEY

RETURNED HOME AFTER COURSE OF STUDY IN NEW YORK

Dr. Richard J. McCluskey has returned from New York where he has spent several years in study. Dr. McCluskey is a native of Lowell, and is a graduate of St. Patrick's Boys' academy and of Holy Cross college. Later he took a medical course in the college of Physicians and Surgeons of Columbia university, New York. After being graduated from this institution he received an appointment at St. Mary's hospital, Brooklyn, where he remained two years. Dr. McCluskey was a member of the Lowell board of aldermen in 1907-1908, and is well and favorably known through his affiliation with many of our prominent and social and fraternal organizations.

TORPEDO BOATS TRIAL

ROCKLAND, Me., Nov. 5.—A second postponement of this time until 5 a. m. tomorrow, was today made of the final trial of the torpedo boat destroyer Sterrett. On this test, which will be a four hour run at her best speed, the destroyer's screws must average 597 revolutions a minute for four hours to acquire the 23 1/2 knots an hour required. Of the five anti-burning destroyers already tried the record for this final test is held by the Paulding, which averaged 22.80 knots an hour. The Sterrett's sister ship Perkins averaged 22.75 knots. The builders are confident that the Sterrett will beat the Perkins' showing by a considerable margin. Four more destroyers of this class remain to be tried and their trials will be held on the Delaware course within eight or ten weeks. The Sterrett probably will arrive in Boston harbor between 3 and 4 o'clock tomorrow afternoon and come to an anchorage at the drawbridge near the South station.

CAMPAIGN ISSUES

Discussed by T. M. Nolan, F. of L., Who Also Thanks The Sun

The following letter from Thomas M. Nolan, the representative of the political activity committee of the American Federation of Labor, deals with live campaign issues and, we believe, voices the sentiments of the labor organization he represents:

Editor Lowell Sun:

Dear Sir:—May I be permitted to express through your columns my sincere appreciation of the uniform courtesy extended by its citizens during several days' visit in the city of Lowell.

I desire especially to record the kindness and assistance which the Lowell Sun has proved in the work assigned me of demonstrating the indefensible attitude of Gov. Draper in twice vetoing the eight hour day bill and his abortive and specious endeavor to justify his opposition to that important measure by statements durized only in language indulged in so frequently by the world famed African hunter, Theodore Roosevelt, but which it hardly becomes a humble individual like the writer to use in your reputable and high class newspaper.

I shall not impose upon your good nature to enter into a detailed statement of the merits of the measure providing for the proper and effective enforcement of the eight hour bill which twice passed the Massachusetts general court and on both occasions was vetoed by his excellency the governor. Suffice it to say, that the bill in the opinion of the United States supreme court and of the ablest jurists in America is absolutely constitutional and is furthermore demanded by the wage earners of this commonwealth anxious to have an 8 hour day bill that will properly safeguard the interests of men employed by contractors doing work for state, cities and towns in Massachusetts.

Governor Draper has not alone twice vetoed the proposed law, but states he will take the same action if again elected.

On the other hand the candidate of the democratic party for governor, Hon. Eugene N. Foss, has stated to the political activity committee of the Massachusetts Federation of Labor that he will sign any reasonable measure to regulate the hours of labor.

Further than that, Mr. Foss stands squarely upon the platform of the democratic party, which is considered one of the broadest and most progressive documents of its kind ever adopted by either of the leading political parties.

It is the belief among thinking men with whom I have conversed in this state that the people are anxious to record a protest against the high cost of living, that they favor remedial legislation, particularly as it may apply to women and children employed in mercantile and manufacturing establishments, all of them unorganized, and unable to do anything for themselves; that the most emphatic way to register such protest and to place their votes where they will accomplish the most good in behalf of progressive laws is to give them to Mr. Foss and candidates of the democratic party because of the splendid platform on which they stand.

The reelection of Governor Draper would postpone progressive legislation and tend to uphold the present high cost of living.

Personally, my vote will be cast for Eugene N. Foss for governor, for the other candidates on the democratic state ticket, and for the democratic candidates for congress, believing I will thereby be expressing my belief that the democratic platform stands for popular and progressive legislation.

and I will furthermore be recording my most profound protest as an American citizen against the laws that have caused the present infamously unjust high cost of living.

Again thanking you and through the

HARVARD VS. CORNELL

Immense Crowd at the Stadium to See Big Game

CAMBRIDGE, Nov. 5.—The largest crowd of the season streamed out to the stadium today to see the powerful Harvard eleven play the light but fast Cornell field on a wet gridiron. This is the second game between the two universities since they resumed football relations after a lapse of ten years.

While Harvard won last year by a score of 13 to 0 and have never been defeated by a Cornell team, the local collegians have always given the Crimson a tough battle. The visitors came to Cambridge this year with an unbeaten record, although one game resulted in a tie. Harvard has yet to see its goal line crossed, and its superb showing in the game with West Point last week made it a strong favorite in today's contest. It was anticipated that Cornell would use a fast backfield in some spectacular plays. Recollection goes back to last year when the Cornell team mystified Harvard by a wonderfully well executed triple forward pass. Such a play had never been seen on the gridiron and the Crimson players stood as transfixed, waiting for Cornell to stop passing the ball about its backfield.

DEATHS

SPRAGUE—Mrs. Sophronia Hubbard Sprague, aged 80 years, 5 months, widow of Thomas Sprague, died this afternoon at the residence of her daughter, Mrs. E. E. Sawyer, 21 Chester street. Born at Winchester, N. H., she came to Lowell when a young girl, and for more than 70 years she has been a resident of this city. Besides her daughter, she leaves two sons, Corde R. and Clarence H., also two grandchildren, Mrs. F. G. Walker and Helen E. Sawyer.

DARTMOUTH MEETS AMHERST

HANOVER, N. H., Nov. 5.—The last football of the season, the local gridiron brought an unusually large crowd of graduates for the annual contest today between Dartmouth and Amherst. The Green team went into the game with something more than the usual confidence, while the Purple and White eleven were hopeful of the outcome or at least of a score.

Both teams found the field in a soggy condition after last night's rain, and while the sun broke through the damp clouds at times, it was not sufficient to dry the turf.

A large delegation journeyed up the Connecticut from the Massachusetts college, well armed with megaphones and primed with college cheers and songs.

Dartmouth Daley, lb; Sherwin, lb; Whitmore, lb; Needham, lb; Black, rg; Lowejoy, rt; Ryan, re; Rogers, qb; Morey, lb; Hoban, rlb; Barends, fb.

Amherst lb Madden; lb Creed; lb Stibley; c Pinkett; rg, Bonoma; rt, Gueller; re, Cook; qb, Feltz; lb, Mills; rlb, Aubly; fb, Campbell.

YALE IS CRIPPLED

NEW HAVEN, Nov. 5.—Without the services of Kilpatrick at end and with Captain Daley playing with an injured side, Yale meets today one of the best football teams Brown has ever sent out of Providence.

The wearers of the blue are optimistic. Brown, which held the strong Harvard team to 12 points, is in the pink of condition and well trained in the plays possible under the new rules. Yale has been drilled the past week in the new style of playing and will depend upon the backfield for the material gains.

PRINCETON N. J., Nov. 5.—Princeton will meet Holy Cross on University field here this afternoon following the game between the Yale and Princeton freshmen on the same gridiron.

Holy Cross has a strong team this season, having held Yale to 12 points. Princeton has made practically no preparation for today's contest. Rain prevented practice yesterday, and Thursday, except for signal drills in the cage, and in the earlier part of the week the varsity men were given a rest from the effects of the contest with Dartmouth last Saturday.

If the field remains wet it is not likely Princeton will use her best men more than is absolutely necessary. The lineup:

STILL GOING UP

On and after November 7, 1910, owing to the increased price of raw materials it has become necessary to advance the price of the following candies: All Caramels and Bon-Bons to 60 cents per pound, Chocolate Almonds, Chocolate walnuts and a few specialties to 80 cents per pound. We shall add new kinds to this 80 cent line from time to time.

Think it over, Mr. Voter: Are you satisfied with the Payne-Aldrich tariff law and with those who voted for it?

Brown will not be without her supporters, for a special train, the first to be run from Providence to New Haven for a Yale-Brown game, was due to arrive shortly before game with several hundred riders.

A vote for CARMICHAEL for Congress is a vote against rising prices and against the Payne-Aldrich tariff law.

6 O'CLOCK THE WELCOME RAIN

THE WELCOME RAIN HAS BEEN A BLESSING TO EVERYBODY, BUT ESPECIALLY TO THE FARMERS.

Brought Relief to Farmers and Trade to Car Lines

The old saying, "When it rains it pours" is a very true one. Several weeks ago the farmers were praying for rain in order that the land might be irrigated and wells filled and the public generally felt that rain would do considerable good by way of laying the germ laden dust. The mills and factories were suffering from low water and these, too were benefited by the rain.

During the past 26 hours, however, the precipitation has been very heavy. The farmer is satisfied with the amount of rain and is willing to have it stop now. Since Wednesday night the rainfall has been two inches, according to the record kept by the proprietors of the Locks & Canals in Broadway.

The storm started Wednesday and has continued up to the present time. In reality there were two storms, for Thursday it stopped raining for a time.

During the storm of Wednesday night and early Thursday morning .475 inches of rain fell.

Yesterday, however, the storm broke forth with violence and from the time it started until this morning 1.513 inches of rain fell.

Yesterday noon the rain started to descend in torrents and it continued to fall heavily during the afternoon. Last night, however, the storm reached its height.

Very few ventured out last night, and the streets were practically deserted.

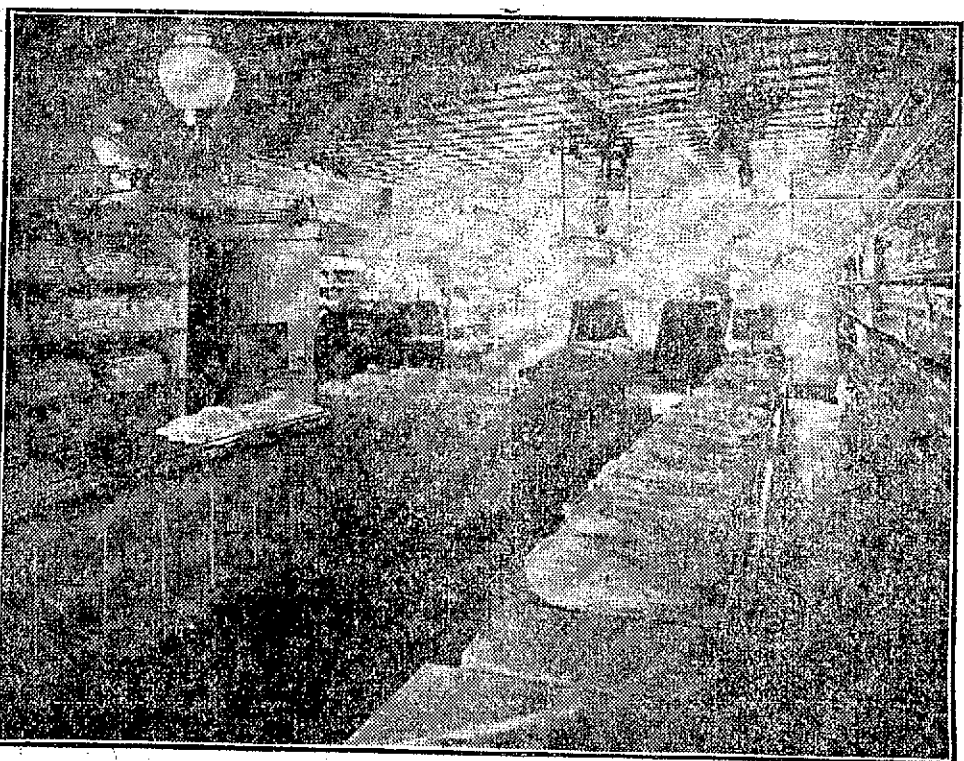

It is said that "it is no ill wind that blows nobody good" and the Boston & Northern did a rushing business yesterday and last evening. Extra cars were put on the different lines and yet there were not enough cars to care for the people during the rush after 6 o'clock last night. The stablekeepers and taxicab owners also derived some benefit from the storm. The stores, it is said, sold quite a large number of umbrellas, and the shoe stores did a rushing business on rubbers. If you did get a soaking by the rain last night just remember that to the vast majority the storm was a benefit.

SAMUEL GOMPERS

Has Endorsed the Candidacy of Mr. Foss

The attitude of Samuel Gompers on the candidacy of Mr. Foss in this campaign is fully explained in a telegram of recent date, which reads as follows:
 "Washington, D. C., October 29, 1910.
 James W. Wall, Chairman, Political Activity Committee, Quincy House, Boston, Mass.
 Telegram received. American Federation of Labor has no desire to interfere in a purely state campaign. If Mr. Foss will stand true to labor's rights, he should be supported. Under any circumstances, a man who will veto so necessary a measure as an eight hour work day bill as Governor Draper did, ought to be defeated.
 Sam'l Gompers.
 Mr. Foss is being held responsible for the doings of every company in which he is a stockholder, which is not fair to him or to his party."

SOCIAL AND FRATERNAL

The Red Men
 The regular meeting of Passaconaway tribe of Red Men was held last night at Odd Fellows temple, Sachem Albert Stophard occupying the chair. There was a large attendance of members and a number of visiting chiefs were present.
 A communication was received from Great Sachem John W. Converse, stating that he had appointed Post Great Sachem O. A. Libby a member of the great council state of the order. He also referred to matters of this reservation. The visiting chiefs spoke on their tribal affairs. The finance committee gave a good account of the tribe's condition financially and in point of membership.

Woman's Relief Corps

James A. Garfield, W. R. C., 33, met for sewing and supper Thursday afternoon. In the evening the annual inspection took place. Mrs. Mary A. Landi, the department inspector, officiating. Mrs. Mina Kilpatrick, the president, was in the chair. One candidate was initiated and one admitted on a transfer. Mrs. Little Cochrane presided in an admirable manner at the piano. The corps will observe its 27th anniversary on Nov. 17. Supper will be served at 7 o'clock to post and corps.

There were interesting remarks by members and visitors. On Nov. 17, the regular meeting will be held in the afternoon.

Order of Eagles

The regular meeting of Lowell Aerie, Fraternal Order of Eagles, was held last night at Forsters hall, Worthy President John H. Farrell occupying the chair. A committee of ten was appointed to consider the advisability of conducting a ball during the early part of next year. Eighteen applications for membership were received. A grand class initiation will take place on the 17th of the month at which it is expected there will be a large attendance. The election of officers will take place Dec. 4.

JAKE STAHL

SAYS THAT HE IS THROUGH WITH BASEBALL

CHICAGO, Nov. 5.—Garland Stahl, better known in the national pastime as Jake, the home-run kid, rises to remark that he is through with baseball. It is not one of those Patti Swan songs, he says, but a regular retirement to battle with the world at large and the banking problem in particular. The hard-hitting first sacker of the Boston Red Sox authorized the announcement of the instantaneous transition last night.

This isn't one of those phoney ferrets, according to Jake. He has saved his pennies for the proverbial rainy day, always mindful of the fact that ball players can command the big coin for only a limited number of years. As the result of this systematic and economical practice he has amassed a snug nest egg which has been applied to the grand sinking fund of the Washington Park national bank in this city.

The directors of this institution will meet today to elect a president. Vice president and other officers. Jake, modest-like, says he isn't striving for any of the executive berths, at least not this season. For the present he will confine his efforts to a scientific study of "inside" banking.

SHOT HIMSELF

WAKEFIELD, Nov. 5.—Charles A. Mosser, assistant superintendent of the Portland division of the Boston & Maine railroad, shot himself with suicidal intent at his home here early today. Two bullets took effect and the physician who attended him shortly after the shooting stated that although he is in a critical condition there is a possibility that he will recover. Both bullets entered his head. Mr. Mosser has been suffering from nervous prostration for several months, and it is thought he was despondent.

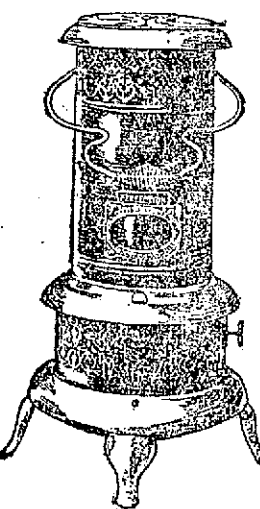

HARVEST SUPPER
 BY NORTH BILLERICA BAPTIST CHURCH

The annual harvest supper of the North Billerica Baptist church was held last night, the affair being conducted under the auspices of the John E. Rowell bible class. Owing to the inclement weather, the attendance was rather small, but nevertheless the affair proved to be a success.

 Supper was served at 6.30. The entertainment followed the supper. The program was as follows: Vocal selections by Miss Lillian Cook and Mrs. Alken of Lowell; piano duet by Miss Hilda Perry and George R. Kearney of North Billerica; readings by Miss Williams, Mrs. Ivory M. Hanson, Mrs. Grace Hull, Frank Lapresse and John Brown. Miss Hilda Perry was the accompanist of the evening.
 The committee under whose direction the event was given was as follows: Mrs. Alexander Allay, president; John E. Rowell, chairman; Mrs. Charles H. Williams, Mrs. Ivory M. Hanson, Mrs. William Chambers, Mrs. Samuel Lord, Miss Lizzie Coffey, Mrs. Bala, Mrs. James Moran, Mrs. Mary Walker and Mrs. Hans Dege.

you do not have to work close to the stove, which is usually far from the window. You can work where you wish, and be warm. You can work on dull winter days in the full light near the window, without being chilled to the bone.

The Perfection Oil Heater quickly gives heat, and with one filling of the font burns steadily for nine hours, without smoke or smell. An indicator always shows the amount of oil in the font. The filler-cap, put in like a cork in a bottle, is attached by a chain. This heater has a cool handle and a damper top.

The Perfection Oil Heater has an automatic-locking flame spreader, which prevents the wick from being turned high enough to smoke, and is easy to remove and drop back, so the wick can be quickly cleaned. The burner body or gallery cannot become wedged and can be unscrewed in an instant for reworking. The Perfection Oil Heater is finished in japan or nickel, is strong, durable, well-made, built for service, and yet light and ornamental.

Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription

Is no "cure-all" humbug, but is made for just one purpose—to cure the weaknesses, painful disorders and irregularities of the womanly organism. It is

THE ONE REMEDY for these ailments, sold by druggists, devised and gotten up by a regularly graduated physician of vast experience in treating woman's peculiar diseases and is carefully adapted to work in harmony with her delicate organization, by an experienced and skilled specialist in her maladies.

THE ONE REMEDY for woman's ailments, sold by druggists, which contains neither alcohol (which to most women is the rankest poison) or other injurious or habit-forming drugs.

THE ONE REMEDY for women, the composition of which is so perfect and good that its makers are not afraid to print its every ingredient, in plain English on its outside bottle-wrapper, and attest the correctness of the same under oath—thus taking its users into their full confidence, and warranting physicians in prescribing it in their worst cases, which they do very largely.

It is foolish as well as dangerous to take medicine the composition of which you know nothing. Therefore, don't let a dishonest druggist prevail on you to accept a secret nostrum for this professionally approved medicine of known composition. Every ingredient in its make-up has the strongest indorsement of the leading medical men of all the several schools of practice. Send postal card request for free Booklet of same.

Every woman may write fully and confidentially to Dr. R. V. Pierce, Buffalo, N. Y., and may be sure that her case will receive careful, conscientious, confidential consideration, and that the best medical advice in the world will be given to her, absolutely free.

In addition to this free advice, Dr. Pierce will send a fine French cloth-bound copy of his great 1000-page book, "The Common Sense Medical Advisor," to any woman who will send 31 one-cent stamps to pay the cost of mailing only.

Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets regulate and invigorate stomach, liver and bowels. They work in harmony with "Favorite Prescription" when needed as a gentle laxative. Sugar-coated, tiny granules, easy to take as candy.

NIGHT EDITION

CONG. MCGILLICUDDY

The Storm Failed to Keep the Voters Away—Speeches Were Made by Col. Carmichael, Major Crowley, James E. O'Donnell, Daniel M. Nolan, of Somerville, Philip Kiely, of Lynn and Others

The fitness of the term "un-terrified" to the democratic party was never more eloquently exemplified than last night when with the rain coming down in torrents and the wind blowing a gale, two largely attended rallies were held in different parts of the city, following three rallies on the previous evening.

It was originally intended to have three rallies last evening but as Lincoln hall and Keyes' auction room are so near together it was decided in the interest of the speakers and combing these two, which was done, the rally being held at the auction room.

The principal speaker was Congressman-elect McGillicuddy of Lowell, Me., a most forceful and popular speaker, and those who braved the night to hear him were well repaid. The rally in Keyes' auction room was called to order by Thomas J. Mulligan, chairman of the democratic city committee, who introduced as the presiding officer John J. Mahoney, the well known labor man. Mr. Mahoney spoke on the labor records of Col. Ames in the legislature and subsequently in congress and urged all to vote for Col. Carmichael and the straight democratic ticket.

Col. Carmichael's Remarks
Col. Carmichael received an ovation at each rally. Although he has done much outdoor speaking under unfavorable weather conditions, he was in fairly good voice and spoke, in part, as follows:

In the contest which we have been waging we have gone direct to the people. We have spoken to them plainly and fairly. Their response is indicated by the assurance of the victory which come to us from every source. Our opponents are demoralized, divided and torn asunder; they represent nothing of interest to the people and the great body of intelligent voters realizing this fact are with us shoulder to shoulder.

My republican opponent is attempting to charge the republican confusion and disorder to Sen. Lodge, yet he represents and stands exactly for the same things that the senator represents for. The republican congressman's record in office is as narrow and reactionary, if not more so, than the record of Senator Lodge. The republican congressman's record reveals that he has always been against the interests of the plain people and he has consistently voted with the trusts and monopolies that have the people by the throat.

The people are not to be deceived. Their rebellion is not one of party. Their rebellion is against the Payne-Aldrich tariff law and the high cost of living. The people will vote for their homes, their wives and their little children and they will not be distracted by the ambitions of those who never had the people's interest at heart and who now seek further glory for themselves. My republican opponent voted for the Payne-Aldrich tariff law in every stage of its passage. For eight years he was the friend and supporter of Speaker Cannon. He covered this district from Braintree to Lynnfield with Cannon's endorsement of his record in congress. Does he now dare to defend the Payne-Aldrich tariff law? Can he shake the people who have made an attempt to procure lower duties or to do a single act so that the cost of living might be brought down to the point where honest and industrious men could earn enough to support their families? We have criticized his record in whole and in detail. We have attempted to show that his record is not one of a public servant faithful to his stewardship. He has offered no denial to our statements; he has offered no defense of his course of action. We have said his record from the standpoint of a plain people was worse than the record of Senator Lodge ever was. He has not attempted to prove the contrary.

My friends, the people are aroused. This election is to be determined in openness and in fairness. It will be determined regardless of any unseen influences that may be at work. It will be determined free from the power of wealth; it will be determined in the office and on the issue whether he or myself will better represent the plain average citizen regardless of party designation.

I ask you men to go forth and keep up your work for the cause. Work earnestly and honestly. Let no corrupting and attempt to debauch the electorate of this great district of working people. The highest duty of citizenship is to keep the ballot free and pure. A glorious victory awaits us on Tuesday and when the next congress convenes I will be at Washington to represent the plain people of this great district. I will be there in attendance in every session of the house of representatives. I will be there attempting to bring about a reduction of the cost of the necessities of life. I will be there attempting to pry loose from the throats of the people the mighty hand of corporate greed that is today squeezing out the people's lives. I will be there attempting to procure better hours of labor for the working people and betterful to the plain people with whom I was born, with whom I have lived, one of whom I am, and whose support I expect regardless of party.

Congressman McGillicuddy spoke in part as follows:

"I came here tonight to appeal to your intelligence. I have fought a campaign similar to this and never appealed to anything but reason. I appeal to you to vote the democratic ticket. Let us see, democrats and republicans, if we cannot get together and for once forget the party ticket."

"They tell us in this country we are rich. It depends on who we are. Somehow or other I am led to believe that it does not matter how much wealth there is in our country but rather who's got it. They say we are worth $120,000,000,000."

"We! I tell you 70 per cent. of that wealth is owned by 200,000 men out of a population of 85,000,000. If you are in that 200,000, you are 'we.' How do you like it? That means 30 per cent. of the wealth is owned by the rest of that 85,000,000. That's not there's something wrong. That's not equality. Under a fair rule it wouldn't be so. These trusts have us in their power."

"The trouble is right here in the tariff. You won't find any republican orator refer to it except delicately. He skips over it. Edmund Burke says the greatest struggles for freedom are fought on account of taxation. I admire Blaine and Dingley. They were my friends. If they were alive today they would be on the democratic platform. The tariff wall is no longer practical for you and me. A new element has crept in. It is the trust. Who would have thought 20 years ago that all the heat in this country could be monopolized by one combination? You didn't think so then. You do now.

"The coat on your back, your vest, everything on you pays tribute to the trust. Once you took a basket to the market and brought back the goods in it. Now you leave the basket at home and bring back the goods in your vest. This issue comes right home to all of us. Everything gets a little higher and the package gets a little smaller. Mr. Roosevelt says that's a minor issue. It will be an issue when Mr. Roosevelt is minor."

"I believe in an honest man and an honest corporation but a corporation is no better than a man. The republicans in Maine have made our state the dumping ground for fake and fraudulent corporations and we are going to get rid of it. The republicans say a vote for the democratic ticket means a vote to close the mills and we are going to close our mills either. I have often wondered why laboring men do not take the cue. It makes my heart bleed to hear the trusts think so much about the laboring man. They say the wages are increased. Now there's nothing so dangerous as a half-truth. There's another end to it. Laboring men must support their families. While it's true that wages in 20 years have increased 20 per cent., the cost of living has increased 60 per cent. It means families are getting along without the things they ought to have. Senator Lodge is a trust man. I won't say he's dishonest. I simply say he is a trust man. Senator Cummins of Iowa, a republican, says the Payne-Aldrich tariff bill is a repudiation of republican promises. He had no reason to say that unless it is true."

can, says the Payne-Aldrich tariff bill is a repudiation of republican promises. He had no reason to say that unless it is true."

The appearance of Major Robert J. Crowley, the Hamlin leader, in the convention, on the platform, was the signal for applause. Major Crowley assured the audience that while the convention had been strenuous in the extreme it had left no stone unturned, and that every Hamlin man will be a Foss supporter on election day. He then spoke on the congressional campaign, strongly advocating the election of Col. Carmichael.

Other speakers were Daniel J. Donahue, Daniel M. Nolan of Somerville, representing the A. F. of L., Philip Kiely of Lynn, candidate for senator in the seventh district, and James H. Rogers, candidate for representative in the 14th district.

All went to the rally in Mathew hall after leaving the auction room. Another large gathering assembled here. James E. O'Donnell presided and Mr. Mathew hall rally and spoke forcefully on the issues of the campaign. Mr. O'Donnell stated that the time had arrived for the common people to assert themselves and he predicted a general democratic victory throughout the commonwealth.

FOUND GUILTY

"Dr." Thompson Convicted by Jury

SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 5.—"Dr." Robert Thompson, charged with the murder of Eva Swan, was found guilty last night of murder in the second degree.

The body of Miss Swan, who died from an operation, was found two months ago buried under the basement floor of a deserted cottage.

"Dr." Robert Thompson is well known in Boston because he had a particularly checked career there. He is the son of Capt. Arthur Thompson of Manchester, N. H., one of the best known men in the state, who served in the Civil and the Spanish wars.

"Dr." Thompson was born in Manchester. He was conspicuous as a young man because of his height, which is 6 feet 6 inches. He attended Dartmouth college and then went to Buffalo at the time of the Pan-American exposition and began the practice of medicine.

He came to Boston in the spring of 1903 and soon after was married to Miss Lena Tenny, who was employed as a stenographer and police headquarters. He was head of the Federal National company, having offices in Columbus avenue for a time.

In the spring of 1903 he lived with his wife and her mother at 277 Commonwealth street, where, because of suspicious nature of his practice, he was under the surveillance of the police. At this time Fred R. Wilson and Edward C. Wiggin, two men who had been in the police force and who were known as expert counterfeiters, were found to be his associates.

Early in 1904 and 1905 a large number of spurious $5, $10 and $20 bills began to appear and the government detectives soon arrested the trio.

Later they arrested Thompson's wife. Mrs. Thompson died of a broken heart while the case was pending and it was generally believed she was innocent of all knowledge of the counterfeiters and that she was deceived by her husband.

Wiggin and Wilson were convicted and given five years each at hard labor in the Charlestown prison and later Thompson was convicted and given eight years. On Jan. 14, 1906, Thompson began his term in the Charlestown prison but in Nov. 26, that year, he was transferred to the federal prison at Atlanta.

Before he began his term at Charlestown he was taken into court on a charge of improperly using the mails and he pleaded guilty. Sentence in this case was deferred.

In 1907 Thompson was pardoned and the police lost track of him until he was arrested in San Francisco.

BICYCLE RACE

THE FINISH PROMISES TO BE SENSATIONAL

BOSTON, Nov. 5.—The last day of the six day bicycle race at the arena began with five teams contending for the money on even terms. Try as they might none of the leading combinations has been equal to the task of shaking the field. But one lap separates the second group from the first, while one combination is trailing in the rear, two laps behind the leaders. The finish tonight promises to be sensational.

HILLSIDE SEWING CIRCLE
The Hillside Sewing circle met at the home of Miss Lilla Shea, Concord street, last night, and held a delightful entertainment. A feature of the evening was the presentation of a one-act comedy, entitled "The Opening of a Trunk," in which Mrs. Mary Welch Lane and the Misses Heslin, Quinn, Kennedy and several others participated.

The following musical program was carried out during the evening: piano solos, Miss Margaret Tully, Miss Monahan, Miss Katie Heslin, Miss Annie Conors; vocal solos, Mrs. Mary Welch Lane, Miss Molly Doherty, Miss Agnes Tully and Miss Lilla Shea.

MORTALITY OF LOWELL

For the week ending Nov. 6, 1910, Population, 106,285; total deaths, 42; deaths under age 15, 15; infectious diseases, 6; acute lung diseases, 6. Death rates, 25.2 in 1910 and 19.96 for the previous two weeks. Infectious diseases reported: Scarlet fever, 2; diphtheria, 1. Board of Health.

MAN SOUGHT AID

THEN ROBBED WOMAN WHO BE-FRIENDED HIM

BOSTON, Nov. 5.—Answering a knock at the door of her house, about 7.30 o'clock last night, Mrs. Ethel Murphy, a widow living with her two little children at 130 Athens street, South Boston, was confronted by a strange man, who asked for hot water for a sick horse. She admitted him to her kitchen, but the moment the door was closed he demanded money, threatening, if she did not give enough to kill her. Mrs. Murphy was terrified. She went to a closet and got a pocketbook, which the man snatched from her hand. It contained over $1. The man looked about the room for anything else he might carry away, then telling Mrs. Murphy to call the police he would send her to kill her. Mrs. Murphy waited about 20 minutes, then told a neighbor, who informed the police. Sergeant Smith and a squad of patrolmen were unable to find the man. The stranger is described as 5 feet 8 inches tall, 30 years of age, 140 pounds in weight and with a smooth face.

TO REFORM LORDS SUPT. N. F. PUTNAM

Agreement of Conference on Talks of Smooth Paving and Other Street Work

DUBLIN, Nov. 5.—The Evening Herald, a nationalist organ, professes today to have learned from an authoritative source that the members of the conference of the government in the agitation over constitutional questions, have reached a compromise regarding the house of lords and that the unionist leaders have agreed to support the government until the latter has had full opportunity to frame a plan for the settlement of Irish matters. This means that both parties are in accord on the home rule question.

TELEGRAPH CO.

HAS BEEN RESTRAINED FROM DOING BUSINESS

TRENTON, N. J., Nov. 5.—On application of the National Exchange bank of Wheeling, W. Va., Judge Elstad in the United States circuit court today made an order requiring the Continental Telephone & Telegraph Co. to show cause on Nov. 4 why a receiver should not be appointed for the company. Meanwhile a temporary order is issued restraining the company from doing business.

The bank claims that the company owes it an unpaid balance of $50,000 on a $100,000 promissory note and charges that the telephone company is insolvent; that it has been recklessly managed and that its business has been practically suspended. The liabilities of the company are about $3,000,000 in excess of the assets.

The Continental Telephone Co. of Trenton and has contracts with the Keystone Co. of Philadelphia, the Federal Telephone & Telegraph Co. of New York and other concerns.

Among the assets of the Continental company are stated to be 100,000 shares of the common stock of the National Telephone corporation of W. Virginia, worth $10,000,000 at par. It is asserted that this stock of the National corporation was transferred to the Continental Co. without the assent of the stockholders of the former, and it is charged that the transfer is in violation of the charter.

A suit for the appointment of a receiver for the Continental company instituted some time ago by Max Koehler and others was discontinued as the result of an agreement, the conditions of which were that a voting trust of the Continental stockholders be established and an executive committee be appointed to manage its business.

CANDIDATE DIX

MADE HIS LAST SPEECH IN NEW YORK CAMPAIGN

THOMSON, N. Y., Nov. 5.—John A. Dix made his last speech of the state campaign here at his home this afternoon before a delegation of farmers. The democratic candidate for governor adapted his remarks to his audience and, after dwelling upon the art of farming and its importance, declared that the republican administration of the state had discriminated against the farming interests. As proof of his charges he declared that appropriations for seven agricultural schools and two agricultural stations had been cut out of the annual appropriation bill and that the legislature during the past two years had them increased at the rate of over a million dollars a year.

After comparing the United States unfavorably with several other nations in regard to the government attention given farming, Mr. Dix said: "In every school and in every college I believe instructions should be given in forestry. As a nation we have been wasteful of the forests." After referring to state institutions, Mr. Dix said:

"This may not be a discrimination against agriculture, but a systematic study of the needs of that industry when we realize the extravagance in some other features of state administration it certainly is food for thought that this special interest has not enjoyed a special privilege."

ROOSEVELT IN CHICAGO

CHICAGO, Nov. 5.—Colonel Roosevelt came to Chicago today, remained 35 minutes, and left for the east with his presence here unknown save to a few persons.

On his way east from Des Moines, Col. Roosevelt found that by stopping at Englewood, a suburb, he could connect with the Lake Shore train which is to carry him to Toledo.

The special car was cut off from the Rock Island train when Englewood was reached at 8 a. m. and Colonel Roosevelt hailed a cabby and drove along the quiet streets for nearly half an hour. He left on the Lake Shore at 8.35 a. m.

Colonel Roosevelt has two speeches scheduled for today, one at Toledo, where he is to arrive at 1.40 p. m. and remain until 2.50 p. m. and another at Cleveland where he arrives at 3.50 and departs at 8.40 p. m. He will probably deliver other talks as the train stops along the road and is due to arrive in New York city tomorrow morning.

HARMON WILL WIN

COLUMBUS, O., Nov. 5.—Hugh L. Nichols, chairman of the Ohio democratic executive committee today issued a statement claiming that Judson Harmon will be re-elected governor by the largest majority given a democratic candidate for state office since the formation of the republican party.

TUG IS ASHORE

NORFOLK, Va., Nov. 5.—The tug Constable of New York is ashore just inside of Cape Henlopen in Delaware breakwater. Assistance has been asked for from New York.

AN APPEAL ENTERED

WASHINGTON, Nov. 5.—An appeal from the decision of the New York federal courts holding Christopher Wilson, guilty of contempt of court for not producing certain books of the United Wireless Telegraph company for examination by the grand jury was filed today in the supreme court. Wilson also appealed from the action of the lower court in refusing to release him on habeas corpus after being removed from the custody of the United States marshal from imprisonment for contempt.

POLICEMAN FIRED

For Drinking a Toast to the Sergeant

PROVIDENCE, Nov. 5.—"Prior took two bottles of ale out of his pocket and handing one to Murphy, said, 'Here's to the health of the sergeant,' said Sgt. James H. Moffitt of the third station in testifying before the board of police commissioners in the trial of the two officers, William K. Prior and William J. Murphy, on charges alleging that they had partaken of intoxicating liquors while on duty. As the result of his testimony Prior was discharged from the force and Murphy was fined 30 days' pay, $50, which was pretty high for one bottle of the peerless.

Sergeant Moffitt was out on his tour of duty recently when he walked into a yard on Hope street for a minute. Prior and Murphy were to pull their boxes soon and he waited. Both officers pulled and then Prior, it is alleged, took out the cold bottles and, going into the shade, passed one to Murphy and proposed the health of the sergeant. Moffitt was not an invited guest and did not fully appreciate the toast. He kept still, although he was near enough to touch Murphy on the shoulder. After their drink, the sergeant alleges, the bottles were thrown into the yard and the officers went away on their rounds. Sgt. Moffitt picked up the bottles and on reaching the station labelled them and gave them in charge of the captain.

Both Prior and Murphy denied the circumstances as related by Moffitt, but the board of police commissioners said the sergeant had made out a good case and handed out the punishment stated.

Coming so soon after the order of the board of police commissioners about liquor dealers selling or giving intoxicating beverages to the police, there is a great deal of interest in the case and it is said that a liquor dealer may have to stand trial to see why his license should not be revoked. It is not presumed that Murphy and Prior made their own ale, it was ale.

GERMANY'S REPLY

BERLIN, Nov. 5.—Herr Sildow, minister of commerce and Hans Kemper, chairman of the German potash syndicate, today framed Germany's reply to the United States proposal for a compromise through which the United States contractors will accept a loss of $14,000,000—that is, $2,000,000 annually for the seven years that their contracts run as a result of the new conditions imposed on potash exportation by the recent enacted legislation. The reply will be delivered tonight, and meantime its character is not disclosed.

HUNTED DEER

BERLIN, Nov. 5.—Emperor Nicholas hunted today in Emperor William's new game preserve near Oranienburg, 206 miles northeast of Potsdam. A battalion of soldiers with foresters had assembled some 1500 deer, hare and other forested game within the enclosure, from which the animals were driven out today past a line of platforms concealed by pine branches and upon which the royal party and twenty-two other hunters had taken positions ready for the killing. Emperor Nicholas was permitted the first shot.

AMNESTY GRANTED

LISBON, Nov. 5.—The republic of Portugal was proclaimed one month ago, and to commemorate the date a decree was published in the official journal today granting amnesty to political offenders and reducing the prison sentences of all criminals one-third.

POPULATION OF IOWA

WASHINGTON, Nov. 5.—The population of Iowa is 2,224,771, according to enumeration in the thirteenth census, made public today. This is a decrease of 7023, or 0.3 per cent. from 2,231,853 in 1900. The increase from 1890 to 1900 was 319,572, or 15.7 per cent.

HORSE STOLEN

ANIMAL WAS RECOVERED IN GIBSON STREET

A horse belonging to J. Stuart Murphy, the lawyer, was stolen from in front of a house in Gibson street last night. Mr. Murphy's daughter drove the horse to the house in Gibson street and while she was in the house some person drove the animal away. The matter was reported to the police, who made an investigation, but did not succeed in finding the culprit. This morning the animal was found in Gibson street. The horse looked as though it had been driven hard during the night. The police are now working on the case.

LOSS IS $20,000

SHELTON, Conn., Nov. 5.—The Griffin button shop here was partly burned today. About 125 persons lose employment temporarily and the loss is about $20,000.

SECOND FLOOR

Newell F. Putnam, superintendent of streets, said today that unless the snow should fly earlier than usual the smooth paving job now in progress in Merrimack street will be completed this year. Some time next week, for a few days only, a small portion of Merrimack street in the vicinity of city hall will be closed to travel. The smooth paving job extends from the railroad crossing in Dutton street to Tilden street and one side of the street is finished and the entire street will be closed until the finished side has sufficiently hardened for travel.

The street railway company pitched in to help the street department along and stretched electric lights along the scene of operations so that they could lay rails at night. It was Wednesday night that the street railway men rather spoiled their good intentions. Tamping the ties was out of the question when the rain started and just for that they had to wait. There's a big gang of men at work laying rails today and there will be no let up until the job is completed.

Delay in the arrival of rails ordered by the street railway company put the street department back a few days, but Mr. Putnam says it was not the fault of the railway people. They ordered the rails, but they got side-tracked between here and Boston and were a week late in arriving. "Taking all in all," said Mr. Putnam, "I am quite satisfied with the way the job is going and unless the snow flies earlier than usual we will be ready for it when it comes."

CONGRESS STREET BRIDGE

Work on the Congress street bridge is going merrily along. Mr. Putnam said today that work on this bridge would be continued during Sunday. "We have no time to lose," he said, "and while I am not in favor of Sunday work I do not see how it can very well be helped in this case. We have so much work on our hands that it is absolutely necessary to keep paving away. The concrete part of the roadway in connection with the Congress street bridge will be finished by Monday night."

"The Lawrence street bridge is a tough proposition. We were working nights on that Lawrence street job but conditions were such that the engineer called off the night work. The engineers have decided that we will have to drive piles for the Lawrence street bridge and put concrete around them. The foundation we are up against there is a hard one to deal with. The best we can do, however, is to do the best we can."

IS HELD IN $6000

Woman Denies That She is Burglar

BOSTON, Nov. 5.—May Hamilton, an alleged woman burglar, whose right name, the police say, is May McCloskey, was arraigned yesterday in the superior court. She was held in $6000 for trial, $5000 on six counts of breaking and entering in company with Frank McCann, and in $1000 on three counts of receiving stolen property, alleged to have been secured by McCann.

The indictment charging the several counts of breaking and entering and that charging receiving stolen goods were secretly returned by the grand jury last June. Miss Hamilton was mentioned jointly with McCann as breaking and entering indictment. McCann was arrested some days ago and was held in $6000 for trial.

The woman is charged with receiving April 11, a pearl brooch worth $15 and a pin worth $5, the property of Lester D. Smith; May 21, a watch worth $20, and two finger rings worth $10, the property of Leah Freedman, and March 14, a gold watch worth $100, the property of James Morgan.

She has a number of aliases, including May Sawyer, Nora H. Beaddy and Mrs. H. Beasley. Miss Hamilton refused to give the police any information. She denied that she was married to McCann, but admitted that she was married to another man three years ago in New York. She declined to make known her husband's name.

One indictment charges the woman with breaking and entering and receiving stolen property from the home of J. Myles Standish, 40-140sqquin street, Dorchester, May 1, the property consisting of watches and jewelry valued at $100; breaking and entering the home of Lawrence J. McFadden, 164 Franklin street, Chelsea, Feb. 15, where jewelry valued at $100 was taken; also the home of William H. Hinkley, 23 Harvard street, Chelsea, Feb. 22, where property valued at $300 was taken; and the home of Eugene B. Price, 17 Oak street, Belmont, where silver spoons valued at $15 were stolen.

THE HEDGEHOG BILL

MONTEPELLIER, Vt., Nov. 5.—Upon second thought many members of the Vermont house of representatives have concluded that the hedgehog is not such an objectionable animal after all. The house, passed a bill granting a bounty for the killing of those creatures and now a number of those who favored the proposition are asking the senators to kill the measure.

Miss Grace Godfrey of Indian Orchard, Mass., is visiting at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Eugene A. Shea, 267 Walker street.

Lowell Boys Make Interesting Tour of Inspection May Have Shot Two Turks Thursday Night

Board of Trade Party Most Favorably Impressed With the School—Object of Inspection to Create Greater Local Interest in Institution

Accompanied by Secretary John H. Murphy of the board of trade, a party of sons of members of the board of to appreciate it. It is known as a "burning success."

F. H. Rourke
Office Liberty Sq. Tel. 1177-1

trade made a thorough and most interesting inspection of the Lowell Textile school this forenoon.

The board of trade is of the opinion that there is a lack of local interest in the textile school, basing its opinion on the fact that comparatively few Lowell young men attend the school and the tour of inspection today was for the purpose of interesting the boys in the school.

Upon arrival the party was met by Principal Eames, who addressed them informally and then turned them over to Prof. Louis L. Olney, instructor in chemistry, and Arthur A. Steward, who has charge of the finishing department. The boys were taken through every corner of the great clump of buildings and everything was explained to them in detail.

The visitors were most favorably impressed and could hardly believe that the institution had so much to offer a student as was shown.

In the party were the following: Frank Runels, 133 Princeton street; Ralph G. Taylor, 20 Twelfth street; Larkin T. Trull, Jr., 58 Fairmount street; Wilfred Boulger, 74 Wentworth avenue; Sherman Spear, 576 Westford street; Edw. D. Hildreth, 543 Westford street; Norman Brazer, 46 Fairmount street; Grant French, 35 Victoria street; Leonard French, 213 Parkview avenue; E. Reginald Rhodes, 524 Westford street; Rupert A. Rhodes, 524 Westford street; Edward M. Ryan, 72 Twelfth street; Walter McKenna, 757 Bridge street; Brooks Woodworth, 15 Hawthorne street; Wallace P. Barford, 263 Gibson street; A. H. Sturgess, 658 Andover street; T. A. Sturgess.

The shooting of two Turkish employees of the Lowell rendering works Thursday night is believed by Supt. Welch to have been an attempt to kill the men preliminary to robbing them, and that suspicion is directed to Vaseios Evangelou, whose body was found beside the railroad track early yesterday morning, several miles from the point where the shooting took place.

Supt. Welch says he learned that the two men who were shot carried in their pockets about $50 and that it was common knowledge in the works that they carried the money.

Evangelou was also employed by the rendering works and worked Thursday afternoon. Supt. Welch says the investigation showed that Evangelou was considerably in debt, both in the old and new world, and was unable to pay.

He walked home part of the way with the two men who were shot, namely Abraham and Saidin.

When Evangelou's body was found, Supt. Welch says there was $3 in his clothing. There has been no explanation, the superintendent says, for Evangelou being at the point where he was killed by a moving freight train. Evangelou's boarding house was on Common street. He had not been discharged at the rendering works, and when he left his boarding house on Thursday morning, the superintendent was told, he said nothing about not returning at night. When he did not return persons from his boarding house went to the undertaker's rooms and identified the body.

The theory of Supt. Welch is that he was running away when killed by a train.

FORGERY CHARGED

Man Was Arraigned in Police Court Today

Salem K. Husson was arraigned before Judge Hadley in police court this morning on a complaint charging him with forgery, it being alleged in the complaint that he forged the name of John Casas on four notes, each note being made out for $25. Through his counsel, William A. Hogan, a plea of not guilty was entered. Daniel J. Monahan appeared for the complainant.

Joseph Foley, a lawyer with offices in Tremont street, Boston, testified that he was engaged by the Warburton Dry Goods Co. of Providence to collect a claim against Husson. Husson was put through the poor doctor proceedings in Cambridge by Mr. Foley and as a result Husson tendered him four checks, each check for $25, in part payment of the execution. The checks were signed "City Dry Goods Co." a Lowell store, and endorsed by John Casas, or rather a cross supposed to have been made by the latter accompanied the name.

The checks were drawn on the Lowell Trust Co. and Mr. Foley thought that they were genuine until he tried to cash one and found that it had been forged. The other three checks were then produced and it was alleged that all were forgeries.

The checks were produced in evidence and Mr. Foley identified the four. During the course of his examination he explained to the court that the checks had been post dated.

A boy by the name of Mitty, who it was said signed the notes for Casas, was called and said that he had been asked to sign Casas' name, but did not do so for while he was able to write he did not know how to spell Casas' name.

John Casas, the complainant in the case, said that he and Husson had been in partnership in the dry goods business in Suffolk street and he did not know the first thing about the checks until he was notified by the bank that they had been tendered. He denied ever having signed the checks.

Salem K. Husson, the defendant, after explaining his business relations with Casas, said the latter sold out to him and a mortgage was placed on the stock. This spring a new partnership was formed under the firm name of the "City Dry Goods Co." Witness admitted that he signed the checks in question, but said he did so at the request of Casas.

Settled Out of Court
Jacob Shapiro was charged with the larceny of a shirt valued at $1 and $10 in money from Nathan A. Carp, but before the case went to trial counsel explained that a civil settlement had been made and the case was placed on the floor of the court.

Assault and Battery
Arthur Mason entered a plea of not guilty to a complaint charging him with assault and battery on Kazimie Symonlak. Both are employed at the Lowell Machine shop where the alleged assault took place. Symonlak has charge of an elevator and according to the testimony offered, the day before yesterday he refused to stop to take Mason on the elevator and subsequently Mason struck him.

Mason testified, and his testimony was corroborated by another witness, that Symonlak was supposed to take him up and down on the elevator and when on the day in question the man had refused to stop the elevator on several trips he grabbed the cord and stopped the elevator. The defendant said that complainant got mad and picked up some pig iron in his hand and started for him, but before Symonlak had a chance to throw the iron the man in charge of the department interfered. Mason admitted pushing the man, but said he did so in self defense. The defendant was found guilty and a fine of $1 imposed.

Sent to Jail
Albert Perry was charged with drunkenness and two counts of larceny. In the first count he was charged with stealing a coat, pants and vest from his brother, Adelard Perry, while in the second count it was alleged that he stole a clock belonging to Mary E. Lepine. He was found guilty and sentenced to jail for four months.

Other Offenders
Susanna Marren was charged with being drunk and after being found guilty was sentenced to jail for two months. Michael Ryan was placed in the hands of the probation officer, and two first offenders were fined $2 each.

JUDGE PARKER'S GREAT SPEECH

By far the clearest and most sensible speech delivered in the New York campaign thus far was that of Judge Parker on Thursday night in reply to a recent speech by Senator Root. It will be remembered that Senator Root in his efforts to stem the sentiment turning against Roosevelt told the people that Roosevelt if rebuked in the coming election would be the candidate for president in 1912.

Judge Parker treated this as a threat which it really was and summarized it thus:

"Dare ye not to revolt or worse shall befall you; accept your chains, or feel the lash; or cringe, or be crushed; assert your right to name your executives and that right shall be definitely taken from you—that in all fairness is the sense of his speech so far as it relates to the issues of Rooseveltism which confront us."

Judge Parker further exposes the insincerity of Root's attitude and asserted that the cancer of Rooseveltism must be cut out if the people are to be left free to exercise their rights in the election of state and national officials.

This speech by Judge Parker recalls the great speech by the late Hon. P. A. Collins at Albany before the close of the campaign in which Cleveland was elected. It is an utterance that will ring throughout the nation and strengthen the citizens of all parties in the assertion of their rights, their freedom and independence in the exercise of the franchise for the choice of public officials.

It is well that the voters should be relieved from any sense of dread as to what Roosevelt will do if they exercise their conscientious preferences at the polls on election day.

NEED OF PUBLIC HALL DEMONSTRATED

The difficulties under which a large democratic rally was conducted in this city on Thursday evening demonstrated most forcibly the need of a public hall.

The Mathew hall where the first meeting was held was packed so that nobody could get either in or out, and in case of panic or fire the result would have been disastrous.

While the rally was going on in the hall there were thousands outside awaiting an opportunity to hear the speakers, and after standing for nearly an hour they repaired to the steps of City hall where, after a further wait, their patience was rewarded by the appearance of Mr. Foss.

Now all this simply shows the deplorable need of a large public hall to accommodate such meetings. The republican party would probably have had a big rally here had there been a suitable hall available. Butler Ames had to employ several small halls for the reason, no doubt, that the only large one in the city was occupied.

During the progress of a political campaign the need of a public hall is daily brought to public attention. If any sudden calamity, such as a great fire, or anything else that would excite the populace, should occur the same need of a place for holding a mass meeting would be apparent.

For these and many other reasons that might be cited, we hold that it is bad policy to delay the building of a public hall. Mayor Meehan has endeavored to push the movement along, but thus far with but slight success.

The people are becoming impatient, and when the masses suffer such great inconvenience as has been witnessed during the present campaign, they will insist upon the need being supplied as soon as possible.

The people have voted in favor of a public hall, and it is only a matter of disagreement upon price, or upon the selection of a site that prevents the movement from being carried through.

THE VOTERS' INDIVIDUAL RESPONSIBILITY

Now that we are nearing the close of the campaign it may be in order to state that a great responsibility rests with the voters themselves. The individual voter must realize that he individually shares the responsibility for the conditions of which every man at the present time complains.

The high cost of living is simply a condition brought about by a combination of trusts, speculators and dishonest legislators. The men who want legislation for special interests go to the legislators, and if they are able to secure what they want, they then proceed to establish trusts by which they can levy tribute upon the people for the necessities of life.

This is the way in which the present high cost of living has been brought about. The special interests are protected against competition from abroad, and are enabled to stamp out competition at home. Then they are at liberty to fix whatever prices they please upon their products.

This is precisely what the trusts of this country are doing today, and the republican party is responsible not only for the existence of the trusts but for the extortions of the trusts.

The Dingley law set the tariff too high and brought the trusts into existence. The Payne-Aldrich law set the tariff still higher, and thus gave the trusts greater power to rob the people.

As a result fictitious values prevail in this country that have no relation whatever to the intrinsic value that rules in the markets of the world. As a result, exorbitant prices are charged for the necessities of life, and the trusts controlling these prices, the people are obliged to pay them or starve.

It is to remedy this state of affairs that the voters of this country are asked to vote against the republican party in the coming election.

By voting against that party, and by electing democrats to congress and to the gubernatorial chairs of the different states they will overthrow this ruinous combination between the republican congress and the trusts that have arisen under protection by the high tariff provided in the Dingley law and subsequently by the present law.

SEEN AND HEARD

WHEN?

Some day—in future, farther, days to come—
I'll do the kindly work my heart has planned;
Then every one that asks shall have from me
The quick, sure sympathy of heart and hand.
I shall obey the Father's old command;
To lift the fallen, comfort the oppressed;
To pluck the thorns from out my brother's breast;
To open wide my soul and cast out sin,
And call good deeds, God's tenderest angels, in.

I have no time today; but some time I shall follow where the Master's feet have trod;
I shall face the frowning world with courage high;
I shall learn to kiss, with chastened lips, the rod,
And find in sorrow's face the eyes of God.
So shall I curb the quick, rebellious will,
Hear in my heart a low-voiced "Peace, be still!"
Through grief, most nobly borne, my soul shall win
A space to call the choiring angels in.

But oh, what if, on some fair eventide,
When I might watch, as Abram watched of old,
The long-closed tent doors of my heart flung wide
To welcome angel guests into my fold,
That they should find my dwelling place too cold!
A moldered floor, unknown of wind and sun;
A lamp unlit of kindness never done;
A shrine dust-strewn with selfishness and sin,
And, all too late, I called the angels in!

—Marie Conway Oemler, in the New York Independent.

"I tried to get a chance to speak to you at church, Sunday," said Mrs. Oldcastle, "but the crush was so great that I couldn't push through to where you were."

"Yes, wasn't it awful?" replied the hostess as she flicked a bit of dust from the Gobelins tapestry. "All the common folks in town seem to want to crowd into our church lately. It's too bad they ain't satisfied to stay where they belong. How did you like the sermon?"

"Well, as a sermon it was fairly good, but I do wish Dr. Goodwin would quit spitting invectives. I try not to let it make me nervous, but I can't keep from being shocked every time he does it."

"I never let them kind of things bother me, but that's where the Episcopalians have the advantage of us. If

FOOLISH THINGS WOMEN DO

Women put ammonia into the water when washing their hair. This not only turns the hair gray, but has a deadly effect upon the hair roots. It makes the hair thin and lifeless. Any tonic or hair restorer containing alcohol is also dangerous. Most soaps and shampoos contain too much alkali, and people who use them run the risk and danger of losing their hair. The best thing to use is a fine neutral soap, combined with Glycerin, Coconut Oil, White-oil of Eggs, and Salsolite. These are the ingredients used in Birt's Head Wash, which is an absolutely reliable preparation, because it does not contain any ammonia, alcohol or free alkali. It makes the hair soft and glossy and removes scales and dandruff. At drugists, 25c and 50c.

They were a newly married couple and superlatively happy. He spent the day in the city, working for her; she spent the day at home, dusting up the rooms and cooking for him.

And when they were together in the evening she pretended that his long absent work didn't leave her very lonely, and he pretended that eating the things she cooked didn't make him extraordinarily uncomfortable.

One night, however, when he returned home the tears were streaming down her pretty cheeks.

"Why, dearest," said the young husband, taking her in his arms, "what are you crying about?"

"Oh, Henry, Henry!" sobbed his wife. "There are no sweets for your dinner. The nice, have got into the pantry and eaten up the beautiful custard cakes I made this afternoon."

He stroked her hair and bowed from her troubled brow.

"There, there, dear," he murmured gently. "Don't cry over a few little miles."

LIQUID CURES ECZEMA WHERE

SALVES FAIL

In regard to skin diseases, medical authorities are agreed on this:—
Don't imprison the disease germs in your skin by the use of greasy salves, and thus encourage them to multiply. A true cure of all eczematous diseases can be brought about only by using the healing agents in the form of a liquid. WASH THE GERMS OUT.

A simple wash: A compound of Oil of Wintergreen, Thymol, and other ingredients, combined in the D. D. D. Prescription. This penetrates to the disease germs and destroys them, then soothes and heals the skin as nothing else has ever done.

A 25 cent trial bottle will start the cure and give you instant relief.

es the other day. Standing 6 feet 3 1/2 inches and weighing 165 lbs. at 158 pounds, Miss Graham, besides having nearly a score of world's records to her credit, has likewise been pronounced such a marvel of physical strength as has given her the honor of being the strongest woman in the world. She has smashed all the world's records in skating for women. From one mile to ten, her world's record time for a half mile in this sport being 1 minute 40 seconds. In spite of her stature she has made the 100-yard dash in 1 1/2 seconds (in skirts), and one of her aquatic feats is a 100-foot swim in 23 seconds.

The Goncourt academy of letters has taken a bold innovation in taking in a woman as a member, but Mme. Judith Gautier bears a distinguished enough name to soften the shock. She is the daughter of Theodore Gautier and was for a time wife of the poet Camille Maupassant. Among her works are "Les Peuples Etranges," "Le Paravent de Soie et d'Or," "La Marchande de Souffles," (a drama of Japanese life); "Fossil," (translation of Wagner's opera), and "Lava, Chinois." Her hobby is in the "Elegance" (the French "Who's Who") is collecting Japanese art objects and curios.

The report that the Italian composer, Pietro Mascagni, had given up his American tour, which was to begin with his attendance at the Cavendish performance of his new opera, "Ysobel," at the New Theatre in New York, caused a panic recently among his admirers in this country, who had a grand reception ready for him. Luckily the financial arrangements which had caused the hitch have now been satisfactorily made, and Mascagni is expected.

Won the International Foot Race

NEW YORK, Nov. 5.—The American team of Hans Holmer and Ham Quaal won the 20 miles international foot race here last night in Madison Square Garden in the world's record time of 1 hour, 29 minutes, 47 seconds—4 minutes, 23 1/2 seconds better than the previous mark. The Canadian team of Fred Meadows and Abbie Wood was second, and the Swedish team of Gus L. Jungstrom and John Svanberg was third.

Quaal was off first and soon took the lead and from that time the Americans never had less than a half lap margin. In the 12th mile Holmer, also of America, succeeded in stretching his teammate's lead to a full lap and Canada never got it back.

In all, six teams from as many countries—America, Canada, Sweden, Finland, Italy and France—started, and all finished. The running was so fast that the teams relieved each other as they saw fit.

The new record set last night is the second for the distance in which Quaal has had a share. Last August he and Svanberg, who ran on the third team last night, covered 20 miles under similar conditions in only 4 minutes, 23 1/2 seconds, slower than that of the winning team last night.

The teams finished in the following order: America, Hans Holmer and William Quaal; Canada, Fred Meadows and Abbie Wood; Sweden, Gus L. Jungstrom and John Svanberg; Finland, Karl Nieminen and William Koehnen; France, Henri St. Yves and Pierre Lagueux; Italy, Alessio Vambra and William Maiori.

CITY LIBRARY

LIST OF BOOKS ON IRELAND IS PUBLISHED

If you would be familiar with the history, biography, poetry, literature and folklore of Ireland just go to the city library and ask Librarian Chase for his list of books relating to Ireland. They number over 250 in all and the collection is about as complete as it is possible to make it.

Librarian Chase has issued a little pamphlet giving a list of all the books upon Ireland now in the library. They number over 300.

The collection includes the works of Dr. Thomas Addis Emmet, Lover, and John Butler Yeats, Henry Grattan, and the history of the lives of Henry Grattan, Daniel O'Connell, Charles Stewart Parnell. The latter contains much relative to the history of the Land League and the home rule movement. Irish character sketches by Jane Barlow are included in the collection.

William Butler Yeats and Dr. Douglas are foremost in the work of the revival of Irish literature. Mr. Yeats has brought a great many phases of Irish life into literature and it might be said that he has given new voice to the Celtic spirit.

Thomas Addis Emmet writes of Ireland under English rule, and while frankly a plea for Ireland, Dr. Emmet has endeavored to be impartial and in his indictment of the British government he draws a distinction between the English people and the English government.

HELD IN $5000

CASHIER BARKER ACCUSED OF

MAKING LOANS

NEW LONDON, Conn., Nov. 5.—

Charged with making loans amounting to under $15,000 and $17,000 without the consent of the directors and with making false entries on the bank's books, Frank E. Barker, for 26 years an employee of the New London City National bank, and for several years its cashier, was arraigned before a United States commissioner late yesterday and held in $5000.

His appearance before the United States circuit court, Barker last night stated that he loaned the money to a patron of the bank to keep him out of financial difficulties and had not profited by the transaction.

DAWSON'S RACE

Mulford Gave Him a

Hard Race

ATLANTA, Ga., Nov. 5.—Joe Dawson, yellow Marmoset car, won the 2 1/2 mile race at the finish of the 200 mile race here yesterday.

The duel between these two began immediately after the hundredth mile. Dawson was then far behind. He stopped at the pits with his right rear wheel entirely back of a tire and the iron rim, showering sparks as it ground the track. The Lozier stopped soon afterward to exchange tires, putting the cars on even terms. Bad luck flattened another of Dawson's tires at the 140th mile and in the same lap it was replaced by a new one.

The Marmoset was running faster but on the bad turn of the track, where two drivers have been killed, Mulford, at full speed, would shoot ahead of Dawson, who always took the corner safely. Dawson waited until there was less than 20 miles to go, and then got his car alongside the Lozier. Mulford took the turns desperately on the next few rounds of the course, and they went into the last two mile lap with but a few inches separating their cars. As they struck the dangerous turn for the last time it was Dawson who took the highest speed, assuming a lead which he held to the finish. Time, 2 hours, 61 minutes, 12 1/2 seconds.

The winner took the Atlanta trophy and $1000 in cash. Mulford received $500 and Joe Horan, who finished third, received $200. Gel-naw, whose Fiat car, along with the 100 mile race, was fourth, taking a $100 cash prize, and Hughes, in another Fiat car, was fifth, and received $50.

There were 11 starters. The seven entered in addition to the long race were all at the start.

Two new track records were set by the E. M. F., at 10 miles, and the Marquette-Bulck at 20 miles.

INSANE ASYLUM

Ground

BRANDON, Man., Nov. 5.—The insane asylum of the Manitoba government was burned to the ground here late yesterday afternoon, causing a loss of $250,000, but all of the inmates were rescued in safety. One of the women patients playing with matches was responsible for the fire. There were six hundred patients in the asylum and great difficulty was experienced in getting them out. A number were severely injured and others badly chilled in the cold as a snow storm was raging and snow was without shelter. The pliable crowd stood around in the snow, their scant garments blown around them by the cold wind. The hospital staff, assisted by the military and citizens of the town finally found shelter for them in stables, outhouses and other buildings. Arrangements were made to once more to fit up the temporary quarters, but the problem of looking after the patients during the winter is a serious one, as the asylum at Selkirk is already filled.

The asylum was a mile and a half from the city and the fire was beyond control before the department arrived.

ATTACKED BY ROBBER

South Boston Woman Was Held Up in Her Home

BOSTON, Nov. 5.—Mrs. Ethel Murphy, 39 years old, was robbed in her home, 129 Athens street, South Boston, at 7:45 last night by an unknown man who, after assaulting her, stole $4 from her and escaped.

The Murphy family occupies the first floor of the three story brick dwelling, 129 Athens street, near C street, and comprises the father, mother and two children. Last night Mrs. Murphy went out for a short time. Scarcely had he departed from his home before the assault and robbery occurred.

Mrs. Murphy was in a bedroom off the kitchen and was putting her children to bed. Outside the kitchen is a large hallway, reached from the street by an unlocked door.

Mrs. Murphy said she heard a noise in the hallway. The door opened and when she had gained the kitchen the man also had reached the same room. He was tall and heavily built, and said to her, "I want what money you have."

Mrs. Murphy was greatly alarmed, said she had only a little change and displayed 30 cents. The man, after some resistance, grabbed her by the throat and again demanded money of her. Her hand went up to a shelf within easy reach, and taking two $2 bill therefrom, she handed them to the man, who then threw her on the floor and made a hasty departure. She then screamed.

Mrs. Murphy was weak when a woman from upstairs entered the room. The former with difficulty told her story and said that her husband was around the corner. Mr. Murphy was soon apprised of what had happened and went to station 6 and told Lieut. Watkins.

Sergeant Smith and Patrolman Elder were detailed on the case. The man was about 43 years old, 5 feet 9 inches in height, 130 pounds, smooth, full face and dark complexion, and wore dark clothes, with a very short coat and a slouch hat.

Mrs. Murphy further told the police that in the struggle with the man he attempted to pull off her wedding ring, but the guard held well and he could not get it.

JOHN J. FLEMING

ONCE A PILLAR OF TAMMANY HALL IS DEAD

NEW YORK, Nov. 5.—John J. Fleming, once a pillar of Tammany hall and a lifelong friend of former Mayor Hugh J. Grant, who died Thursday night, followed him last night after a lingering illness. Mr. Fleming was born in Ireland and coming to this country in his youth, rose by thrift from the station of a day laborer to a political power, a close friend and adviser of Richard Croker and a wealthy contractor. He was 60 years old.

A DEMENTED MAN

Fired at Director of Public Safety

PHILADELPHIA, Pa., Nov. 5.—Harry Clark, a demented man, 55 years old, caused great excitement in the city hall yesterday when in the presence of Director of Public Safety Clay he drew a hammerless revolver of the smallest calibre and fired three shots while conversing with the director. Attendants of the director's office, fearing their chief had been shot, rushed on the man and overpowered him. A hurried examination revealed that the tiny weapon contained blank cartridges.

Clark, who lives in the same ward with the director, had called to ask permission to sell a novelty on the streets. Mr. Clay told him to make application in the usual way. This seemed to excite the visitor and he drew a revolver and fired.

Clark was sent to the Philadelphia hospital for the insane.

PRES. SCHURMAN

OF CORNELL DENOUNCES COL. ROOSEVELT'S NATIONALISM

ITHACA, N. Y., Nov. 5.—In a speech last night before the Cornell Civic club which is conducting a week campaign preliminary to taking a straw vote among the Cornell students on Monday, President Jacob Gould Schurman, who was a delegate to the republican state convention and in support of Col. Roosevelt, said:

"I regard Mr. Roosevelt's new nationalism as the most revolutionary and dangerous program that any political leader has laid before the people since the close of the Civil war. To call it an application of the ancient moralities to modern conditions is a downright travesty of the decaogue. In reality the new nationalism of Theodore Roosevelt is the world-old despotism of one-man power decked out in the rainbow promises of a benevolent socialism."

HON. BUTLER AMES

Asks Lodge to Withdraw in Interest of Draper

BOSTON, Nov. 5.—The state campaign reached white heat last night, and the usual 11th-hour statements and challenges began to make their appearance. Congressman Ames started the ball rolling with an open letter to Senator Lodge, asking him to withdraw as a candidate for re-election as the only means of saving the republican party from defeat at the state election Tuesday.

Mr. Ames, who is a candidate for re-election to congress in the 5th district, and also a candidate for the United States senate, informed the senior senator in his letter that his "bossism" was the issue of the campaign, and assured him that if he would remove this issue by withdrawing his candidacy the republican ticket would win with satisfactory plurality.

Senator Lodge smiled when he read the congressman's letter, particularly that part of it in which Mr. Ames expressed the hope that the senator would not think he was writing from selfish motives, but that his action was prompted by an earnest desire to save the republican party from defeat. When asked if he had any reply to make to the letter, Senator Lodge replied:

"Not a word."

In the course of his letter, Mr. Ames says: "The re-election, not only of our governor, but of the whole state ticket, is in great jeopardy owing to the opposition of the voters generally to your re-election to the United States senate. And to your continued control of the party's machinery, convincing evidence of which lies in the fact that every democratic speaker and every democratic paper has made your bossism the issue of this campaign. All last winter, spring and summer I maintained that your control of the party's machinery was inimical to the party's success. "It is now apparent to everyone that such is the case. And in order that our governor and all the state ticket may be saved from impending defeat, I suggest that in a spirit of unselfishness and with the remembrance of 24 years of public service to your party, you remove this issue by at once and publicly pledging the voters of Massachusetts that you will not be a candidate for re-election to the United States senate this coming January."

Figured in an Automobile Accident

TROY, N. Y., Nov. 5.—John A. Dix, democratic candidate for governor while enroute from Albany to this city last night, figured in an automobile accident. The machine in which he was riding ran into a street excavation at Watervliet, and was badly damaged. Mr. Dix and the members of his party escaped with a severe shaking up. The interrupted trip was resumed in a livery coach.

CHICAGO STRIKERS

PAID A VISIT TO THE OPEN SHOPS

CHICAGO, Nov. 5.—Led by a throng of women singing the "Marseillaise," several thousand garment workers paraded through the north side factory district late yesterday. The marchers visited each of the open shops in this section of the city and shouted derisively at non-union workers and strike breakers.

But for Chief Steward's precaution in holding a large force of policemen in reserve at various stations, it is probable that serious rioting would have occurred. As soon as the large procession of strikers formed, the police reserves were hurried to the north side and throughout the march the strikers were watched closely. Several attempts at disorder were quickly quelled by the patrolmen, who made a number of arrests.

Mrs. Raymond Robins, president of the Woman's Trade Union league, asserted last night that the striking women are anxious to submit their grievances to a board of arbitration.

Robins says that she believes that the strike will be settled within a few days. The first definite move toward a settlement was made at Hull house last night at a meeting of the citizens committee. The issues at stake were submitted to the entire committee, which immediately took up the question of finding a ground on which employers and employees may reasonably be expected to reach a settlement.

THE BRITISH

SAID TO HAVE BEGUN INVASION OF PERSIA

LONDON, Nov. 5.—A despatch received here yesterday by a news agency from Teheran reported that a British invasion of Persia had begun recently at Lingah, on the Gulf of Persia, and that it was stated that the commander and officers of the British cruiser Prosopina had been wounded in a pitched battle.

It turns out, however, that the affair had nothing to do with Persia. Sixty men who had landed from the Prosopina near Chahbar, in Beluchistan, had a brush with Afghan guerrillas in which the captain of the Prosopina and another officer from the vessel were slightly wounded. Chahbar is 33 miles from Lingah and in another country.

OFFICERS CHOSEN

BY THE BUTLER CO-OPERATIVE BANK

The annual meeting of the shareholders of the J. B. Butler-Cooperative bank was held last night, the feature of the meeting being the election of officers for the ensuing year. During the course of the meeting the different officers submitted reports for the past year, all of which showed that the bank is in an excellent condition. The number of shareholders has increased during the year and the reserve fund has been increased after paying 1 1/2 per cent. interest each three months. The following officers were elected for the coming year: President, Fisher H. Pearson; vice president, Horace W. Clement; secretary and treasurer, Gardner W. Pearson; directors for three years, Melvin G. Rogers, Gardner W. Pearson and Wm. Cogger; auditing committee, Fred Sanborn, Samuel Farrell and James J. Henley.

The new series of shares beginning this month is numbered 26. Two lots of money were auctioned off at the meeting last night, a loan on shares being bid for at 8 per cent. and one on real estate at five per cent.

CHINESE AND

DONOGHUE LOST BOWLING GAMES

He Was Knocked Out
by Lewis

MANCHESTER, N. H., Nov. 5.—Billy Lewis of Concord knocked out Young Donoghue of Lawrence in seven rounds at the Queen City A. C. last night. The bouts were all 10 rounds and were refereed by Charles Kennedy. Lewis and Donoghue boxed wide open and at times both were reeling around the ring from the effects of each other's blows. Donoghue, after taking the count twice in the sixth and being felled five times in the seventh, was helped to his corner by his supporters at the instigation of the referee. Young Donoghue of this city made a punching bag of Eddie Golden of Albany. The New Yorker did not land three good punches during the bout, while McDonough jabbed and hooked till he was arm weary. Golden's ring experience saved him from a knock-out. He was badly punished, but kept under cover most of the way through the bout.

Kid Sheehan of this city lost to Tommy Pury in 19 rounds. The bout was fairly even up to the seventh. Sheehan stopping the Attleboro boy's rushes with a jab and countering with a right hook Pury's attacks on the body. In the seventh Pury went at his man fiercely and hammered him on head and body. Sheehan's left ear was as big as two. He evaded punishment by clever blocking and as clever foot-work.

It was announced that a benefit would be held for Patsy Sweeney of this city, some years ago one of the best in the lightweight division, who is now broken down in health. Some good boxers in the light and welterweight class will box in his behalf.

RACE TRACK NEWS

Matt J. Winn, general manager of the coming winter meeting at Juarez, Mexico, stakes for which closed at 12 o'clock Thursday night, has come here with a glowing account of the working of the pari-mutuel system of speculation as operated in Kentucky. Winn believes that the pari-mutuel system is the salvation of racing in this country and predicts that it will be employed by all the tracks in Canada before another year has passed.

"Racing is booming in Kentucky," said Winn Thursday, "and it is wholly due to the pari-mutuel. This form of betting has accomplished many fine things in the Blue State region. It has practically stamped out alleged crooked transactions. There are no plunders left and the touts and pickers, together with the old rife raff, have disappeared."

"Horse owners inclined to be dishonest have no crooked bookmakers with whom they can frame things up. As there is no way to cheat the public there's nothing in it for a jockey to pull a horse, and collusion between riders, trainers and the gamblers is impossible."

"The new system is a hard blow to handbooks and poolrooms, as no betting odds are written at the track and sometimes mutuels pay such big prices on winners that city jockeys cannot afford to pay them. The profits to the track owners from the machines are greater, and liberal purses, therefore, can be offered. The people of Kentucky have renewed confidence in racing and it is entirely due to the mutuel system."

"We are going to have a big meeting at Juarez this winter. Since last year we have made many improvements and are now in a position to offer the best inducements and conveniences to the horsemen. Juarez track is one of the finest in the world and with increased accommodations for horses and men we expect to score a brilliant success. The meeting will open on Nov. 24 and will continue for 100 days. We will race on Sundays and Mondays, which will be open. More than $300,000 in stakes and purses, an average of $3000 a day, will be distributed among the successful owners. There are no restrictions on open bookmaking in Mexico."

Winn again will have James Butler, Son of the late J. G. Hollinsbee, A. Daingerfield, Price McInnes and others associated with him in the conduct of the meeting. The entries received show that the stakes have attracted many of the best known horses and turfmen in this country.

Gifted Götlieb Walbaum has a poor opinion of some of the bookmakers who held up stakes at Pimlico. "They were pickers!" exclaimed Walbaum, with a show of indignation on Thursday. "They put up prices and wanted to bet on the race. Why, with a century note I could have made them jump over the fence!" Walbaum often looks for a return of the old days of Guttenberg, when as a member of the famous Big Four—McLaughlin, Crusius, Carr and Walbaum—he knew how to get the money without over-exerting.

The Coney Island Jockey club announces that the Lawrence Realization for the June meeting of 1912 at Sheepshead Bay will close on Nov. 16, also that declarations from the Realization of 1911 and 1912 and the Futurity of 1911 are due today.

LEMOINE'S BACK WRENCHED WEBSTER, Nov. 5.—Maurice Lemoine, the Webster welterweight, who was scheduled to meet Jimmie Moriarty of Lowell before the Lakeside A. C., Nov. 5, severely wrenched his back while training with Jeff Dougherty in his quarters yesterday afternoon and will be unable to meet Moriarty. Dougherty will be substituted.

Lively Contests on the
Alleys Last Night

The alleys were well patronized last night, owing to the inclement weather, and several good games were played. In the game between the Office and Electrical teams of the Electric Light League the former aggregation administered a stinging defeat to the opposing quintet. The Electrical team started wrong in the first string and though considerable improvement was shown as the game progressed the Office team had such a large margin that it was almost impossible to overcome it.

Two teams from the New England Telephone & Telegraph Co. battled on the alleys, the Steam team defeating the Construction team by nearly 100 pins. The Winding Room team of the Boston & Northern power house defeated the Car Barn team by a one-sided score. In the Minor League the Martins defeated the Lamson Rapids.

There were several other interesting games played, the scores of which will be found below:

JUDGE PARKER

Places Responsibility for the High Cost of Living

NEW YORK, Nov. 5.—Republican responsibility for the high cost of living and for extravagance and corruption in public life was the theme last night of the address delivered by former Judge Alton B. Parker at Prospect hall, Brookline. Nor did he forget to mention Theodore Roosevelt.

"If the republicans have vote for Dix on the same basis and in the same proportion that I believe they will vote up-state," prophesied the speaker, "who will be elected by a majority that will overwhelm any pretensions to a third term for the presidency of the United States."

"The republican candidate for governor and his leader seem most desirous of discussing the questions that seem to be of only passing moment in this campaign and refuse to consider the most serious question of all, the high cost of living. It is a practical question to say the least."

The head of the family who has a good wife, who cares for the children, finds it difficult to meet the demands of prevailing high prices, although the national wealth is mounting higher and higher each year. We realize that individual fortunes are mounting in a manner the like of which the world has never seen. Theodore Roosevelt admitted this was the crying evil of the day.

"The high cost of living takes from the pockets of the many for the benefit of the few. My proposition, which I will attempt to develop, is that large fortunes are due to high tariff rates and business associations formed in restraint of trade, with every advantage taken of the high tariff by those who form the associations. We should hold that party responsible which should in fact be charged with this."

"President Taft has been flouted by a republican congress but he is still of opinion that there should be a further reduction of the tariff. Roosevelt, during the seven and a half years he was president, never once lifted his voice for the reduction of these tariff rates. After he returned from Europe he investigated and he, too, agrees that there should be a reduction."

"Trusts are combinations in restraint of trade. There never was a more helpful instrument devised by man than the legitimately conducted corporation, but all those who are engaged in the upbuilding of corporations in restraint of trade belong to the trust class. There are in this country more than 1000 corporations organized in restraint of trade against the common law, the constitution of the United States and the constitution of every state in the Union. This has happened because of the debasing of manhood by the purchase of suffrage."

The speaker referred to the fact that $260,000 was raised by E. H. Harriman for the republican campaign of 1904 and added:

"The contribution of funds had become so common that even a president of the United States did not hesitate to appeal for those funds in the aid of his party."

As an instance of republican extravagance, Judge Parker quoted from a list of government employees which he said under Cleveland was 10,000, as against 100,000 under Roosevelt.

The independence league also sent three speakers last night. Clarence J. Shearn spoke once in Manhattan and once in Brooklyn, accusing the Metropolitan press of misrepresenting true popular opinion; John J. Hopper, the league candidate for governor spoke twice in Manhattan and twice in Brooklyn, on the alliance between private monopoly and public corruption, and William Randolph Hearst, the league candidate for lieutenant governor in two Brooklyn speeches defined the issues of the campaign as he sees them.

"The dominant issue of this campaign," he said, "is a trust issue. The high cost of living is mainly a trust issue and the whole cause of it can be made clear in six sentences."

"A trust is a combination to create a monopoly in a given product. The sole object of a monopoly is to eliminate competition."

"The main purpose of eliminating competition is to enable the trust to fix prices without interference."

"If you and I are competing we will each try to get trade by selling as cheaply as we can and if you buy me out and have no competitor, you will no longer sell as cheaply as you can, but as dearly as possible.

"When a trust has obtained a monopoly it continually increases the prices until a point is reached where the people refuse to buy."

"There will be no effective remedy for these conditions until the people elect their own representatives and not the trust representatives."

ADDRESSED FIVE RALLIES IN FALL RIVER

FALL RIVER, Nov. 5.—Gov. Draper appeared at five different rallies in the city of Fall River last night. He spent most of his time in discussing his action on labor measures, calling attention to the fact that of the 24 labor measures which had come before him during the past year, he had affixed his name to 23, the exception being the so-called eight hour bill, which he declared to be class legislation and to affect only a small part of the workmen of the state. He called particular attention to the workmen's compensation act which he declared to be the best piece of labor legislation that had been passed in 25 years in Massachusetts. He also discussed Foss' arguments on the tariff and Canada reciprocity, declaring that the democratic candidate would, if elected, be able to do nothing to further those things which he was making an issue in the election. Gov. Draper endorsed the work being done by President Taft and Sir Wilfrid Laurier, looking toward better trade conditions between Canada and the United States.

At one of his rallies, the one in the south end of the city, there was a slight disturbance. As the governor was leaving the hall a man rushed up to him and demanded to know what he was going to do about the high cost of living. A crowd quickly gathered but they were dispersed by the police.

Other speakers were Lieut. Gov. Frothingham, James M. Swift, candidate for attorney general, Congressman William S. Greene and William Ledoux of Boston.

An examination of candidates for the position of teacher in the elementary schools of Lowell will be held in the High school, Saturday June 3, 1911. Applicants must be graduates of an approved normal school or college, and must have had, at time of examination, one year's experience in teaching. The number to be accepted will be about fifteen, and the examination will include the following subjects: Principles of Teaching, Grammar and Language, Arithmetic, American History, including Civil Government.

Applicants must notify the secretary of the school committee of purpose to take this examination in writing by November 16, 1910.

MINNESOTA'S POWERFUL ELEVEN IN ACTION IN CHICAGO GAME

PHOTOS BY AMERICAN PRESS ASS'N

MINNEAPOLIS, Nov. 4.—Now that they have the western conference title practically clinched, Minnesota's men are looking forward to the game with Michigan for the all western title to be played at Ann Arbor Nov. 19. Last year the Gopher eleven won the conference title, but lost the all western championship to the Michigan mon. Many experts here claim that the absence of Lisle Johnson, who broke his left leg in the game with Nebraska, cost the Gopher eleven the championship. This year Johnson is playing better than ever, and with McGovern,

All American quarterback, putting up his best game it is certain these players will be big factors in the battle with Michigan. Rosenwald and Stevens, the halfbacks, are fast and powerful, and with such brilliant players many experts here figure Minnesota has a splendid chance of winning the all western title. With such a galaxy of stars in the back field and with a strong, heavy line which should be able to hold long enough to allow the backs to pull off any plays they wish, the Minnesota eleven has given a great exhibition of modernized football. In

Johnson and McGovern Minnesota has two of the most brilliant field runners in the country. Johnson in particular is a great dagger, who possesses the ability to size up a field in a hurry and tear through it with the agility of any of the players who have made football reputations by being able to run in the open. McGovern is a close second to his teammate, and as these two players catch and return punts the Michigan team will have to be careful not to give them too many advantages. Illustration shows scenes in Minnesota-Chicago game in which the Gophers defeated the Maroons by a score of 24 to 0. In picture No. 1 arrow shows Rosenwald making touchdown; No. 2, Quarterback McGovern holding ball, awaiting referee's decision. In this game McGovern kicked four goals. In No. 3 arrow on extreme right shows Captain Johnson carrying ball with McGovern opening up Chicago's line. The Minnesota's next game is with Wisconsin at Minneapolis Nov. 12.

VOTED PARK LOAN CARMICHAEL BY 2000

The Common Council Reversed Its Action of Previous Meeting

Question of Dummer Street Extension Reopened and Referred to Special Committee

Both branches of the city council held special meetings last night and voted to borrow $10,000 for the development of Shedd park.

This was the very purpose for which Mayor Meehan called the special meetings. At its meeting Tuesday night the common council killed the original Shedd park order for $10,000. The action of the council was a great surprise and Mayor Meehan believed that if given another chance the council would vote the money for the development of the park.

In calling the special meetings, however, the mayor believed better than he knew for the common council didn't stop at reversing its position in the Shedd park matter. The council also voted reconsideration of its action in accepting the adverse report of the committee on streets in connection with Dummer street extension and, on motion of Councilman Dow who introduced the minority report and who stood alone on the committee on streets as in favor of the Dummer street extension, the council voted to appoint a committee of three councilmen and two aldermen to act with the city solicitor and inspector of buildings in the matter of the extension. This action reopened the whole question.

Another change of front on the part of the common council had to do with the police auto patrol and an automobile for the fire chief. Last night the council voted to borrow $5000 for a police patrol and $2000 for an automobile for the chief of the fire department. At the last meeting the council refused to vote the money.

Board of Aldermen

Chairman Gray called to order at 8 o'clock with eight members present. Alderman Carmichael was not in favor of $5000 for an auto police patrol. He said he did not believe in paying interest on $5000 for ten years. "It is not the right kind of financing and it is not fair to the taxpayers," he said. When the question of voting to borrow the money was put, Mr. Carmichael voted against it. The other seven members voted in favor. Alderman Qua was the absentee.

A recess of one hour was voted in order that the common council might be heard from on the question of the $10,000 loan for Shedd park. As soon as the common council voted the loan it was sent to the board of aldermen and was adopted by the aldermen in concurrence.

Common Council

There were 27 members present when President Jewett called to order at 8:40 o'clock. The joint order providing that the park commission be asked to name the Anne street park "Lucy Larcum park" was adopted in concurrence. The $10,000 loan order for the development of Shedd park, introduced by Councilman Chapman was read.

Councilman Genest moved that the order be made for $5000. Instead of $10,000. The motion was seconded by Councilman Gookin.

Councilman Chapman said it seemed strange to him that councilmen should hesitate in voting for the $10,000. He said it was generally understood that the money was to be used to double the amount of the city council would vote it. He said that the city council should show proper appreciation of Mr. Shedd's generosity.

Councilman Genest—"I don't see any reason why we should vote to borrow $10,000 for this park at this time. It is too late now to expend that amount of money, and what is the use of paying interest on money that is not being used?"

Councilman Donahue—"It would be very unfair for us to do anything other than to vote the original amount, $10,000. The landscape architect and members of the park commission have told us that work to the amount of $10,000 can be done this year and we ought to vote the money."

Councilman Sullivan—"I think the councilman shows poor discretion in suggesting that the amount be cut to $5000. If the $10,000 is appropriated tonight, work on the park will begin at once."

Councilman Gookin—"The landscape architect can't figure on the weather any more than anybody else and he cannot tell if the weather will continue fair long enough to do the work for which the $10,000 is intended. It ought not to pay interest on $10,000 if $5000 will do."

Councilman Flanagan—"I sincerely hope that this order will pass tonight. The architect explained that the work should be done this year and that the skating rink will be ready for use this winter. I hope the council will vote to appropriate the money."

Councilman Gargan, who voted in favor of the $10,000 loan in the first place, quickly urged the final passage last night as the best policy to adopt under the circumstances. He believed the city might lose by delay.

Councilman Achin—"I approve of $5000 for the park, but to show my appreciation of Mr. Shedd's generosity I will vote for $10,000."

Councilman Butler—"I feel that this order should pass tonight. I have talked with a number of heavy taxpayers and I found that they were all in favor of it."

Councilman Royal—"I voted against the $10,000 loan order at the last meeting because I thought that $5000 was enough for this time, and I still think so. I will vote for $5000, and if that doesn't go, I will vote for the $10,000 order."

A ye and nay vote was taken on the question of passing the order as amended, and the amendment was lost, 21 to 6.

The Order Adopted
The question then came on the original proposition to borrow $10,000. The vote showed 26 in favor and 1 against. Mr. Howe voted against it. On motion of Councilman Tracey the vote was

Democratic Candidate Makes Prediction on Result

Republicans Concede That Foss Will Carry Lowell by 3000 Votes—What the Other Candidates Are Doing

The state campaign is fast drawing to a close and all indications point to a general democratic victory.

Last year Mr. Vahey carried Lowell by 2500 and the fifth congressional district by nearly 2800.

This year even republicans concede that Mr. Foss will carry Lowell by 3000, and while Ames' men of course will not admit that their pet is to be defeated they are worrying greatly and are inclined to criticize Col. Ames for giving so much attention to his contest with Lodge and so little to his congressional contest. Since the publication of the Ames' letter to Lodge, they are more worried than ever. With the democratic vote of the district behind him there is no doubt that Col. Carmichael will be elected. He has made a fine campaign and has addressed voters in every corner of the district. He has drawn hundreds of republicans to him and also has drawn back many of the so-called Ames' democrats of both Lowell and Lawrence. The fact that Congressman Ames has employed democrats to assist him in his contest for the senate should not influence any democratic voter away from his duty toward the candidate of the party of the people. Foss, Cassidy and Carmichael are winners.

In conversation with the writer today Col. Carmichael said:

"I expect to carry the fifth district by about 2000 votes. I am confident that I will receive the democratic vote of Lowell and Lawrence. Conditions that prevailed in congressional campaigns in days gone by have entirely disappeared. The convention which nominated me was thoroughly harmonious and since that time the democrats of Lawrence have assured me of their support. I am receiving daily most encouraging reports from the towns and the assurances of support from republican sources have really surprised me. Lowell has ever given me a handsome vote and if I receive my party vote in this city I am confident that my majority will be in the vicinity of 2000."

The Senatorial Contests

While all the noise of the campaign has been made in the interest of the big guns of the party, the senatorial and representative candidates have not been idle but have been canvassing their respective districts by personal solicitation and have worked untiringly. Candidate Philip Kiely in the seventh senatorial district has aroused great interest in his cause among the democrats of wards five and nine.

made unanimous. The joint order to borrow $2000 for the fire chief's new automobile was adopted, 23 to 4. Councilman Flanagan moved reconsideration at the next meeting, he, having voted in the minority.

The joint order to borrow $5000 for a police patrol was read and unanimously passed. At the last meeting the council refused to vote the money. On motion of Councilman Flanagan it was voted to omit the next regular meeting.

The Dummer street extension came up on Councilman Dow's motion to reconsider the action whereby the council at its last meeting voted to adopt the majority report of the committee on streets, that Dummer street be not extended.

A ye and nay vote was taken and it showed 17 for reconsideration and 10 against.

"I asked for reconsideration," said Mr. Dow, "because I believed that further consideration of the question was due the petitioners. This matter has been before the public for 20 years and I believe that the acceptance of the majority report would not be in accordance with the city's best interests; and I move that the matter be turned over to a committee consisting of three members of the common council and two members of the board of aldermen and that this committee be assisted by the city solicitor and inspector of buildings, and that both majority and minority reports be referred to this committee."

Councilman Gookin opposed the motion on the ground that the committee on streets had gone into the matter thoroughly.

Councilman Genest said he didn't know what Councilman Dow meant by referring the matter to a special committee. Mr. Genest is a member of the committee on streets and he said that the committee had considered the matter very carefully before recommending that the petitioners for the extension of Dummer street be given leave to withdraw.

Councilman Flanagan said he was opposed to the special committee. He said it looked like a slap at the street committee and he allowed that that committee was all right.

Councilman Dow said that the petition had been signed by 136 persons, and he didn't believe that the signers of the petition expected the city council to make a farce of the matter.

Councilman Flanagan moved that the two reports be referred back to the committee on streets.

Councilman John Davis was opposed to this motion. He allowed that the committee on streets would adhere to its former action if the matter should be recommended.

Councilman Flanagan's motion was put and lost. Councilman Gookin passed a little "plumage" to Councilman Dow. He said he was fully in favor of Mr. Dow's attitude throughout and admired him for standing up in his boots and bringing in a minority report. He did not believe, however, in the proposition for a special committee.

The question then came on Mr. Dow's motion for a special committee and it was voted. The vote was 17 to 10. Adjourned.

Heretofore the democrats of that district, particularly those in Lowell, took but little interest in the senatorial nominations as they believed they had no chance to elect Mr. Kiely, a clean cut man, a forcible speaker and backed up by a fine legislative record, has come to Lowell and assured the voters of wards five and nine that with their support he can win, and will win.

In the eighth district the democrats are fortunate in having a strong candidate in the person of Hon. Fisher H. Pearson, who was the first democrat of recent years to break into the senate from these parts which had been specially gerrymandered in the interest of the republican party. Mr. Pearson knows how to conduct a campaign and has left no stone unturned to bring about success. While a member of the senate he made a creditable record and has received the endorsement of organized labor in this section. Mr. Pearson will receive a big vote in the seven wards of the city while he has a wide acquaintance in the towns, and thoroughly canvassed them.

The Representatives

In only three districts are there contests, as the others are foregone conclusions, as it were.

In the 14th, 17th and 19th the democracy has a chance and the candidates therein are improving every opportunity.

In the 14th district the democracy is particularly fortunate in having as its candidate James H. Rogers, who, while at present a well known and popular resident of ward one, has also resided for years in Braintree and was a member of the school board in that town, so that he is thoroughly known to men of both parties in both sections of the district. Mr. Rogers has a clean record, is in every way competent to fill the position with credit to himself and his district, and having been a student of Braintree knows the town needs as well as those of the city.

In the 17th there has always been a chance for a democrat as John J. McMahon, James E. O'Donnell and others have won against strong republicans in the past. The democrats present Messrs. Stephen Monahan and Thomas J. Dowd, the candidates in this district, both having made excellent runs last year. Mr. Monahan is the well known employee of the Lowell Gas Light company and a member of the Lowell Cadet band and Musicians union. Mr. Golden is a member of Lowell league of Rika and the Theatrical Mechanics union. Both are most desirable candidates and should receive their full party vote.

Another Term for Cuff

A battle-royal is on in the 19th district where Representative Thomas S. Cuff is seeking a second term with Lawyer Frederic P. Marble as his republican opponent. Mr. Marble has been "selected" to bring the district back to the republican ranks. But the voters after one year of Mr. Cuff's stewardship are not at all desirous of making a change this year. Those who voted for him last year are thoroughly satisfied with his action while many who did not vote for him last year will do so this year as the result of the fine showing that he made during his first year in the legislature. Seldom does a representative get an opportunity to distinguish himself in the eyes of his district during his first year at the house but Rep. Cuff proved to be a notable exception and jumped to prominence among his colleagues in his first year. He was one of the most popular members in the house and one of its leading vote getters. He says little, but does much. He was one of the principal supporters of the corporation tax bill which meant hundreds of thousands of dollars to Lowell and he secured many votes for the measure through his personal popularity. The town of Tewksbury owes him a lasting debt of gratitude for getting through the bill to reimburse cities and towns for taxes lost through the establishment of state institutions. This bill meant thousands of dollars to Tewksbury and his speech on the floor of the house gained many votes for it while the bill among the legislators was known as "Cuff's Hobby" as he is lacking debt or to reimburse cities and towns for taxes lost through the establishment of state institutions.
